SENATE BACKS REPEAL PLAN; VOTE IS 63-23

Blaine Submission Resolution Adopted.

CAUCUS TODAY OF DEMOCRATS

Question to Come Up in House Monday; Passage Seen.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

The last lame duck session of the Senate yesterday sat beneath the intent eyes of half of the members of the House and crowded galleries and voted, 63 to 23, to submit to special State conventions a proposal to wipe prohibition out of the Constitution.

The House, which failed by only six votes to approve a repeal resolution on the first day of the session, will pass on the question again on Monday. Immediately after the Senate had adopted the repeal resolution which bears the name of Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, Representative Henry T. Rainey (Democrat), of Illinois, majority floor leader in the House, conferred with Speaker John N. Garner and issued a call for a party caucus to consider the proposition this afternoon.

Representative Rainey, Speaker Garner and Representatives Bertrand H. Snell (Republican), of New York, minority leader in the House, predicted the requisite two-thirds would vote for the resolution Monday.

Senate Tensely Quiet.

The crowded Senate was tensely quiet as the vote was taken in mid-afternoon. Only the diplomatic gallery was not filled, and that was graced with the presence of Ambassador von Prittwitz und Gaffron and others. The gallery reserved for members of Senators' families was crowded to overflowing with their wives and daughters and other relatives and friends, many of whom were forced to stand in the aisle. Every other gallery was packed, and outside the doors, in the corridors, were hundreds of others unable to find a place inside. They included men and women, old and young, wets and drys, some stylishly and expensively dressed, and here and there a laborer in overalls.

Almost every senator was in his seat as 3 o'clock, the hour fixed to

Guy Is Acquitted In Yacht Slaying

Jury Frees Adventurer Accused of Murdering Wanderwell.

Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—William James Guy, youthful Welsh adventurer, was acquitted tonight of a charge of murder in the slaying of Capt. Walter Wanderwell aboard the yacht Carma last December 5.

The verdict came soon after the case was given into the hands of the jury of nine men and three women by Superior Judge Robert W. Kenny. Although juries ordinarily are locked up for the night at 10 p. m., a "grapevine" report through a bailiff that there were indications of agreement caused Judge Kenny to permit the deliberations to continue. The verdict followed shortly.

Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, attractive widow of the globe trotter, today obtained court permission to sell the yacht Carma to John T. Branson, of the California Zoological Gardens.

NEW SCHOOL LUNCH ORDERS APPROVED

Corporation Counsel Favors Broadening Scope of Midmorning Meal.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride late yesterday announced his approval of the two orders of the Board of Education broadening the scope of the midmorning lunches for school children. His opinion will be submitted to the District Commissioners today, in answer to a request for a ruling by the Rev. P. I. A. Bennett, colored member of the board, who expressed fear Wednesday that the distribution of free food would encourage the spread of communism.

The first order of the board, providing that contributions might be used to supplement milk and crackers in the midmorning lunch period with such food as may be approved by Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, chief medical inspector for the schools, was held "within the authority" of the board.

As to the second order, which would make available school cooking facilities for the use of approved organizations in cooking and serving hot meals to needy children or homes, Mr. Bride questioned its legality, but suggested that it be approved any way. He stated in his opinion:

"Because of the existing conditions I do not feel that these statutes should be construed strictly, but on the contrary, I do feel that until the economic situation improves, the Board of Education is fully justified in approving both recommendations in toto, provided, of course, that the use of the school facilities for general relief does not interfere with their use for school purposes."

Mr. Bride's questioning was directed at that portion of the order which would extend relief to the homes. He said there is no doubt that the board is authorized to permit the use of school facilities for the purpose of cooking hot meals to serve needy children.

Quoting a portion of an act approved March 4, 1915, and intended to regulate the use of schools and grounds in the District, Mr. Bride pointed out: "That the public school buildings and grounds of the District of Columbia shall be used for no purpose whatsoever other than those directly connected with the public school system."

Commuters' Train Speeds Driverless

Halted Finally by Automatic Control as Engineer Is Fatally Hurt.

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A commuters' train ran driverless for a short distance late today when the engineer was injured fatally as he sat at the throttle.

Engineer Harry Warren, 57, of Albany, was knocked unconscious when he leaned out of the cab window as the train ran under a bridge at Menands. The train ran on until stopped by an automatic train control device in the same village.

When another train stopped behind the halted train, Harry Warren, jr., 26, son of the engineer and a passenger on the second train, ran forward to learn of the injury to his father. He accompanied the engineer to a hospital where he died.

DAWES ADMITS BANK ERROR AT INSULL INQUIRY

YOUNG BARES G. E. LOAN OF $2,000,000

Board of Commerce Claims "Mysterious Influence" Impedes Probe.

(Associated Press.)

With characteristic brusque frankness, Charles G. Dawes acknowledged to a Senate committee yesterday that his Chicago bank had "violated the principle of the law" in loans to the collapsed Insull utilities companies.

Ruefully admitting that "the retrospect of the average banker is a sad one," the former Vice President testified that his institution, the Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., of Chicago, with capital and surplus of $24,000,000 had loaned $11,000,000 to the far-flung Insull enterprises.

He agreed that this violated the principle of a law intended to prevent banks from "putting too many eggs in one basket," but said when the loans were made they "were all supposed to be well secured."

Collateral on $90,000,000.

These securities, he said, are now all held by the Reconstruction Corporation as collateral on its $90,000,000 advance to his bank.

Dawes' testimony climaxed a whirlwind day for the stock market investigators, during which they were told there were discrepancies between income tax returns and public statements of earnings made by Insull companies, and heard Owen D. Young describe his efforts to save the tumbling Insull structure.

While their inquiry was in progress, a delegation from the Manhattan Board of Commerce presented a petition to Vice President Curtis protesting that "some mysterious influence seems to have been interfering" with the investigation.

Slowly and Deliberately.

Young, testifying slowly and deliberately, told of a "feeling of helplessness" when he began to examine the complicated structure of the Insull

5,000 Jobless Evicted From Seattle City Hall

Seattle, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A two-day siege of the County-City Building by an army of about 5,000 unemployed was ended early tonight, deputy sheriffs and police evicting the demonstrators after nearly two hours of effort.

With Sheriff Claude G. Bannick's entire force of deputies and 100 policemen at the scene, the demonstrators were led out of the building with little violence on either side.

Fascists at Oxford Raid Pacifist Hall

Collegians Destroy Pledge Not to Fight for King and Country.

Oxford, England, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Green-shirted Fascists raided the hall of the Oxford Union tonight and tore from the minute book the pages containing a motion, adopted last week, "That this house will in no circumstance fight for its king and country."

A meeting was well under way when the great double doors were burst open and in came a group of about 20 Fascist undergraduates, led by two 6-footers. Amid tense silence they strode to the chairman's rostrum, where four or five of them leaned over, seized the minute book and tore the sheets from it while the others grouped around them. Then they reformed and marched out.

The president afterward announced he had received two consignments of 275 white feathers each—two white feathers for every man who had voted for the motion. Neither consignment, he said, came from women's colleges.

Gov. Ely to Pass Upon Crawford Case Today

Boston, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Gov. Joseph B. Ely today indicated he would announce his decision tomorrow on the request of the State of Virginia for the extradition of George Crawford, Negro, wanted for trial on murder charges.

Virginia seeks to try Crawford for the slayings of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley and her maid, Mrs. Nina Buckner, at Middleburg, Va., January 18, 1932. Mrs. Ilsley, wealthy and socially prominent, and her maid were beaten to death in a cottage on the Ilsley estate apparently by burglars.

Nice, France, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Magda Lupescu, friend of King Carol of Roumania, was reported today to have taken refuge on the Riviera as a result of difficulties in Bucharest.

Reports said she crossed the border last night and was staying at Mentone, but police said there was no record of her there.

Bucharest was the scene of a bloody battle between police and workers who barricaded themselves in railroad shops.

3 ECKLUND MURDER SUSPECTS LOSE TILT

Facing Execution, They Say Alleged Confessions Came by Undue Influence.

In a desperate effort to stave off the specter of the electric chair which Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins has raised before them, three of the defendants in the Ecklund murder case yesterday took the stand to charge their alleged confessions to the killing were obtained by undue influence.

Though the three admitted that no policemen had beat them or used undue violence, they asserted that implied promises of leniency had influenced them in signing the confessions.

After a three-hour battle over the admissibility of the alleged confessions, Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue sustained the contentions of Mr. Collins and ordered the alleged confessions could be introduced.

The men who are on trial for their lives for the murder of Einer H. Ecklund, during an attempted robbery of a pay roll near the new House Office Building on January 20, will hear their alleged confessions when the court again convenes on Monday.

Albert E. Cash, who is accused by the Government as the conceiver and planner of the holdup, took the stand and said:

"They (the police) took me to the

PLAN TO BOOST DISTRICT FUNDS GIVEN SETBACK

6 Different Amendments Are Voted Down in House Action.

REGISTER OF WILLS IS DENIED INCREASE

Smith Proposal to Continue Two Incinerators Beaten After Luce Plea.

Efforts to restore the sharply cut District appropriation bill to budget estimates met with severe setbacks yesterday when an economy-minded House defeated six different amendments sponsored by minority members of the House District Appropriation Committee.

With a proposal pending to allow nonresident children of Government employes and Army and Navy officials the right to free instruction in the District schools, consideration of remaining items in the bill went over until tomorrow noon.

The nonresident amendment, proposed by Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia, merely continues a provision of the present law, but it is hotly opposed by Democratic members of the appropriations committee.

Blanton Loses Attempt.

Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, unsuccessfully raised a point of order against it. A provision in the bill would require all nonresident children to pay tuition. An amendment by Representative Stephen W. Gambrill (Democrat) Maryland, to strike the entire clause, was defeated yesterday, 12 to 11.

Earlier in the day, Representative William P. Holaday (Republican), Illinois, a member of the committee failed in several efforts to increase appropriations to the amounts asked by responsible District officials. He believes they were unjustly cut by the committee.

Withdraws Amendment.

Mr. Holaday had an amendment to permit the District to continue its two high-temperature incinerators, in lieu of the bill's proposal to abandon them and dump refuse in the Anacostia flats. He withdrew his amendment in favor of an identical proposal by Representative Smith.

In face of a statement by Representative Robert Luce (Republican), Massachusetts, father of the Anacostia arboretum project, that the dumping of trash would ruin the soil for the growth of foliage and trees, unless a thick covering of silt was laid over it the House rejected the Smith amendment.

Representative Holaday repeatedly questioned the accuracy of statements

Harvard Gets Message On Comet's Discovery

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Harvard observatory today announced receipt of a telegram from L. C. Peltier, at Delphos, Ohio, announcing discovery of a sixth magnitude comet. The position was given as: Right ascension, 22 hours 48 minutes; declination 62 degrees north.

Peltier is a prominent member of the American Association of variable star observers.

W. C. T. U. Leader's Husband Indicted in Alcohol Combine

Scott Sloan Durand, 63-Year-Old Sugar Dealer, Among 75 Accused of Operating Mammoth Business With Profits Running Into Millions.

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Federal grand jury indicted 75 persons today in the alleged operation of a mammoth alcohol combine, with profits of $2,000,000 or more a year.

The indictments covered 75 typewritten pages. Prosecutors announced Federal operatives worked for a year under Elliot Ness, the Federal agent, who obtained prohibition violation evidence against Al Capone, to obtain the evidence.

Among the defendants were Scott Sloan Durand, 63-year-old sugar dealer whose wife, Mrs. Grace Garrett Durand, has been an active member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, a writer and a clubwoman, and Joseph Peskin, of Chicago, reputed "corn sugar king."

Assistant United States Attorney Walter E. Wiles said evidence indicated the syndicate purchased 60,000,000 pounds of sugar and 2,000,000 pounds of yeast during the last three years and manufactured 6,000,000 gallons of alcohol. Peskin's profit on sugar sales was $50,000 a month Wiles said, and 60 stills were operated in Chicago.

The official said prosecution of Durand and Peskin would be based on allegations that they knew the products they sold to leaders in the liquor combine would be used for alcohol manufacturing.

Also indicted were Maurice M. and R. D. Fink, owners of the Sugar Supply Corporation, and Herman Lobenson, Chicago broker for the Union Starch & Refining Co., with plants at Columbus, Ind., and Granite City, Ill.

Other indictments were against "cookers," truck drivers, salesmen, and minor employes, some allegedly Capone agents.

Bonds for Durand and other major defendants were fixed at $5,000 each. Wiles said he would prosecute under the Jones prohibition law providing drastic penalties.

'I WILL PULL THROUGH,' CERMAK SAYS; FLORIDA ACTS TO AVENGE SHOTS

Roosevelt Describes Attempt on His Life

On Train North, President-Elect Tells How He Stopped Car to Carry Cermak, Whose Heart, He Believed, Stopped.

En Route With President-elect Roosevelt to New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Grieved deeply by the wounding of five persons in an attack upon himself, President-elect Roosevelt regards the incident as the work of one man and he contemplates no change whatever in his regular energetic habits of outdoors activity.

Revealing that for a while he thought Mayor Anton J. Cermak's "heart had stopped" and that it was only upon his own insistence that his automobile stopped long enough to pick up the wounded Chicago official, the President-elect today gave his version of the unsuccessful attempt last night upon his life.

As he traveled northward to New York, after having visited Mayor Cermak and the others wounded in the Miami hospital, Mr. Roosevelt calmly spent his time reading and conversing.

"As he (Cermak) moved away (from the Roosevelt car) a man came forward with a long telegram and started telling me what it contained," Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen who urged him to permit his account of the shooting to be published.

"Just then I heard what I thought was a firecracker, then several more. The man talking with me pulled back and the chauffeur started the car.

"I looked around and saw Mayor Cermak doubled up, with Mrs. Gill collapsing. I told the chauffeur to stop. He did, about 15 feet from where we started. The Secret Service men shouted to him 'Get out of the crowd.' The chauffeur started again

TAX REFUND RIDER HALTS POSTAL BILL

Conferees on Treasury Cash Measure Far Apart on Four Issues.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The conference deadlock on the Treasury-Postoffice bill tightened yesterday, when the latest McKellar tax refund amendment, fraught with possibilities of a White House veto, injected a new element of dissension.

Conferees still were poles apart on four major issues—Senate elimination of the $10,000,000 air mail subsidy, tax refunds, the Bratton 5 per cent appropriation slashes and reorganization powers for the President.

On one minor item they were agreed—that the Connally amendment, denying retirement pay to officers drawing $10,000 from private civil employment, should be stricken from the bill.

With prospects fast fading of any agreement this week, members found themselves enmeshed in a fresh controversy on the McKellar proposal, requiring the Board of Tax Appeals to pass on all tax refunds over $20,000.

The President vetoed the provision as originally embodied in the first deficiency bill. This provided for a congressional tax-refund review. One conferee argued yesterday Mr. Hoover might veto it again in its altered

Colombia and Peru Battle at 2 Places

Brazil Hears of Land, River and Air Attack in Leticia Warfare.

Para, Brazil, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Reports received here today were that fighting between Colombian and Peruvian forces in the Leticia region had occurred not only at Tarapaca but also at the Colombian base at Encanto, about 200 miles up the Putumayo River from Tarapaca.

The reports, which gave no details, were that a "land, river and air force attacked the Colombians at Encanto." Encanto is opposite the Peruvian town of Puerto Arturo.

It also was reported that the Peruvians had counter-attacked at Tarapaca. The result of the counter-attack was not known.

Boettcher's Wife Fails To Identify One Suspect

Denver, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Anna Lou Boettcher was unable today to identify Arnold Swanson, former Denver policeman, as one of two men who kidnaped her wealthy husband, Charles Boettcher 3d.

Swanson was released by operatives of the district attorney's office.

Holdup Wounds Fatal To Train's Conductor

San Bernardino, Calif., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Conductor J. U. G. Caster, who shot and killed a bandit in a gun fight last night on the Southern Pacific Golden State limited, died from wounds today in the Colton Hospital.

The shooting took place when the man was holding up passengers in the observation car of the train as it sped eastward.

EXTRA GUARD TODAY AT CAPITAL STATION

Heavy Details Ordered Out for Roosevelt's Passage Through City.

A guard of 75 uniformed policemen and 15 plain-clothes men late yesterday was ordered thrown around Union Station today as the train bearing President-elect Roosevelt passes through Washington en route to New York.

Heavy details of railroad detectives, Secret Service men and Department of Justice men also will be on duty, it was indicated as the Roosevelt train sped northward from the scene of Wednesday night's attempt on the life of the next President.

The strong protective measures formed a reflection of intensified plans for guarding the President-elect and other notables during inauguration ceremonies here March 4.

Four hundred Marines, nearly 300 out-of-town policemen and the Washington police force will not be augmented, under plans being rechecked yesterday, but precautionary measures were already being greatly elaborated.

Secret Service operatives already ordered from other points here for the inaugural ceremonies are expected to be greatly reinforced.

The Marine and police forces in the Capital on Inauguration Day will be heavily armed and ready for any emergency, officials declared yesterday.

Queries as to the possible use of added military strength in Washington during the inaugural events, brought from officials statements pointing out that several thousand men in Naval and Coast Guard, Army and Marine detachments will be here with full equipment to march in the parade.

It was pointed out that upon proper authority these troops could quickly be thrown into any breach.

Two hundred of the extra policemen for the inaugural ceremonies will be drawn from Baltimore, under present plans, and 75 plain-clothes men from Eastern and Middle Western cities.

Expenses incurred by bringing in the out-of-town law officers will be defrayed out of a $25,000 fund provided for the inaugural public order committee. About $10,000 has been estimated as the extra police cost, with $11,000 of the fund going to paying for other functions. About $4,000 left would be available if further policemen are drawn from other cities.

Gibson Rejects Scheme Of Civil Flying Control

Geneva, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Hugh Gibson, American representative in the world disarmament conference, told his colleagues today that the United States can not accept international supervision of civil aviation.

Without such supervision, said the British spokesman, who advocated it, abolition of military aircraft will be impossible.

Buenos Aires, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Capt. James A. Mollison reached here this evening from Rio de Janeiro, completing the first flight from England to Argentina in seven flying days.

Zangara Will Face Murder Attempt Charges.

GUARD IN JAIL IS INCREASED

Mayor and Mrs. Gill Reported to Be Improving.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Concerted action to bring to justice Giuseppe Zangara, curly-haired assassin, was pressed by the State of Florida tonight while Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, one of five victims of bullets intended for President-elect Roosevelt, sent word to friends that "I'm going to pull through for Chicago."

Rumors that an attempt might be made to kidnap and kill Zangara caused Sheriff Dan Hardie tonight to bar all persons from the county jail, where the prisoner is lodged.

A more hopeful condition for Mayor Cermak was noted in the bulletin issued by his physician at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

The bulletin read:

"Mayor Cermak's rest continues to be broken only for short intervals. His pulse is 96 and of satisfactory quality. Temperature 99.6 and respiration 20. The blood pressure has recovered to normal level. The patient is requiring much less sedatives."

Mayor "Should Recover."

Earlier statements indicated that Mayor Cermak's condition was encouraging and that he had a restful afternoon. Hospital officials said no surgery was indicated at this time and that barring complications which might arise in the next three or four days, Mayor Cermak should recover.

Meanwhile, as Roosevelt sped northward to New York by train, the President-elect related graphic details of the attempted assassination before massed thousands in Bay Front Park last night.

The assassin was charged with an attempt to murder the next President of the United States in an information drawn up by Charles A. Morehead, county solicitor. Three other similar charges were drawn against the gunman, each charge carrying a maximum penalty of 20 years in State prison.

Woman In Serious Condition.

The bullets intended for Mr. Roosevelt missed their mark and dangerously wounded Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Joe H. Gill, of Miami, who were standing nearby in a tremendous crowd which had greeted Mr. Roosevelt in Bay Front Park after he landed from a fishing trip in nearby waters.

The condition of Mrs. Gill, who was shot in the stomach, was slightly improved tonight. Three other persons, Russell Caldwell, of Cocoanut Grove, Fla.; William Sinnott, New York City detective, and Miss Margaret Kruis, of Newark, N. J., suffered less serious wounds and were reported resting easy.

The informations, drawn up by the county solicitor, were based on attempts on the life of Mr. Roosevelt

WIFE OF ROOSEVELT WON'T ASK GUARDS

Declares She Will Go Ahead and Do as She Has Always Done.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a written statement tonight, said she would not ask for further protection for her husband as a result of the attack on his life last night, and that so far as asking for protection for herself was concerned, she could not imagine "living in fear of a possible death."

Mrs. Roosevelt gave out the statement in reply to a number of requests that she express herself on the subject and suggestions that she should ask for Secret Service protection for herself and her children, and for additional protection for her husband.

(While she was making this statement, it was learned officially in New York that authorities would urge that both Mrs. Roosevelt and the President-elect take further precautions and make use of additional protection.)

Lines Betray Fatigue.

Mrs. Roosevelt's statement follows:

"I have been asked by a number of people as to my attitude, in view of recent occurrences, toward seeking protection for myself and for my family, and additional protection for my husband.

"I do not believe in advising as to what precautions are necessary for my husband. This incident has undoubtedly not disturbed him except for his anxiety for those who were injured.

"As far as I am concerned, I can not imagine living in fear of possible death.

"ELEANOR ROOSEVELT."

Lines of fatigue on her face were the only outward signs of the strain she had undergone last night when reports of the attempt on the President-elect's life trickled in.

"The only thing you can do is just to go along and not think about such things any more than you have to," she said, with a quiet smile.

And her nerves were steady as she went through a busy day's routine, referring to last night's shooting only when questions were put to her.

Determined on Plan.

She also expressed a determination to carry out her plan to drive in her roadster, with her two dogs, to Washington for the inauguration.

"If I should have to change my plan to drive to Washington," she said, "it certainly would not be for that reason, but because I may find it will be impossible for me to get away quietly as I want to do."

In New York it was learned that many of Mrs. Roosevelt's friends and associates planned a concerted effort to dissuade her from driving to the Capital.

"I am going right ahead and do as I've always done," was the general program outlined by the woman who is soon to be the Nation's First Lady.

"If they want to get you, they can, and so the only thing you can do is just go along and not think about such things any more than you have to.

Silently Shakes Head.

"We all realize that things like this may happen. There is nothing we can do, nothing any one can do. Any one can shoot a man in public life if he doesn't mind getting caught and suffering the consequences. And people who do that, don't mind getting caught, because they're off balance."

Last night and early this morning Mrs. Roosevelt had been inclined to believe that Giuseppe Zangara had not intended to shoot her husband.

When she was told Zangara had said he meant to kill the President-elect, she sighed and silently shook her head.

Earlier in the day she had remarked: "Whether he intended to shoot Franklin or not doesn't matter. This thing is apt to happen to you when you are in public life, and you've got to face it."

Tells of Childhood.

With the calmness she had herself prescribed, Mrs. Roosevelt stood for nearly an hour before an audience of 3,000 that filled all the seats and packed the aisles of Bailey Hall at Cornell University and talked cheerfully in a soft, well-modulated voice of her childhood at her grandmother's home in Tivoli, N. Y., and of the necessity for farm women broadening their mental horizons in these days of chance.

The rest of her day's routine included a breakfast with members of the Cornell faculty and leaders of various State organizations, at which the discussion was all about economics and farmers; a lecture on economics at the university; a luncheon, at which was served a new and cheap food product devised by Cornell scientists; a tea party, and tonight, the master farmers' dinner, at which Gov. Lehman was the speaker.

The wife of the President-elect planned to return to New York on a late train tonight.

Legion Chief Warns Reds to Be Careful

Johnson Pledges Support of Government if Aid Is Needed.

Augusta, Me., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, before a joint convention of the Maine Legislature, today departed from a prepared speech to attack Communism in connection with the attempted assassination of President-elect Roosevelt.

"There is nothing in common between the Communists and the American Legion," he said, "and on this day when a man has tried to kill the next President I want to place the American Legion on record that if ever Communism comes knocking at the doors of America, as it is knocking today in Berlin, the 1,000,000 men of this organization will stand squarely behind the duly constituted authority of government as represented by American ideals."

Aliens in this country "who flaunt their disrespect of American laws should be deported," he said.

Any Single Girl Eligible To Seek Personality Prizes

Queen of Chicago World's Fair Will Win $5,000, With Ladies-in-Waiting Getting $3,000 and $2,000; Court of Honor of 48.

At the opening of the Century of Progress International Exposition in Chicago on June 1, the eyes of the world will be centered upon the 51 girls who will officiate as queen and her court of honor in the colorful opening ceremonies. This group of girls will be chosen as the result of a search now being conducted by The Washington Post and its affiliated newspapers. Selections will be made from photographs of unmarried girls that are submitted either personally or by friends or relatives.

Elsewhere on this page will be found a transmittal coupon, which should be properly filled out and pasted to the back of the selected photograph, or the same information may be written upon a sheet of paper and similarly attached. Photographs should be at least 6 by 8 inches in size and must have been taken within the past year. The picture should then be mailed to the "Queen Contest Editor," The Washington Post. No entrance fee or other cost or obligation is required.

Each Sunday up to and including Sunday, April 2, 10 photographs of entrants will be published in The Post's rotogravure section and $5 will be paid to each girl so honored. Publication of pictures, however, bears no relationship to the judgment of all photographs in selecting girls who will go to Chicago for two weeks as the guests of The Washington Post and the Chicago Tribune, with all expenses paid by these newspapers.

At Chicago, three girls will be selected from the group of 51 to bear the respective titles of queen and first and second ladies-in-waiting. These girls will also receive cash awards of $5,000, $3,000 and $2,000 in the order of their selection. The other 48 girls will share equally in the elaborate program of entertainment, which has been arranged for their pleasure, and will receive international recognition of their outstanding feminine charm.

Photographs of girls living in any part of the world may be submitted in this contest. Wherever their homes may be proper chaperonage will be provided for the trip to Chicago and return home. All transportation costs will be paid, hotels, meals, etc., and each girl also will be costumed by leading modistes, entirely at the expense of The Washington Post and the Chicago Tribune.

CHIEFS WANT PLANS OF ROOSEVELT CUT

Farley Says He Will Probably Have to Reduce His Public Appearances.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—While city officials tonight were arranging to surround Franklin D. Roosevelt with one of the heaviest police guards ever assigned to an individual when he arrives here tomorrow, Democratic leaders were planning to urge the President-elect to curtail his future activities.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, when he learned details of the Miami shooting, said Mr. Roosevelt "probably will have to refrain from making so many public appearances."

Other leaders at Democratic national headquarters, as they gathered in groups during the day to discuss the attempted assassination, agreed that the President-elect should be urged to avoid large crowds and open gatherings as much as possible.

"I am going to suggest that he keep only the two or three more important engagements on his calendar and cancel all other public appearances," one prominent figure at headquarters said.

Many recall how extremely "open" Mr. Roosevelt has been, both during the campaign and since his election.

"He has shaken hands with thousands of people," a party leader said, "and I shudder to think now of the chances that any would-be assassin could have grasped on those occasions."

The former governor has dozens, perhaps hundreds, of times stood in his car, towering above the crowd and waving greetings. He has appeared before vast throngs all over the country.

"Of course, he always has had protection, but he is an unsuspicious sort of a person and probably the thought of anyone attempting to do him bodily harm has never crossed his mind.

"I think he should be surrounded in the future with enough guards to make it physically impossible for him to be a target for anyone."

The wall of protection New York City police will throw up around the President-elect tomorrow was outlined tonight.

It was learned that Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney will assign 150 picked uniformed patrolmen to remain on duty constantly as a Roosevelt guard.

Roosevelt Guard Wounded in Hand

Robert Clark Probably Hit by Bullet Which Struck Cermak.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—It took the President-elect himself today to pierce the secrecy of the Secret Service. Mr. Roosevelt, in his account of the Miami shooting, wired from the train that is bringing him to New York, revealed for the first time that one of his bodyguards, Robert Clark, was wounded.

"I found that a bullet—the one, probably, that hit Cermak—grazed the top of Clark's hand," said Mr. Roosevelt. "His hand was all bloody and scratched."

Clark is one of the Secret Service men who specialize in running down counterfeiters. But he had many other special assignments before he was designated as one of the President-elect's guards. He accompanied Queen Marie of Roumania on her tour of the United States. And he helped take "Scarface Al" Capone from Chicago to the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta.

CHICAGO SEARCHING FOR ACTING MAYOR

Triumvirate Rules as People Watch Cermak's Fight Against Death.

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Chicago began casting about for an acting World's Fair mayor tonight as citizens watched anxiously the news bulletins from Miami on the condition of Mayor Anton J. Cermak, shot down by an assassin firing wildly at President-elect Roosevelt last night.

Messages of sympathy poured in to Miami from the mayor's home city. His family, friends and doctors sped toward his bedside by airplane. The city's affairs went under the direction of a hastily formed triumvirate of officials.

One of these three, Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, would become mayor pending a special election in the event of the mayor's death.

If he recovers slowly, it was considered probable the city council would elect one of its members mayor to carry on the duties. The work of the mayor would be arduous, with the opening of the Century of Progress Exposition June 1.

Irony in Shooting Seen.

Associated in the executive triumvirate with Sexton were Aldermen Henry Sonnenschein, former secretary to Cermak, and Comptroller M. S. Szymczak, city treasurer. They were in charge when the mayor took a European vaction after a physical breakdown last summer.

"It seems especially ironical," Sexton said in a statement, "that the first victim of a maniacal anticapitalist should be a man who worked his way to leadership from a start as a coal miner."

Although the mayor was reported as having complete confidence in his physicians at Miami, two doctors left by plane to be with him.

One of them was his son-in-law, Dr. Frank Jirka, director of the State Health Board. The other was Dr. Karl Meyer, head of the Cook County Hospital and consulting physician to Cermak. Dr. Meyer became an expert in gunshot wounds in ten years as chief surgeon of the Bridewell Hospital.

Church Prayers Offered.

Another son-in-law, Floyd M. Kenlay, also left for the mayor's bedside, as did his wife, the former Helen Cermak, and their daughter, who were at Chattanooga when they heard of the shooting.

A 14-year-old granddaughter, Vivian Graham, left a private school at Indianapolis, with her mother, Mrs. Lillian Graham. Upon his election three years ago Mayor Cermak referred to Vivian as "Chicago's First Lady." Her father, State Senator Richey Graham, already was in Miami.

Prayers were offered in the city's churches for the mayor's recovery. At St. James' Catholic Church, the Rev. James F. O'Donoghue said a mass for the mayor's "speedy recovery or the grace of a holy and happy death."

Acting Police Commissioner John Allman detailed Detectives John M. Scherping and Michael Ahern, of the mayor's personal staff, to reinforce his bodyguard of three detectives in Miami. They were to travel in planes of the Illinois National Guard.

Manuel Quezon Delays Sailing for Washington

Manila, P. I., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Contemplated departure of President Manuel Quezon, of the Philippine Senate, and the new independence mission for Washington, D. C., again was postponed today.

New plans are for the group to sail March 18 via Europe on the Italian liner Conte Rosso, which is making a special trip from Hongkong for the purpose. The group will probably include Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the Filipino insurrection of 1899-1901.

PROTECTION LINES ARE DRAWN CLOSER

Borah Blocks Senate Move Against Aliens; Marines to Attend Inaugural.

(Associated Press.)

Measures for the fullest possible protection for President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt and swift punishment for those who would overthrow the Government moved forward last night in the Nation's Capital, joyously thankful for the escape of the next President from a would-be murderer's bullets.

Lacking laws of its own to deal severely with Guiseppe Zangara, who wounded five persons in an attempt on the life of President-elect Roosevelt in Miami, the Federal Government will leave the fate of the man in the hands of Florida authorities.

President Hoover was kept advised by telephone of the condition of Mayor Cermak of Chicago and the four others wounded by Zangara. In addition, the Chief Executive ordered Attorney General Mitchell to inquire into the case and use every resource at the command of the Department of Justice to uncover all evidence in the crime.

Borah Blocks Vote.

An objection by Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, prevented the Senate's immediate consideration of a bill to exclude from the country all aliens agitating overthrow of the Government, already passed by the House. Borah objected on the ground that time did not allow sufficient debate.

Senator Hatfield (Republican), West Virginia, sought consideration of the bill "to show these man-killers who come to this land that we will not tolerate them." The bill would add "Communists" to present provisions for the expulsion or exclusion of "anarchists."

In the other wing of the Capitol, however, a House committee reversed a previous vote and approved the Ellick bill providing severe penalties for persons advocating overthrow of the Government. The measure was defeated a short time ago by a tie vote in the committee.

White House Guard Increased.

Chief W. H. Moran, of the Secret Service, directly responsible under the law for the protection of the President and President-elect, immediately increased the White House guard. In addition special measures were taken to protect Mrs. Roosevelt, but the nature of these precautions were not divulged by officials of the Treasury which supervises Secret Service activities.

Including the Secret Service, three agencies of the Government combed their files for his possible connection with radical groups.

False Cermak Demise Rumor Adjourns Court

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—An erroneous report that Mayor Cermak of Chicago died at Miami today caused Common Pleas Court Judge Charles M. Egan to adjourn his court.

Former State Senator Alexander Simpson paid tribute to Cermak as "champion of the common people" and moved the adjournment.

ALL WORLD'S SCORN HEAPED ON ZANGARA

Messages of Gratification Sent Roosevelt From Many Nations.

(Associated Press.)

The indignation of the entire world has been heaped upon Giuseppe Zangara, the man who tried to kill Franklin D. Roosevelt in Miami, but for the President-elect there were messages of congratulation and gratification from the ends of the world.

Newspapers, governments and the people in every capital echoed the sentiment of President Hoover that "it was a dastardly act."

In London, Ambassador Mellon summed up what seemed to be the general opinion when he said, "I can conceive of no crime that would outrage the American people more. I congratulate Mr. Roosevelt with all my heart that no harm has come to him."

In Paris, there was much sympathy for Mayor Cermak, who made many friends there on his recent tour of Europe. The government instructed its ambassador at Washington to convey its felicitations to the President-elect.

No Record in Rome.

In Rome, Premier Mussolini learned of the attack as soon as he awakened. The police went to work immediately looking up Zangara's record, but, although the man told the authorities at Miami that he had attempted to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel in 1912, his name is not on file in the criminal records.

At Vatican City, Pope Pius expressed regret that the incident had occurred, but sincere joy that Mr. Roosevelt escaped.

In Madrid, President Alcala Zamora expressed identical sentiments and sent off a telegram to Mr. Roosevelt. There were similar expressions by other government leaders, echoed in all the newspapers.

Belgium's Message.

In Brussels, Foreign Minister Hymans cabled Ambassador May, in Washington, to convey Belgium's congratulations to the President-elect and its condolences to those who were wounded.

Prague, Mayor Cermak's birthplace, was greatly excited and eager for news about his progress. There were crowds in front of all the newspaper offices reading the bulletins, which were posted as fast as they were received.

In Vienna, the story from Miami monopolized the front pages of the newspapers.

Cousin Expresses Relief.

At Budapest, Nicholas Roosevelt, cousin of the President-elect and American Minister, expressed his relief that "this outrageous attempt failed."

Copenhagen was shocked and Premier Staunting cabled a message of thankfulness to Mr. Roosevelt. The evening newspapers expressed hope for the recovery of Mayor Cermak whom they described as "the man who cleaned out Chicago's Augean stables."

In Mexico City, word reached President Rodrigues after he had gone to bed. He ordered that a message be sent to Mr. Roosevelt immediately.

Interest in Stockholm.

At Stockholm, great public interest was manifested in the attempted assassination. Window bulletins attracted downtown crowds. The newspaper Social Demokraten said: "The bullets aimed at Roosevelt carried the possibility of more serious consequences than those aimed at Lincoln and McKinley. Roosevelt today carries international as well as nation hopes."

From Dublin President Eamon De Valera sent a message to Mr. Roosevelt, congratulating him on his escape, and another to Mayor Cermak, expressing hope for his speedy recovery. Lord Mayor Byrne of Dublin sent a message to Mr. Cermak that he was horrified at the attack.

Bucharest newspapers prominently displayed news of the attempt on the President-elect's life, despite the fact that they were crowded with accounts of the conflict between troops and demonstrating railway workers there. The papers editorially said it was the good fortune of the world that the attempt was unsuccessful. Foreign Minister Nicholas Titulescu sent to Washington Roumania's felicitations on the escape of Mr. Roosevelt.

Rhode Island Expresses Joy Roosevelt Escaped

Providence, R. I., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The General Assembly today passed a resolution congratulating President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt on his escape from assassination at Miami last night.

FLORIDA ASSASSIN NATURALIZED IN '29

Italian Has No Crime Record Since Getting Papers, Check-up Shows.

Joseph (Giuseppe) Zangara, native of Italy, who attempted to assassinate President-elect Roosevelt and seriously wounded five members of his audience Wednesday night in Miami, is a naturalized American and has no crime record since receiving naturalization papers in Paterson, N. J., in 1929, Secretary of Labor Doak told President Hoover at a White House conference yesterday.

After identifying the would-be assassin by pictures forwarded from Miami, Secretary Doak issued the following statement:

"In checking over the records of the Labor Department, we found there were 11 Joseph Zangaras who had been naturalized and two others with warrants of deportation pending against them and were out on bond. This made it necessary to go over the records of the entire list in order to definitely determine who the actual assailant was which had to be verified by photographs from Florida and checked with the immigration and naturalization files in Washington as well as to have certification from the different ports of entry.

"We have definitely identified Joseph Zangara as having been naturalized by the Common Pleas Court of Passaic County at Paterson, N. J., September 11, 1929. Zangara was born in Ferruzzo, Italy, on September 7, 1900. Left Naples on the eighteenth day of August, 1923, arrived at Philadelphia on the second day of September, 1923, on the S. S. Martha Washington. Made his declaration of intention to become a United States citizen on May 21, 1924, at Hackensack, N. J., in the Common Pleas Court of Bergen County, giving his occupation as that of a mason.

Zangara was less than 23 years of age when he entered this country, and we are unable to find that he had any police record in Italy and have been unable to locate any here up to the time of his naturalization. We have asked the police of Bergen and Passiac Counties, N. J., where he had resided from the time of arrival in the United States until his naturalization, and they report they have no records against him.

"We have no record of Zangara having left the United States since entry in 1923, and this department has issued no reentry permits to him during this time. Therefore, if he was in Italy in 1929, we have no record of his leaving or reentering the United States. Our records show continuous residence since his entry into the United States."

Miami Bullet Ended Hunt for Stepsister

Sheboygan, Wis., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Through news dispatches on the attempted assassination of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt in Miami, John Kruis, of Sheboygan, and Henry Kruis, of Opatburg, today learned the whereabouts of their stepsister, Margaret Kruis, one of the gunman's victims.

They said they had not known definitely for seven years whether she still lived in Newark, N. J.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

MORTGAGE HOLIDAY PROPOSAL OPPOSED

Insurance Executive Claims Restored Confidence Chief Recovery Basis.

(Associated Press.)

A cry for restored public confidence as the cornerstone for building the country up to economic stability was sounded yesterday before the Senate Finance Committee in its study of depression cures.

E. D. Duffield, of South Orange, N. J., president of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., raised this plea and urged that Congress take no action that would impair the sanctity of contracts. His company is a heavy holder of farm and city mortgages.

The insurance official expressed stern opposition to any moratorium on mortgage debts such as has been proposed in several quarters, in some cases as a farm relief measure. He contended the result would be a much higher cost of insurance generally, as many insurance companies have large investments in mortgages.

Former Mayor Testifies.

From John F. Hylan, former mayor of New York and now president of the World Monetary League, the committee received the first suggestion of the present inquiry for outright inflation of the currency as a stimulant to credit and trade.

He suggested the issuance of legal tender notes under Treasury control and vigorously attacked the Federal Reserve system and what he saw as a policy of "utter selfishness" on the part of the Nation's bankers.

Duffield, who followed the former New York City executive before the committee, after listening intently to what he had to say, promptly took the opposite view on the currency question and insisted there be no radical change in the monetary system.

Fear of Radical Change.

"There is a fear in the minds of many that some radical change will be made in the monetary system," Duffield observed. He said this was halting business activities, as business would not be developed with uncertainty ahead.

"If Congress could assure the country that pledges for sound money would be carried out, that the monetary system would not be radically changed," he continued, "then business would be conducted, fear which now exists would be relieved, hoarding of money would tend to be eliminated, drafts by foreign countries would be less and the extension of credit would alleviate the situation of tight money.

"The problem that presents itself is a restoration of confidence and a dissipation of fear," Duffield offered as a remedy for conditions, adding that the first step to build up confidence should be balancing the budget as an example to State and local governments, corporations and individuals.

Must Reduce Expenses.

"What must be done is to reduce expenditures or increase revenues or both," he said, contending that the "ready solution" always offered of reducing Government salaries would not bring Federal costs within income. He advocated, instead, the elimination of unneeded activities.

He said he did not think Congress alone could recover prosperity, but by allaying public fears would go a long way on the road to recovery.

The committee was told by Hylan that "pyramiding paper money on too small a volume of gold reserve and the bolstering up of bankrupt foreign countries with the wealth of the people of this country have resulted in the breakdown of the people's wealth." He termed this the fundamental cause of the depression.

He expressed a hope that the incoming Congress will "see that the control of currency and credit shall be taken away from the banks and bankers and be restored to the Government." The Federal reserve deflationary policy, he denounced as "indefensible." If persisted in, he added, it may lead to remedies "much more drastic than the public interest requires."

LONG CALLED "LIAR" AT SENATE HEARING

Witness Says: "He's Bigger Crook Than Anything in Louisiana."

New Orleans, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Senator Huey P. Long, who has called several witnesses "liars," today was called a "liar" himself by a witness before the Senate committee investigating the senatorial election of John H. Overton, who was supported by Long, "the kingfish" of Louisiana.

The witness, Joseph Boudreux, leaned over toward Senator Long and shouted:

"Huey Long couldn't get elected justice of the peace unless he stole it. He's a bigger crook than anything in Louisiana."

"I want to prove that this witness is a police character and a pug," Senator Long told the committee.

"That's a lie," said Boudreaux. "He's a —— liar."

As Chairman Robert B. Howell called him to order, Boudreaux said Senator Long has been using that word all the time before this committee.

"There is a lot of intimidating going on around here and Senator Long has got bodyguards in here carrying guns," charged Boudreaux.

Senator Long jumped up and said he objected to testimony about bodyguards, but Chairman Howell ordered before the bar Joe Messina and Wheaton Stillson, who were pointed out by Boudreaux as Long's bodyguards.

"Are you armed now?" demanded Senator Howell.

"Yes," said Messina.

"Then you are excluded from this room," ordered Senator Howell.

"These men are officers of the law and have rights to carry guns," said Senator Long.

"This is the United States Senate and no one can come in this room armed," thundered Senator Howell. "You are ordered from this room."

Messina was taken out, but Stillson, who said he was not armed, was allowed to stay.

Two Men Are Arrested As Prospectors' Slayers

Yuma, Ariz., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Sheriff J. C. Hunter said today he had been notified two men were under arrest at Astoria, N. Y., in connection with the slaying of John Hayden and Ralph Hart, veteran prospectors, near Swansea, Ariz., last Sunday.

A third man is still sought in the slaying of Hayden and Hart, whose bodies were found in shallow graves. They had been shot to death.

MRS. BRECKENRIDGE SPEAKS ON NURSING

Sulgrave Club Audience Told How Frontier Service Saves Mothers.

The work of the famed Frontier Nursing Service was described by its founder and volunteer director, Mrs. Mary Breckenridge, sister of Brig. Gen. James Carson Breckenridge, U. S. M. C., in an illustrated lecture given by her at Sulgrave Club yesterday morning under the auspices of the Washington committee.

Mrs. Breckenridge was introduced by Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, who told of the interest felt in Washington in this pioneer work for women and children in the mountains of Kentucky.

It was shown during the course of her talk by Mrs. Breckenridge that the Frontier Nursing Service, of which she is the volunteer head, now includes nine nursing centers, covering 700 square miles, 30 nurses, a medical director, an 18-bed hospital, a dentist during the summer months, a full-time social service worker, a statistician and volunteer courier service.

During 7½ years' service in Kentucky mountains, 1,000 infants were delivered without a single maternal death, as the direct result of either pregnancy or labor, and there were one-third less stillbirths than occur usually in the general population of the United States and one-third less infant deaths within one month after birth than occur in the general white population of Kentucky.

In addition the Frontier Nursing Service has given more than 46,000 inoculations and vaccines against typhoid, diphtheria, smallpox and other diseases; 10,000 people given intensive home care, and the hookworm studied and combated with the help of Federal and State health authorities, the Rockefeller Foundation, Johns Hopkins and Vanderbilt Universities and the American Child Health Association.

A spring cruise on the Red Star S. S. Belgenland to the West Indies has been arranged for the benefit of the Frontier Nursing Service, it was announced at the lecture yesterday. A number of Washingtonians are going on this cruise. The cruise will begin February 25 and last for 15 days.

Capt. Claude Goes To General Board

Head of Enlisted Personnel Division Is Assigned to New Duties.

(Associated Press.)

Capt. Abram Claude, in charge of the enlisted personnel division, Bureau of Navigation, yesterday was assigned to duty as a member of the Navy Department's General Board.

Capt. Claude, a native of Annapolis, Md., was appointed to the Naval Academy from Maryland in 1900, and during the World War commanded the Destroyer Cassin in the war zone.

In 1920 and 1921 he was on duty at the Naval Academy and later commanded the U. S. S. Reina Mercedes, the U. S. S. Nevada and the U. S. S. Patoka, airship mooring ship. He was awarded the Navy Cross for Distinguished Service during the World War.

TAX REFUND RIDER TIGHTENS DEADLOCK

form, thus endangering every other appropriation and economy in the Treasury-Postoffice bill. Rather than run the risk, it was contended, the item should be carried instead in the second deficiency bill.

When the conference broke up at midday until 10:30 o'clock this morning, the controversial Bratton 5 per cent administrative cut and the Byrnes reorganization amendment were virtually untouched. Outside of conference, however, opposition to the Bratton amendment continued to crystalize. A move to defeat it is under way on both sides of the Capitol. Opponents argue it gives the President no power he could not exercise through operation of the Byrnes authorization to reorganize the Federal structure. The tallest obstacle it has to hurdle is the growing opposition to any cuts in the War and Navy Departments at this time of international tension.

Some conference progress in the direction of a compromise on the air-mail subsidy item was reported yesterday. An agreement is being sought on $10,000,000, as against $19,000,000 appropriated by the House, and the complete elimination of the item by the Senate.

Although an effort will be made to wind up the conference tomorrow, wide differences on salient features threaten this objective.

GOODWIN'S PLUNGE TO DEATH ACCIDENT

Coroner Finds House Member, Killed at Hotel, Was Under Treatment.

Representative Godfrey G. Goodwin, of Minnesota, met his death yesterday by accident, according to the verdict of Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald. The House member's body was found beneath an open window of his fifth-story room at the Hotel Driscoll.

Dr. MacDonald issued a death certificate after an investigation by the homicide squad indicated Goodwin had fallen from the window.

It was learned that the dead man was being treated for high blood pressure and a heart ailment which caused him to have dizzy spells. As the sill of the window was low, it was thought he toppled out when overcome by dizziness.

Goodwin, a Republican, was born at St. Peter, Minn., on January 11, 1873. He was elected to the Sixty-ninth Congress and served continuously until his death, but he was defeated for renomination last summer.

His family was thought to be at his home at Cambridge, Minn., but it was later learned that they were visiting in Alhambra, Calif. Efforts are being made to communicate with them.

The Congress member is survived by his widow, a son, Alden, and three daughters, Margery Ann, Lois Geneva and Eleanor Elaine Goodwin. Funeral arrangements were being held in abeyance, awaiting instructions from Mrs. Goodwin.

The House adjourned late yesterday in honor of Mr. Goodwin. Speaker Garner named Representatives Knutson, of Minnesota, and Jacobsen, of Iowa, to attend his funeral.

REPEAL RESOLUTION PASSED BY SENATE

begin voting, arrived. Behind the senators, occupying the sofas and standing in intent silence, which kept them from moving, were more than 200 members of the House, of both parties.

Analysis of Vote.

Analysis of the vote by which the repeal resolution was adopted shows that 33 Democrats, 29 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Labor voted for submission. Nine Democrats and fourteen Republicans voted against the resolution.

As adopted, the resolution provides for repeal of the prohibition amendment on approval by special conventions of three-fourths of the States acting within seven years of the date the proposal is formally submitted. It is not the so-called naked repeal proposal put up to the House on the opening day of the session by Speaker Garner. It contains a section designed to protect the dry States from importations from wet States. In substance, this section writes into the Constitution the purport of the Webb-Kenyon law, which has been on the statute books for a number of years but which has never been a part of the Constitution.

The additional paragraph, Speaker Garner said, was acceptable. Representative Rainey also said it was acceptable. Representative Snell said the resolution was as close to the Republican platform declaration as could be hoped for and he would vote for it in the House and expected 100 Republicans would join with him to make up the necessary two-thirds vote for its adoption.

Series of Dry Maneuvers.

The final vote in the Senate came after a series of maneuvers by prohibitionists, which had been rendered futile by the furious drive launched in favor of repeal by Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, who may be, as some have suggested, on his way out as party leader in the Senate, but who gave no indication of yielding the scepter in the last two days.

Senator Morris Sheppard (Democrat), of Texas, who is proud of his unofficial title, "father" of the prohibition amendment, and to whom prohibition is a deep and abiding conviction for whom he would sacrifice his job, sat in his seat and heard the tolling of the ayes in favor of repeal. He was an unhappy man. Although his shoulders drooped a little as he said it, he announced after the repeal vote that the drys were going to carry on; they wern't going to give up their fight; and, he predicted, the repeal amendment would not receive the required approval of three-fourths of the States.

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, scrappy little dry, tried to upset his party leader yesterday. He proposed a complete substitute for the Blaine resolution. His amendment would have made the Federal Government responsible with the States for prevention of return of the saloon. But his speech didn't help very much. His amendment was beaten, 46 to 38.

Presented with packed galleries and crowded floor, it was inevitable that Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, should make a speech, and, as was expected, the senator chose the last 10 minutes to deliver his denunciation of what he said always had been and always would be the utterly lawless liquor traffic. But this oratory could not stop the repeal movement.

Series of Votes Follow.

Then followed a series of votes. Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, offered an amendment to the Glass amendment, which, he thought, would have a better chance of adoption. His proposal was beaten, 70 to 14.

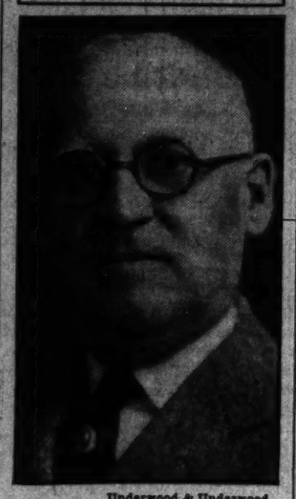
Senator Tydings proposed an amendment prohibiting Federal taxes on intoxicating beverages, but was voted down without even a record vote.

Senator Reed then proposed to put back into the, resolution section 3, which had been stricken out the day before on motion of Senator Robinson. This prohibited the saloon. It was beaten, 47 to 37.

Senator Thomas P. Gore (Democrat), Oklahoma, proposed an amendment which would prohibit States from permitting any private profit from manufacture, distribution or sale of intoxicating liquors. This was beaten on a vive voce vote.

A short time later, considering the bill providing appropriations for the State, Commerce and Labor Departments, as well as the Justice Department, which is charged with prohibition enforcement, the Senate approved House proposals that none of the enforcement funds should be used in wire-tapping operations, and proscribed use of the fund for the purchase of liquor to be drunk by enforcement agents or plain informers.

DIES IN PLUNGE



Underwood & Underwood.

MACDONALD DECIDES SOON ON U. S. TRIP

Voyage Believed to Depend on Whether Roosevelt Desires Presence.

London, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A movement for Prime Minister MacDonald to reach Washington about March 15 for important personal talks with Mr. Roosevelt on the broad lines of the whole future of Anglo-American policy in the field of international affairs gained strength today.

It was expected that a decision on his personal mission will be reached soon after Sir Ronald Lindsay, Ambassador to the United States, reaches Washington, and that it will be largely dependent upon whether Mr. Roosevelt desires Mr. MacDonald to make the trip.

If the trip materializes, it was believed tonight in well-informed political quarters that the debts problem, while forming the political background for the talks at the White House, would be only one of many issues which would be explored.

Mr. MacDonald, with the full authority of the British government behind him, could discuss the whole range of world problems which at present affect both the United States and Great Britain. No list of these has been made available, but they include everything from the economic program suggested for the world economic conference to disarmament and Far Eastern affairs.

A denial with all the force of an official statement was issued today of reports that the cabinet had split on the debts policy, that Mr. MacDonald and Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, were involved, and that resignations were possible.

Counterfeiting Case Fails After Murder

San Francisco, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Counterfeiting charges against Eddie Quinones, asserted underworld leader here, were dismissed in Federal court today after the Government's chief witnesses, taking the stand at his trial, failed to identify him.

The dismissal came a few days after the shooting to death of Joe Sole, who was indicted with Quinones. It was entered by Federal Judge Harold Louderback after Joseph Martin and Anton Vatuone, Government witnesses, failed to identify the defendant as the source of a spurious $20 bill given to Martin.

Rum Export Proposal Is Defeated in Canada

Ottawa, Ontario, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A bill which would have lifted the ban on the export of liquor from Canada to the United States was defeated in the House of Commons tonight by a non-party vote of 100 to 44.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett opposed the measure, saying that it would amount to a breach of international good faith to assist the movement of prohibited alcoholic beverages into the United States.

Pennsylvania Railroad
THE STANDARD RAILROAD OF THE WORLD

RIVER ROAD REPAIR WILL BEGIN MONDAY

About 35 Alexandria City Employes to Be Given Work on Highway.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Work on the northern half of the Alexandria - Washington highway, known as the River road, from the Alexandria city limits at Four-Mile Run to Hume avenue will be started Monday, according to City Manager Wallace Lawrence, and is expected to be completed in about 30 working days, provided weather conditions are favorable.

The new roadway will be 28 feet wide and will consist of a bituminous macadam center 18 feet wide, with concrete shoulders on either side, 5 feet in width. The present roadway is only 18 feet wide and is considered entirely inadequate for traffic. Arrangements will be made to detour traffic while the road is under construction.

The city manager plans at first to use the present city force of approximately 35 men in this work, the number to be increased as conditions warrant to 75 or more men. The present roadway is in a bad state of disrepair, and the patching which has been done is not only expensive but only a temporary expedient, according to Mr. Lawrence.

The cost of this work as authorized by the city council is to be not in excess of $20,000, which is to come from the State from the allotment of gasoline tax money. The greater part of this money is already in hand, and was appropriated in the annual budget.

The remainder of the work, from Hume avenue to the Potomac Yard bridge, is to be done as soon as funds are available from the State.

The question whether the work was to be done by contract or by city forces under the city engineer was discussed at the last council meeting, and the opinion was expressed that it could be done more satisfactorily and economically with city forces. Only persons who have been residents of Alexandria for at least one year are eligible for employment on this or any other city work, in accordance with a recent resolution of the council.

Miss Margery A. Hall, chairman of production for the Alexandria Chapter of the American Red Cross, has issued a call for volunteer workers on shirt cutting, for immediate use. The chapter has received 400 yards of cotton shirting, and asks that experienced cutters of men's and boys' shirts give their services in making this material available. The sewing previously done by volunteers has been on women's and children's clothing, and many calls have been received for shirts.

The headquarters in the Westminster Building is open on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., and cutters have been asked to report for duty between these hours.

In the Alexandria Police Court yesterday Judge William S. Snow imposed a fine of $200 and $20.50 costs in the case of Walter Jeffries, 19 years old, charged with violating the dry law. The police reported that they raided Jeffries' room and found five gallons of whisky, a five-gallon jug partially filled with liquor, five gallons of alcohol, 37 pint bottles of liquor, and a number of labels of popular brands of intoxicants.

John Watson, 55, of 1601 King street, Alexandria, is in Alexandria Hospital suffering from a possibly fractured skull, sustained when he was struck by an automobile driven by an unidentified person, who failed to stop, according to police. An investigation was conducted by Policemen Hawes and Brenner.

A dog pound has been opened by the City of Alexandria, in the yard of the city jail, where all stray dogs captured by the city dog catcher will be held for 48 hours and then, if not called for, will be dispatched. The pound will be under the direction of Charles R. ("Buck") Davis. The dog catcher started on his rounds yesterday.

D. C. FUND INCREASE RECEIVES SETBACK

by Blanton, opposed to the amendment, who said the Anacostia dumping would save $200,000. Holaday said it would save only $85,000, and is opposed by officials of the War Department.

Votes Down Proposals.

The House voted down in rapid succession amendments to increase the appropriation for the office of register of wills, to increase funds for the maintenance and repair of bridges, to raise appropriation for resurfacing or replacement of granite blocks and asphalt pavements, and an amendment providing for operation of the Highway Department's testing laboratory after July 1. An amendment by Judge Smith to raise the amount allowed the office of register of deeds was ruled out on a point of order. Representative Blanton took the floor to oppose each of the amendments.

House memorial exercises and the Democratic caucus on repeal, ordered for today, forced postponement of further action on the bill until tomorrow. When recess was taken, only 36 of the 81 pages in the bill had been covered.

Montgomery's Firemen Indorse National Group

Formation of a National Firemen's Association was indorsed last night at a meeting of the Montgomery County Volunteer Firemen's Association, held at the Silver Spring (Md.) Firehouse. The indorsement followed talks by Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, of the Washington Fire Department; J. Noble Rushe, of the Hyattsville Volunteer Department, and George Finger, of Capitol Heights.

The association deferred its annual election of officers until its next meeting, in May, at Rockville, Md., and voted for appointment of a committee to draw up a new constitution. The question of accepting a cut in the county appropriation for maintenance of fire apparatus was not acted on, it being announced that no such request had been received from county officials. J. Fred Imirie, president, presided at the meeting.

The Philadelphia Mint is about to issue an air mail flier's medal of honor to Mal B. Freeburg, says Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover. Freeburg is the only one to receive such favorable action.

M. B. FREEBURG.

April 12, 1932, Freeburg left St. Paul, Minn., for Chicago carrying eight passengers and mail. While at 2,000 feet, weather ideal, everything functioning perfectly, he experienced a terrific jolt. The left outboard motor vibrated terribly, due to a portion of the propeller having let go. While cutting the switch, the motor broke its moorings. The pilot cut all switches and then found the motor had lodged on the left landing gear struts. He switched on the other two motors and still had about 1,800 feet altitude. His next thought was to get rid of the motor. He was flying over a farming district. He was apprehensive that it might land on a dwelling. The course was altered. The ship pointed over the Mississippi River. Freeburg intended to shake the motor off and drop it into the river. On approaching a fair-sized island he maneuvered the motor off. Then he proceeded to Wabasha emergency landing field, about 25 miles east. Damage to the landing wheel was such that it would not revolve. The tire was cut open. Safe landing was made, nevertheless, without further damage.

During all this time, Freeburg was talking into his radiophone, advising St. Paul what had happened.

All essential matters relating to design of medals produced by the executive departments are submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts for advice as to merits of such design before approved. The commission recommended to the Postoffice Department that services of a recognized artist be secured. Walter Hancock, sculptor and medalist of New York City, was chosen to design the medal.

THEY tell this story of Bob Lynch, assistant corporation counsel:

In evening Bob teaches criminal law at Columbus University. He is known among the students as an exacting teacher.

After the midyear examinations, he received a clipping in an envelope. It was of an advertisement which showed a youth with heavily lined features and might be taken for the personification of worry.

Under the picture reads: "He is actually 20; but he looks 60." To which was postscripted: "He's been taking one of Prof. Lynch's examinations."

With spring "just around the corner and good golfing not far off, we might recite the lines from "T's," by Jack Waldman, Justice:

I think that I shall never see
A "T" that's all a "T" should be;
A "T" whose upward thrust is true;
A "T" that's "T" to me and you

Some say that oft a whorl appears
That drives the all-whorl men to tears,
And midst the cry, "It's M; it's I,"
Loud moans reecho to the sky.

And, too, weird loops there often be
That lead to mild insanity;
If these you say, are but child's play,
You're off your nut—ask Larry Shea.

But the burden's more than I can bear;
This is the truth I must declare:
Whorls may be traced by fools like me,
But only God can trace a "T."

Mrs. Floy Boyer, Federal Trade Commission, has consented to write a few lines on flowers that bloom from coal.

THE WINTER GARDEN.

Incased in glass, these tiny plants are seen
With curious eyes. A month or two ago
They lived in native habitat—in snow,
Or heat of wooded hillside and ravine.
A Nature lover plucked them, red and green,
And filled a candy jar that we may know
The various woodland plants. We see them grow
In layers of moss, with clinging earth between.
How strange to watch the tender ferns unfold
In moistened cells, deprived of natural air,
Protecting trees aid smiling summer sky!
Should Fate, through sudden loss of rank or gold,
Transfer us now to foreign scenes less fair,
Could we give joy or would we slowly die?

So You're Looking For a Spelling Champion in The Federal Diary WASHINGTON POST

first annual spelling bee competition, February 28.

Suppose you enroll me for the contest, and may the best man (or woman) win.

(SIGNED).....

Bureau or department.....

The spelling bee committee has made preliminary arrangements for the Diary Contest. It was decided to hold two preliminary contests, eliminating all except five spellers in each. The five who survive the first match will participate in the second. The ten survivors of the two preliminary matches will spell for the prizes, and the championship. This third contest will be broadcast.

In the first two contests every missed word will be passed to the next speller until some one spells it correctly. In the third contest the pronouncer will not indicate by word or look a missed word, and every speller will be charged with the duty of spelling the missed word. He will be out if he allows a missed word to pass without correction. Working of the method will be as follows:

No. 1 spells the word combated with two t's. Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5 have not noticed that the word was missed, and spell the word pronounced to each correctly. No. 6 has kept in mind that "combatted" is wrong and spells it correctly. Nos. 1-5 are out.

It makes no difference how many words might be missed between No. 1 and the speller who corrected his miss ("combatted"), nothing but the correction of "combatted" counts. When the correction is finally made the pronouncer indicates by saying "correct." Decks are cleared for all the surviving contestants, and they must look out for the next missed word. Suppose No. 3 missed his word and No. 4 corrected it, the pronouncer says nothing, but pronounces the next word on the list. Absolutely nothing counts until "combatted" has been spelled correctly.

We have the pleasure to announce Henry E. Brockway, Agriculture, is the latest entrant in the Diary spelling bee.

Another good speller in the race A. H. Anderson, Federal Board for Vocational Education, has enrolled.

Swarmi Fedd and his half-brother, Havy Fedd, were observed dismounting from their tandem bicycle in front of the store of R. Harris & Co., F street jewelers, and the Swarmi later admitted that one of the principal prizes in the Federal Diary spelling bee will come from this well-known establishment. When pressed for more specific details, the man of mystery would only recite the list of merchandise carried by the store and add that the prize might be any of these.

The Capital City Spelling Club met Wednesday night in the Mount Pleasant Library in its regular semi-monthly meeting, and Willard Smith, Navy Department, won. The winning word was red astrachan, a variety of apple. E. C. Helm was runner-up. Daedal, dahoon and fungusy downed most the others. The old "Bluesback" was used in most of the contest.

The Capital Spelling Club meets the first and third Wednesday, monthly, and the public is invited to attend as spellers and listeners. No charge is made.

BUILDING AND LOAN CHARTER GRANTED

Offices of Company to Be in Clarendon; Eareckson Is President.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The State corporation commission has granted a charter to the Metropolitan Building & Loan Association, with a plan of operation in Arlington and Fairfax Counties and Alexandria. The principal office will be located in Clarendon.

The authorized capital stock contemplates a maximum capital of $4,000,000, divided into 40,000 shares of par value of $100 each, which, under the plan of organization, may be purchased at a monthly cost of as little as 50 cents a share a month.

The officers are S. Groome Eareckson, president; Frank G. Campbell and John S. Coleman, vice presidents; Lawrence Michael, treasurer; A. L. Kelley, secretary, and Clarence R. Ahalt, counsel. Members of the board of directors, with the above-named officers, include J. Lee Price, John G. Graham and Fred A. Gosnell.

Under existing law in Virginia, the commission must determine and issue a certificate of necessity for such association in the community and that the officers and directors are of good character, business ability and financial responsibility. The State law further requires that at least two-thirds of its capital assets be invested in first trust real estate securities; prohibits capital assets being used for operating expenses and requires State supervision and examination at least twice annually.

The Business and Professional Taxpayers League of Arlington County, organized at a meeting of 20 of the largest taxpayers in Arlington County at the courthouse Wednesday night, has gone on record urging a tax reduction of at least 25 per cent.

Chairman Judge Harry A. Thomas announces the appointment of an executive committee consisting of Clarence R. Ahalt, Robert R. Dye and Dr. C. B. Munson. The committee will make a study of the budget, confer with County Manager Roy S. Braden and report next Thursday night.

The county board will hold its semimonthly meeting at the courthouse at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

It is expected that the board will authorize the advertising of the plan for renaming of all streets in preparation for a public hearing.

More than 200 persons attended a benefit supper served last night under auspices of Mary Washington Chapter, No. 50, Order of the Eastern Star, in the Lyon Park Community House.

3 ECKLUND MURDER SUSPECTS LOSE TILT

Fifth Precinct. They brought me into a room upstairs. Then they pulled down all the shades."

"What was said?" asked his attorney, James A. O'Shea.

"Dalglish (Detective Sergt. John C. Dalglish) said, 'If you tell the truth it will be better for you. Come on, tell us. We're not after you. We want those two men. If you tell it will be lighter for you.'"

"I knew," he continued, "if I did not tell what would happen."

"Did any one beat up or threaten to beat you?' asked Mr. Collins.

"No."

The man who, the Government claims, signaled to Cash to pick up the two alleged slayers after the murder next came to the stand. He is Everett L. Blackwell.

On direct examination by his attorney, F. Joseph Donohue, Blackwell claimed he was under the influence of liquor when he was arrested and did not remember signing any statement.

"How much liquor did you have?" asked Mr. Donohue.

"Two gallons of beer."

"What was your condition the next day?"

"I didn't know what I was doing."

He remembered, he said, that he signed the papers, but denied Dalglish's statement that the alleged confessions of all the defendants were read to each of them.

"Were Going to Scorch."

"Was there any violence threatened?"

"One of the detectives threatened to use the third degree on me. One said we weren't even going to get a trial; that they were going to scorch us in the chair."

"Were you struck by any of the policemen?" inquired Mr. Collins.

"No."

Then all of the police involved in the investigation were brought into the court, but Blackwell was unable to select the one whom he charged had threatened him.

Fewel Workman, colored, who, with Claude Myers, is accused of the actual killing and then escaping in the Cash taxicab, was placed on the stand by his attorney, Louis Whitestone.

To the question whether any violence had been used on him, he replied Dalglish's "face got all red and he looked as if he was going to hit me." He testified, however, that there were no blows struck.

After nearly an hour of grueling cross-examination of Dalglish, the combined defense forces were unable to puncture the testimony of the homicide detective that the alleged confessions were read to each of the defendants and that they were advised of their rights before the statements were signed by them.

Defense Effort Fails.

The defense attorneys were accused by Mr. Collins of going on a "fishing expedition," in their cross-examination of the detective. "There has not been a suggestion, or inuendo," he said, "that any force or coercion was used on these men."

An effort on the part of the defense to compel the Government to produce all of the witnesses who were connected with the obtention of the alleged confessions, met with defeat. All of the attorneys for the defense excepted to this ruling.

PAY SLASH STUDIED FOR PRINCE GEORGES

Maryland Legislature Has Slow Day as Sequel to Ritchie Reception.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 16.—A pay cut for Prince Georges County employes was being studied today after a conference between the Prince Georges County legislative delegation and the county commissioners, as Senator Robert G. Hilton, of Montgomery County furnished a list of magistrates' appointments he has recommended.

While no definite figure was mentioned, it was assumed the wage slash would amount to about 10 per cent. Possible abolition of some county offices also was discussed at the conference, although no definite action was taken on any subject. Another meeting will be held here shortly.

Slow Day in Legislature.

Relaxing from the strain of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie's reception last night, the legislators did little today. No bills were offered in the Senate and no important ones in the House. The Senate Finance Committee held hearings for the heads of the State's insane and tubercular institutions, while the House Ways and Means Committee held a hearing for the opponents of bills to tax chain stores more heavily.

Senator Hilton said he recommended the following to Gov. Ritchie for Montgomery County magistrates: First District, Edward F. Riordan, of Laytonsville; Second District, Edwin D. Burdette, of Hyattstown; Third District, Jennie C. Staub, of Beallsville; Fourth District, John Jones and William M. Burrows, both of Rockville.

Others Recommended.

Fifth District, J. Lee Robinson, of Spencerville; Edward H. Carr, of Burtonsville; Sixth District, Josephine W. Beall, of Darnestown; Seventh District, Fred Van Cort, of Chevy Chase; Donald Canada, of Glen Echo; Alfred Wilson, of Bethesda.

Ninth District, James E. Garrett, of Gaithersburg; Twelfth District, Titus J. Day, of Damascus; Thirteenth District, Robert E. Lee, of Kensington; David Means, of Silver Spring, and Charles H. Griffith, of Silver Spring. Donald A. DeLashmutt was recommended for reappointment as Police Court judge and B. Granville Curry as Juvenile Court judge.

Insulls' Juggling Of Stocks Detailed

Family Got $1,752,150 in One Instance, Federal Auditors Show.

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The fancy bookkeeping methods by which the Insull family and their finance companies were alleged to have kited real and paper profits were disclosed today by Government auditors.

Samuel Insull and his immediate family realized an actual gain of $1,752,150 in one instance, the United States Bureau of Investigation announced, by purchasing stock from one company at $15 and reselling to another at $40 a share.

This alleged juggling of stocks among the Insulls and their now bankrupt investment houses, Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities Co. of Chicago, and the circularizing of securities by mail form the basis of evidence being presented to the Federal grand jury by United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green.

Brussels, Belgium, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Premier de Brouqueville's cabinet, whose resignation was not accepted by King Albert yesterday, decided today to remain in office in deference to the kings wishes.

The resignation resulted from a vote of censure against the minister of the interior in Parliament.

STATE WILL PROBE FUNDS OF U. OF MD.

Committee to Investigate Need for Appropriation Named by Senate.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 16.—A senatorial investigation of University of Maryland appropriations was ordered today and two critics of the school were among the three senators appointed to the investigating committee.

This committee will only investigate the need for the appropriation asked by the school, but an audit of the school accounts also was ordered by the Senate. The resolution calling for the investigation was offered by Senator Milton L. Veasy (Democrat), Worcester, and adopted by a unanimous vote.

Veasy Heads Committee.

Senator Veasy was appointed by President Walter M. Mitchell to head the committee, with Senator L. Donovan (Democrat), Howard, and Senator Benjamin H. McKindless (Democrat), Baltimore City. Both Senator Veasy and Senator Donovan have been outstanding in their criticism of the operation of the school and the amount asked for it from the State. Senator McKindless has not commented on the school appropriation in public.

Before the vote on the Veasy resolution, its sponsor spoke for it on the floor of the Senate. The response of the school to an order that it furnish the Senate a list of employes and their total Government salaries prompted the move, he said. Instead of being a simple list of a few typewritten pages, the university sent a 126-page booklet which still does not give the information wanted, he said. He also said his criticism of the university had evoked a flood of commendatory letters from all parts of the State.

More Than One Salary.

The original request for a salary list was caused by the fact that several employes hold more than one position and draw more than one salary. The separate salary items are scattered throughout the budget instead of being lumped together, and do not show the total amount drawn by any one person. This also is true of the booklet furnished by the school, several senators said.

The investigating committee will function as a subcommittee of the finance group, according to Senator Donovan. It plans to call school authorities before it for close questioning as to the ways in which money is spent, salaries, possible economies and worth of the work of the university. The new committee will relieve the finance committee of part of its work and allow the finance group to concentrate on other budget economies.

DAWES ADMITS BANK ERROR TO SENATORS

holding company pyramid and said he felt the utilities magnate was "a victim of the complicated structure which got beyond his control."

With a crowd of spectators jammed around his chair, Young described the $2,000,000 loan from the General Electric Co., of which he is chairman, to the Insull companies shortly before they crashed.

He testified he knew nothing about the debenture agreement which investigators have charged was violated when the companies turned over their last securities in collateral for the loan.

Efforts as "Peacemaker."

Then he gave a vivid picture of his efforts as "peacemaker" with the banks to save the structure not only because it was a big customer of his company, but because he believed its crash would "have serious repercussions" upon the credit world.

The charges of discrepancies between the income tax returns and public earnings statements of the Insull companies came during testimony by the young 32-year-old crown prince of the utilities empire, Samuel Insull, jr.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, presented evidence which he said showed that while the two big Insull investment trusts were selling their securities to the public on the claims of profits running high in the millions they were filing income tax returns showing heavy losses.

During the years 1930 and 1931, Pecora said, the Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities Co. of Chicago claimed $26,000,000 in profits in their public statements seeking investors, while their income tax reports showed losses of almost $20,000,000.

Insull said he could not explain the discrepancies, asserting they might be explained by deductions for dividends to stockholders, but Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, said this was not permissable under the law.

Scenes and Personalities Figuring in Attempted Assassination of President-Elect at Miami

ZANGARA DECLARED TO BE INTELLIGENT

Prof. Moley Finds He Has No Fixed Political Ideas But Hates Government.

En route with President-elect Roosevelt to New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Intimates of President-elect Roosevelt, who closely examined Giuseppe Zangara, the assassin, last night, are convinced he has no political ideas, but rather a deep opposition to all heads of government.

Prof. Raymond Moley, economic adviser of Mr. Roosevelt, and Judge Frederic Kenochan, of the New York City Court of Special Sessions who was on the yachting cruise, both saw Zangara.

"All that I can appropriately say," said Prof. Moley, "is that he complained of having stomach trouble that caused him pain over a number of years. He is, apparently, a man of considerable intelligence if it is true, as he said, that he came to this country in 1923 and got his second citizenship papers three or four years ago.

"He did not manifest any interest in political ideas. He evinced no interest in communism and apparently had no acquaintance with anarchist theory. He simply had a fixed idea of opposition to all heads of government.

"He talked fairly good English and he had good clothes."

Prof. Moley was in an automobile two cars behind Mr. Roosevelt. It was to the rear end of his car that the prisoner was shackled by the police. However, Russell Caldwell, one of the victims, was placed in the Moley car and the automobile sped to the hospital on the edge of the city. Then the prisoner was retranaferred to another car and taken to the jail.

Illinois Governor Off To See Mayor Cermak

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16 (U.P.).—Suddenly altering his plans, Gov. Henry Horner departed for Miami, Fla., tonight to be with his friend, Mayor Anton J. Cermak.

After messaging the mayor a few hours earlier that he would not leave Springfield, the Democratic State executive left at 8:05 p. m. for St. Louis, Mo., where he planned to catch the Illinois Central Railway's Seminole flyer to the South. He expected to reach Miami at 4:30 p. m. Saturday.

Arkansas House Votes 90-Day Divorce Repeal

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Repeal of the Arkansas 90-day divorce law was voted by the House of Representatives late today, but the Senate has not acted.

Representative Kelly, author of the repeal bill, argued that "the State of Arkansas is on trial here today—whether it will say it will cheapen its morals for the benefit of a few lawyers who want to make Hot Springs another Reno, or vote to save the homes of the people."

CERMAK'S HEART STOPPED, PRESIDENT-ELECT BELIEVES

and I stopped him again, this time at the corner of the band stand.

"Looking back, I saw Cermak being carried along and we put him in our car. He was alive, but I was afraid he wouldn't last. I got my hand on his pulse and found none. He was on the seat with me and I had my left arm around him. He slumped forward. A detective from Miami, standing on the running board on that side of the car, was leaning over him. He said after we had gone a couple of blocks he was afraid Cermak would not last.

"I, too, was fearful. Just then Cermak straightened up and I got his pulse. That was surprising. For three blocks I actually believe his heart had stopped."

Roosevelt's story disclosed that only his insistence kept the car in the danger zone until Mayor Cermak had been lifted into it for a hurried ride to the hospital. It also revealed that Robert Clark, a Secret Service man, was hit on the hand by one of the bullets of the maddened assassin.

Interest in the welfare of the two women and three men who were struck down by the bullets of Giuseppe Zangara, native of Italy, overshadowed other thoughts of Mr. Roosevelt as he returned home from his vacation fishing cruise in the southern seas.

Immediately upon arising today he motored to the Jackson Memorial Hospital to say good-by and to encourage the victims of the shooting. He found Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Joe Gill, of Miami, in a very critical condition. The others gave a cheery response to his greetings.

Jokes With Detectives.

Mr. Roosevelt joshed William Sinnott, former New York policeman and one of the victims. He was shot in the head. The President-elect told him it would take more than a bullet in the head to kill him and he advised a starvation diet for Sinnott to bring about a 20-pound reduction.

He found Mayor Cermak anxious to talk business. Roosevelt said Cermak told him this morning: "I wanted to have a talk with you about the school teachers' salaries in Chicago." He said Cermak started an explanation about the tax situation in Chicago.

"I told him," said Roosevelt, "to hurry up and get well and he said he hoped to be on his feet for the inauguration."

The whole affair brought a tremendous response from the American public. Telegrams poured in on Mr. Roosevelt today by the thousands. Returning to the railway station at Miami from the hospital the President-elect was given an overwhelming greeting by a crowd that reached across the street to the towering Dade County Building, high up in which was held the assassin.

Mr. Roosevelt, upon reaching the platform, turned and waved a response. All along the route today up the east coast of Florida every city and village seemed to be out en masse to give him a hearty greeting.

Religious Note of Wires.

The hundreds of telegrams were from every section of American life. There was a predominant religious note in them. Almost all expressed hope for the recovery of the victims.

John McCooey, national committeeman from New York, boarded the train at West Palm Beach and talked for 10 minutes with Roosevelt. His opening words were an expression of gratitude at the saving of the President-elect from the assassin.

It also was learned today that Mr. Roosevelt communicated by telephone last night with Mrs. Roosevelt in New York City—"the missus" as he put it. Asked if Mrs. Roosevelt was calm, he laughed and replied, "I should say so." The call was put in from the Jackson Memorial Hospital.

Riding about Miami today, the President-elect again used an open car and sat on the front seat with the chauffeur. However, secret service men and police completely surrounded him. Policemen preceded and followed him. Secret service men and detectives stood on his running board. The same was true whenever he put in an appearance outside the train today.

Will Not Curtail Activities.

With him on the train were Prof. Raymond Moley, war debts expert, and Judge Frederic Kernochan, of New York, and George St. George, of Tuxedo, who were members of the Roosevelt yachting party.

Kermit Roosevelt, another of the yachting party, traveled part way also with the President-elect's train.

It was with some surprise tonight that Mr. Roosevelt heard reports that suggestions were being made for curtailing the inauguration celebration and other public functions in which he would participate.

Friends who talked with him received the very distinct impression that the next President would go ahead on his own course and in his usual way. That way means a life of full action, for Mr. Roosevelt likes to be doing things. There is every indication that he will do more traveling than any other President in history.

Stopping at Jacksonville early tonight, the President-elect received Gov. Dave Sholtz for a brief visit. Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, boarded the train there, too.

U. S. Moves to Cancel Zangara's Citizenship

Newark, N. J., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—H. P. Woertendyke, divisional director of the Naturalization Bureau, said tonight the Government has begun an investigation into the past of Giuseppe Zangara, assassin who shot at President-elect Roosevelt, with the view of canceling his citizenship.

Zangara, a native of Italy, was naturalized an American citizen September 11, 1929, in the Common Pleas Court of Paterson.

D. C. RADICALS WARN POLICE OF MEETING

Mass Gathering Slated for Tomorrow to Demand $10 Weekly Dole.

District authorities last night were confronted with announcement that a group of radicals would attempt to hold a mass meeting in front of the District Building tomorrow, as a prelude to a larger gathering and demonstration here on March 4.

The meeting was declared to be under the auspices of the Unemployed Councils of Washington, with the Young Communist League taking a leading part.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, declared early today that no application had been made for a permit to stage the demonstration. It is "very doubtful," Maj. Brown declared, that a permit will be issued for the planned meeting. Unless permission is obtained, it was pointed out, no speeches or parading will be tolerated.

In the event a permit is granted, the major said, a special detail of police will be on hand.

Police were defied in announcements of the meeting to interfere and preparations are being made for forcible resistance to "police interference with the plans to hold the demonstration."

More than 10,000 local workers, the announcements of the meeting said, will gather at the District Building. Speakers were announced as Earl Browder, Communist party senatorial candidate in New York, and James W. Ford, colored, who occupied the vice presidential position on that party's ticket last November.

Demonstrations of the workers, the announcement said, will be for a five-point relief plan, embracing:

Minimum direct relief of $10, plus $1 for each dependent, per week; no evictions of unemployed for one year; free lunches for all school children whose parents are unemployed; no "discrimination" against the colored race, and $7 a week to every unemployed single person.

4 Bulletproof Vests Held Cermak's Order

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.). — A manufacturer of bulletproof vests told police today that Mayor Anton Cermak ordered four such vests the day before he started his recent trip to Florida.

"He told me to call again as soon as he returned from the South," the manufacturer said.

The mayor's secretary, Frank Kleeba, said he never heard of such an order.

"I'LL PULL THROUGH," SAYS CERMAK

and the wounding of Miss Kruis, Sinnott and Caldwell. No charges for the time being were placed against the assassin in connection with the wounding of Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Gill. Authorities were awaiting the outcome of their wounds.

Grieved over the wounding of his friends, Mr. Roosevelt, before entraining for New York, paid a visit to the hospital and called on each of the assassin's victims.

The assassin, Zangara, was seized and hustled off to the Dade County Jail immediately after his attempt, but not until he was almost stripped of clothing by infuriated bystanders.

"I meant to kill Roosevelt and I am sorry I didn't," he said. "I would kill all Presidents and all officers," the gunman declared.

He said he had decided to kill President Hoover, but hearing that Roosevelt was coming to Miami, decided to make the President-elect his target.

An extra detail of police and Secret Service men surrounded Mr. Roosevelt as he left the yacht of Vincent Astor this morning for the hospital.

"You are looking fine. The first thing you know you will be back on your feet," he said to Mayor Cermak, whose room was the first he entered.

Cermak Optimistic.

In a faint voice the Chicago Mayor replied:

"I hope so. I hope it will be in time for the inauguration."

A huge throng greeted Mr. Roosevelt as he boarded his train across the street from the jail where Zangara was lodged. He stood on the back platform with his hat off and waved to the crowd as the train pulled out.

President Hoover telegraphed Mr. Roosevelt he was glad of his escape and asked to be kept informed of Mayor Cermak's condition and that of the other victims. The President-elect from his special train wired Mr. Hoover:

"Have just visited hospital and seen the patient. The mayor had a fair night as did Mrs. Gill. The other three are on rapid road to recovery."

Miss Kruis was reported recovering rapidly. A bullet grazed her head. Caldwell and Sinnott, each shot in the head, were described as "getting along nicely."

Subjected to a severe grilling on the twenty-first floor of the Dade County Jail, located on the top of the Courthouse building, Zangara asserted that he had no accomplices. He was confident and defiant and told his questioners he had no regrets for his act. He also denied that he had any connection with any societies of any sort.

Woman Deflected Aim.

It was a woman, Mrs. W. F. Cross, wife of a Miami physician, who grabbed the arm of the assassin as his bullets sped into the crowd. James Galloway, of Miami Beach, and George Broadnax, a Secret Service operative from the Atlanta office, pounced on the shooter.

"When the President-elect stood up to make his speech, so many stood up in front of me that I couldn't see, so I stood up on the bench," Mrs. Cross said, in describing the incident. "This man (Zangara) stood up with me and the bench almost folded up. I looked around. Then I saw he had a pistol and he began shooting toward the President-elect. I grabbed his hand which held the pistol and pushed it up in the air and called for help.

"Tom Armour also grabbed his hand and we held it up in the air so he couldn't shoot any more. By that time some men were choking him."

Zangara will be arraigned at 11 a. m. tomorrow before Judge E. C. Collins, of Criminal Court, on four charges of assault with intent to kill. He was in the courtroom for more than an hour today while a scheduled arraignment was delayed as Judge Collins insisted that Zangara be represented by counsel.

"I don't want anybody to help me," the prisoner shouted when told that he would be represented at the bar. "You're the Judge and you can do what you want to do."

Judge Collins ordered the arraignment postponed while he considered appointment of "the best of counsel" in order to prevent any accusation that the man "had been railroaded."

Mrs. Ellen Cermak Kenlay arrived at the hospital shortly after 6 o'clock tonight and went at once to her father's bedside. When it became apparent that the sleeping man would not wake immediately, Mrs. Kenlay departed for the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Jirka, at Miami Beach, planning to return to the hospital later.

She flew here by chartered plane from Atlanta, having gone there last night from Chattanooga, where she was staying when she heard of the shooting of her father.

Frederick L. Emery, Patent Lawyer, Dies

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Frederick L. Emery, patent attorney, of Lexington, Mass., and head of law firms in Boston and Washington, was found dead in bed at the Biltmore Hotel today. He was 65 years old.

Frederick L. Emery was the senior member of the law firm of Emery, Booth, Varney & Holcombe, with offices in the Munsey Building. He was well known in Washington, although he had never lived here. Amasa M. Holcombe, 3305 Eighteenth street northwest, is the Washington member of the firm.

Kid Lilly Due to Reach Alexandria Jail Today

Police Capt. John S. Arnold, of Alexandria, has received word from Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims, who went to Columbus, Ohio, with Sergt. Frederick Kaus, to bring back Kid Lilly, wanted for the alleged murder of Police Sergt. Charles R. McClary, in 1929, that Sims' identification of Lilly is positive.

The officers and their prisoner are expected to reach Alexandria sometime today, and Lilly will be placed in the Alexandria Jail to await trial. He is under indictment for murder.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S ESCAPE.

Bullets fired by an anarchist nearly took the life of President-elect Roosevelt while he was on the point of leaving a crowd in Miami on Wednesday night. He was attended by detectives, but there was nothing to prevent the maniac from making his attempt, and only good fortune saved Mr. Roosevelt from death.

The would-be assassin is reported by the police to have acknowledged that he intended to kill the President-elect; that he hated all rulers, and had hoped to kill President Hoover. The man is evidently subnormal in intelligence, but not so demented as not to know how to plot and execute murder.

The chill of horror that runs through the country when a President is assailed is quickly followed by a burst of fury, but this, in turn, soon evaporates, and Communists, anarchists, and other dangerous criminals are allowed to run at large. Their numbers are increasing, and they are taking advantage of the stress of hard times to inflame the minds of ignorant people in the hope of stirring up riots, murders, and revolution. The assailant of Mr. Roosevelt probably has stuffed his distorted mind full of falsehoods invented by the enemies of organized society.

By no contrivance is it possible to prevent murderous attacks upon a President while he mingles with his fellow-citizens. Nevertheless, the number of potential murderers in any crowd can be reduced by more stringent laws and by greater vigilance. Communists are death-dealers, and are kept back more by their physical cowardice than by official watchfulness; indeed, no restrictions whatever are placed against the free movement of these public enemies. They are admitted into the United States when they choose to commit perjury, which comes easy to them. Thousands now here unlawfully should be deported, but Congress is niggardly with funds for the immigration service, and it can not search out and deport all criminal aliens.

The would-be assassin of Mr. Roosevelt is a naturalized citizen. He can not be deported to the land of his birth. But he should be subject to a law inflicting the death penalty upon any one who attempts to murder a President or President-elect. This is a crime so heinous, attended by such tremendous possible consequences affecting the welfare and peace of the country, that it should be punishable by death. A threat of murder or bodily harm, directed through the mails against the President, is a Federal crime, but apparently Congress has never provided that murder or attempted murder of a President or President-elect shall constitute a Federal crime.

Extraordinary precautions should be taken in guarding the President and President-elect in these troublous times. They should not mingle in crowds. One murderous attack suggests another. For the time being the Secret Service should give its special attention to protecting the lives of prominent public officials, including members of the Senate and House. Threatening letters received by senators may not be mere empty words. Nests of anarchists and Communists should be broken up and ringleaders put in prison or deported.

GET READY FOR ACTION.

Plans of the incoming Democratic administration are beginning to take definite form. The broad outlines of the program to be submitted to the extraordinary session have been known for months. Details are now being worked out. Efforts are also being made to line up the huge Democratic majorities of both the Senate and House for rapid-fire action as soon as the new program can be submitted by President-elect Roosevelt.

For the moment special attention is being given to the problem of translating that program into legislation. Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill realize that harmony is lacking on some issues. If the Roosevelt program is to be enacted without delay party discipline will be the first essential. The performance of some wild men in the Senate during the present session has brought this difficulty into bold relief. That body must be subdued and put into working order if filibustering, delay and compromise with the minority blocs are to be avoided.

Two emergency reforms are proposed for the Senate. Both have been discussed by the Democratic policy and steering committee. One would convert the conferences of Senate Democrats into caucuses. At present conferences decide on policies to be followed, but members attending are not bound by such action. In a caucus all those attending pledge support to the majority's decision. Such a practice is, of course, repugnant to the obstructionists and the insurgents, but it may become necessary if the Senate is to function smoothly under Democratic control.

The other proposal is to strengthen the rule on cloture so that a majority could break a filibuster. Traditionally the Democrats are opposed to the limitation of debate in the Senate. While they were in the minority the right to talk a bill to death, even though a majority might be in favor of it, was considered sacred. Now these same senators realize that abuse of senatorial privileges by a few blatherskites must be curbed if any business is to be done. If they decide to establish a set of "emergency rules" for the Senate to facilitate enactment of the Roosevelt program, they will have the support of public opinion.

It is is evident that some Democratic leaders hope to rush the depression remedies of Mr. Roosevelt through Congress in a very short period. Prompt balancing of the budget, chiefly through economy, coupled with farm relief, prohibition reform, sound banking legislation and settlement of the war debts issue would turn the country from despair to hope. The psychological effect upon the people would be electric. But if the extra session drags along for month after month of hesitation and uncertainty, intensification of gloom is all that can be expected.

Those who are opposed to some features of the Roosevelt program may criticize, but they would do well to avoid parliamentary obstruction. The Democratic party has enough strength to enact whatever policy it can agree upon. Recovery can be facilitated by giving that party the reins and letting it act promptly and decisively. If its program is inadequate or unwise, that can sooner be demonstrated by its prompt enactment. But the country demands action.

SENATE DRYS QUIT.

Passage of the resolution for repeal of the eighteenth amendment by the Senate marks a complete collapse by the drys. Three days ago the dry forces began a filibuster against consideration of the measure. Then suddenly they capitulated and the wets swept everything before them by a vote of 63 to 23.

The overwhelming wet vote was a surprise to every one who is familiar with the former convictions of the 95 men and one woman who make up the Senate. Less than a year ago the Senate emphatically refused to permit even modification of the Volstead act. Democrats of that body voted more than two to one against beer. Since that time there have been only a few changes in the membership, but the electorate has spoken. Yesterday's vote can be interpreted in no other way than as a scramble to get on the wet bandwagon.

Twenty-nine Republicans, 33 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite voted for repeal. Party lines were completely disregarded. A few Republicans swung over to the wet side, and a large number of Democrats formerly in the dry column lined up for repeal. Every one realized that a repeal resolution would pass through both houses in the next Congress, if it should fail of passage in this session. That knowledge doubtless induced the drys to quit.

The next question is whether the House will accept the Senate provision, which aims to prohibit transportation of liquor into dry States. Section two of the proposed new amendment reads as follows:

> The transportation or importation into any State, Territory or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited.

Not much importance attaches to this section, except that it clutters up the Constitution with verbiage that means nothing. Congress already has authority to protect the dry States against liquor importation. This proposed addition to the Constitution would not increase that power. But it would interject in the fundamental law a prohibition that may or may not be exercised. It holds out a false promise that the dry States will be kept dry by a Federal police force, just as the eighteenth amendment held out a false promise that all the States would be kept dry by the Federal Government. If Congress wishes to protect the dry States, it already has all the authority it needs. If Congress does not wish to do so, no mere declaration in the fundamental law can compel it to do so. It would be a pity, in disposing of the eighteenth amendment, to add another dead letter to the fundamental law.

Opposition to this feature of the Senate bill may be expected in the House. A powerful demand for outright repeal will be made. Nothing could be gained by jamming through Congress an unsatisfactory amendment merely to save a few weeks time in submitting it to the States.

BUREAUCRACY OR DOLE.

An emasculated skeleton of the domestic allotment plan has been reported to the Senate by its committee on agriculture. That committee took a month to ponder over the alleged farm relief which was favored by the House. It found the House bill impracticable and sought to remedy each weakness. The result is a measure that would spread ointment on the wound without removing the thorn.

About the only commendable feature of the Senate farm relief bill is its limitation to cotton and wheat. Hogs, tobacco, rice, peanuts and dairy products are eliminated from the bill for various reasons, the chief of which seems to be that the measure is an experiment. If panaceas are to be tried out, there is no excuse for applying them to a long list of products. Their impracticability can be just as effectively demonstrated by using one or two commodities, and the damage to agriculture will be much smaller.

The House set out to curtail production by inducing farmers to cut down their acreage and compensating them for the resulting loss of crops. The objective of adjusting the supply of farm products to the demand and thus raising prices is a worthy one. But the House sought to bring it about by creating a huge agricultural bureaucracy which would have dominated the entire farming industry. Strenuous objections were heard in the Senate against an agricultural police force to dictate how much of each crop farmers might plant. Hence, the committee decided to eliminate the acreage reduction feature and merely pay a dole on that portion of the crop needed for domestic consumption.

It is hardly necessary to point out the weakness of such a measure. It would undoubtedly increase production while discouraging consumption, because of the heavy taxes that would be levied upon purchasers of wheat and cotton. The piling up of larger stocks of these two staples would be inevitable. Wheat and cotton growers could look for lower prices instead of improvement. The disastrous conditions which Congress seeks to alleviate would doubtless be aggravated by this hybrid measure which its committee recommends.

Emphasis is shifted in this bill from allotment of acreage to a bounty for producers. It would provide an outright dole without attempting to correct the fundamental defects which have brought the farmer to his present sorry plight.

It is extremely doubtful whether such a measure can be adopted by the Senate. Probably it would not be accepted by the House under any circumstances, and a veto would certainly await it at the White House. No farm relief can be expected, therefore, from the present session of Congress. Furthermore, the widespread differences between the House and Senate measures will make a compromise difficult in the extra session unless sentiment in one body undergoes a radical change.

THE WORLD CONFERENCE

From the Magazine of Wall Street.

The program drafted by the delegated economic experts for the coming international economic conference reads like a challenge to the United States. All the major proposals run counter to our traditional views and practices or to public opinion—with one exception.

Here are some of the concessions we are required to make if the conference shall accomplish results: Freely and cordially part with much of our monetary gold stock, substantially forget the war debts, encourage imports of foreign goods, resume foreign financing, lower our tariffs. These are the prices we are called upon to pay for world-wide resumption of the gold standard and the realization of the concomitant conditions of stabilizaton of international trade and finance. The salient concession required of other countries is the implicit abandonment of the foreign trade advantages some 30 of them now have because of the depreciation of their currencies.

The conference will mean essentially that the United States will be called upon to make the great decision between world economy or nationalistic economy. We shall have, in a nutshell, to decide whether we shall follow the normal course of a creditor nation or shall endeavor more and more to make our own national economy self-sufficient. Historically, we have always viewed imports with suspicion—as a necessary evil. If carried to its logical conclusion our policy would have us export for monetary consideration only. Now we are told, in effect, that this policy and the restoration of the gold standard are absolutely incompatible.

We have no fault to find with the experts. It was their prescriptive duty to view a conference on world economics from the world standpoint. We merely wish to point out that the adoption of such a standpoint by the American delegation will encounter difficulties that will probably be insuperable because in conflict with historic policies and objectives of the United States. It will take more than one conference and a still more convincing demonstration than current events have provided of the inevitability of realignment of our economic relations with the outer world before we will be willing to concede that we must steer the national course as part of that of an international trade fleet. The march of events may educate or force us to that decision, but it can hardly be reached in a few months—even in this fourth year of depression.

"Too Busy to Work."

POST HASTE

Miami's welcome to the President-elect was sadly marred by a madman's act, but the Nation rejoices that it was no more serious.

Old-fashioned assassinating anarchists have been so scare of late it was almost forgotten that such despicable beasts exist.

The news from the wilds of the upper Amazon indicates definitely that the probabilities are that it is rumored that either Peru or Colombia has won or lost the first skirmish.

Have the farmers noted that the House bill contemplates infringement on their prerogatives by boosting the price of silver 200 per cent through Government purchases?

If Mr. Bullitt's book on statesmanship isn't good, he can surely write an authoritative one on the art of advance advertising.

The way school children must be coddled these days it is a wonder that any of their forebears who had to walk 3 miles to school carrying cold lunches, really survived.

There are those who might profit by the Miami tragedy. Mr. Roosevelt's life was saved because he made a short speech and sat down.

At last a showdown on repeal. You never can tell about the Senate—at least, many times you should not.

If there is anything more illusory than the fancied benefits of "free" silver, it is the belief that this country could debase the gold dollar fast enough to get ahead of currencies that already are on the way down with a 30 per cent handicap.

That illumination over Gotham way is the "Tiger, tiger, burning bright," since Mr. Farley advised Tammany its patronage list must be submitted to him.

If reports are true concerning the number of Chinese troops assembling in Jehol, a Japanese army of 50,000 can't carry enough ammunition to dispose of them.

The way Chancellor Hitler is engaging dictatorial hooks it looks as though he were not so sure about getting that Reichstag majority next month.

HEREDITY.

Those who later follow on
Oft may wonder when we're gone
O'er the valley of the dead
How we acted; what we said.
Was our smile of friendship half
Captured in that photograph?
And unknowingly years away
Someone's little youngster may Start a most terrific fuss
With a temper caught from us.

As a man who cons a book,
Oft I take a backward look,
Wondering who passed down to me
Traits from which I'm never free.
Marching in a double line
Is that ancestry of mine
Out of which at last came I
Here to live awhile and die,
And I wonder, of that host
Who was it impressed me most?

Like the mother! Like the dad!
So we say of lass and lad,
But each roguish child may show
More than we on earth can know;
It may be some whim or trait
May all memory antedate,
And in smile or tender tear
One long dead may reappear.
Men may die, but traits contrive
Death and customs to survive.

How Could Grain Dealers Survive if Bushel Measure Changed With Weather.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN regions where trade is handicapped by want of money, people have adopted the barter and exchange methods of primitives.

In doing so they have rediscovered some ancient truths—that things have value because men desire them; that the worth of a commodity is determined by the amount of labor required to produce it; that the exchange value of an article at a given time is fixed by its abundance or scarcity.

And they have learned that relative and actual values haven't changed since 1929. If the supply of each is normal, a bushel of potatoes will exchange for the usual quantity of oranges; a bushel of wheat will exchange for the usual quantity of coffee, poultry or labor.

In other words, prices haven't changed at all. Wheat, corn, cotton and labor are worth as much as ever.

Then what has changed? Nothing but the price of money—that is, the price of gold.

Commodities seem to be worth less because gold is worth more.

Why is gold worth more? Because the demand for it is great. Most of the nations need it and are trying hard to get it.

Gold has value only because men for ages have agreed to use it as money—as a standard token of value. Silver lost two-thirds of its value when it was demonetized and left to find its natural value as a mere metal.

Having made gold a standard, nations must have it to support and guarantee their paper money. While they have too little, their money will be worth less than the money of nations that have enough. They can buy from other nations only by paying more of their money than usual.

But their "degraded" currency enables them to produce all commodities cheaply, and they undersell the other nations until they win back the gold they need.

Then gold, no longer so desperately desired, loses part of its value. The price of it falls, which means that other prices go up. And once more the world has profitable commerce and good times.

Would there be an end of "business cycles" and depressions if the world had a stable money—if the price of gold remained always the same? Barring "acts of God," yes.

Gold is the accepted measure of value. Why should the most important of all measures be governed by chance while the yard, the gallon and the pound are forever fixed?

POLITICAL COMMENT

Those Americans!

London (England) Express.

The Americans are inviting us to Washington again.

They are a wonderful race.

When the war was over they said to us, "Settle with Ireland and we are friends for evermore." We did it.

Then they said, "Give us a 9-mile limit to control our liquor smuggling and we are friends for evermore." We did it.

They said, "Settle the debt and we are friends for evermore." We did it.

They said, "Reduce your navy and we are friends for evermore." We did it.

They said, "Cancel your treaty with the Japanese and we are friends for evermore." We did it.

Now they say, "Go back to the gold standard and we are friends for evermore."

Possibly we shall do it.

Government Competition.

Kansas City Star.

Representative Shannon, of Kansas City, struck a good lead when he proposed an investigation of Government competition with private business. Government business encroachments have increased irrationally and there is urgent need of checking some of the operations. The prolonged hearings held by the committee have attracted much attention, revealing an extent of Government business operations not suspected by the public.

Some of the conclusions reached in the committee's report just filed are obviously sound. For instance, the Government has embarked on a huge and wasteful program of hospital construction. The committee recommends that no more new hospitals should be constructed but that private hospitals should be used. It would eliminate other similar extravagancies and certain forms of unfair competition of the Government with private enterprises.

Hoping to Stay.

Hartford Courant.

Two hundred thousand are expected to attend the inaugural of Mr. Roosevelt next month, all or them, probably, with the hope of staying in Washington in some office or other for the next four years.

House Economy.

Los Angeles Times.

The House of Representatives approved an appropriation of $966,838,634 for the Veterans' Bureau for 1933-34, thus showing the hollowness of the Democratic economy "program." Not even the 10 per cent slash promised by the subchairman in charge of the bill was put into effect; on the contrary, the appropriations were increased $18,000,000 over those of last year.

The President proposed a cut of $127,000,000 in these costs, while organizations such as the National Economy League and the National Committee for Economy in Government of the National Asociation of Manufactures showed that a saving of approximately 44 per cent was possible without real injustice to any veteran who suffered from war service.

The Conference of Governors.

New York Herald Tribune.

Without expecting too much to be accomplished by Gov. Roosevelt's brief conference of governors, we think the country will approve the move. He is certainly striking while the iron is hot. The influence of a President is never so great as in those first rosy weeks. As head of his party, the new President will speak with a voice of great authority to the 38 Democratic governors there assembled. If he can there and then, on the 6th of March, set forces in motion which will help solve the vitally important problems that have arisen between Washington and the State capitals, he will have done much.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Disgusted Citizen Regrets Experiment of Direct Election of Senators—"What Do Politicians Care?"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congress fiddles while Rome burns! How well these interviews of business men are timed to run into the new administration—solely for political purposes—capitalizing human misery and poverty instead of helping the "forgotten man" by constructive legislation during the current session.

What do politicians care for our homes or property of every description, or whether it is foreclosed or has to be sacrificed? And what do they care about things business men have to know regarding the tariff and other laws before they can go ahead and give employment to those hungry for jobs? The experiment of electing senators by direct vote was just another showing of the folly of tinkering with the Constitution, to be thereafter regretted.

T. X. MARSHALL.

Suggests Southern States' Bonds Held in England Should Be Credited on War Debt.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why bleed England? Even the price of human blood has gone down from $50 a pint to $35. What about the commercial bonds issued when the States were in rebellion, between the years 1840 and 1870, the face value of which was $77,650,000 without interest? Should not these bonds, with interest, held principally in England, have some bearing on the settlement of the war debt?

These commercial bonds must not be confused with those debts incurred by the States in rebellion, which were repudiated. Again, what about the long months in which the allies protected on sea and land America, in which time she (America) waxed rich on overcharged war materials which contributed to her protection?

M. H. BULL.

Wants Navy Kept Up for Safety's Sake in These Threatening Times.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Faced by the probability of threatening conditions, if not actual warfare, in the Far East, for a long time to come, what is this Government doing or thinking of doing to put the Navy at once in fighting trim? That is what American citizens just now are very naturally wondering about.

One lesson of the World War was to teach the need for "preparedness." At one time, as a slogan on the popular tongue, the world gave promise of an adequate naval program.

Today red-blooded Americans are vexed and humiliated by legislative proposals to slash naval expenditures to the point where a few more slashes would make the United States a hopelessly third-rate fighting force at sea.

It is all right to be too proud to fight in the sense that Woodrow Wilson meant it when he said it. But to be too proud to get ready and keep ready to fight under present world conditions looks foolish.

The Government's trifling naval policy during a few years past is especially provoking. It is high time to do one thing or the other.

If Uncle Sam's best bet is to become a conscientious objector and teach the world how to be good by moral suasion, very well, then. Scrap the battleships and let the Navy consist of a presidential yacht and fleets of rum chasers and pork-barrel river-and-harbor dredgers.

It has already been demonstrated that international armament agreements are untrustworthy.

The alternative for the small-navy program — the alternative which is likely to please the electorate—will be to build a navy stronger than that of any other country.

And don't lose sight of the fact that such a navy would serve us very well in promoting the doctrine of moral suasion in world affairs.

The rank and file of voters, if they had the chance, would indorse a super-navy policy.

As The Post has said, in an editorial lamenting the fact that our Navy is now inferior to that of Japan: "It is incredible that the American people will submit to seeing the Nation's first line of defense deteriorating to this extent."

JOSEPH C. BARNES.

Would Give Place to Youth in the Inaugural Parade.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: My idea of a fitting and popular inaugural parade seems to be somewhat different from that of the parade experts. In my opinion its chief appeal, in addition to patriotic band music and the display of Old Glory, should be to the spirit of youth. And there need be no fear that such an appeal will fail to please and enthuse the grown-ups.

Of course I am aware that an atmosphere of dignity is essential in inaugural ceremonies. But I see no reason why the people's street celebration of a Yankee President's installation in the White House should be monopolized by dignity.

The impressive tramp of the Nation's soldiery, marshals on horseback, dignitaries in high hats, as well as formal civilian marchers in clubs from all over the land are pleasing to the eye as an assurance that free institutions are still well safeguarded under the Constitution.

But I must confess that I am one of those who still have a liking for the resplendent drum majors, military and naval columns and snappy cadets.

Accordingly, in the belief that the healthy growth of plain democracy depends on keeping alive the spirit of good cheer and youth, I wish to assert that an inaugural parade is not entirely complete which does not include the high school cadets of the National Capital as well as the midshipmen of Annapolis and the cadets of West Point.

KING OF THE JUNGLE

by CHARLES THURLEY STONEHAM

SYNOPSIS.

Kaspa, the lion-man, found as a child in the African jungle by a lioness and raised with her own cubs, is brought to Canada by Martin Sefton, and is recognized as the sole heir to $4,000,000. He falls in love with a society girl, Madeline Moore. Because he realizes that Sefton also loves her and being fed up with civilization, Kaspa goes back to the jungle. Madeline and Sefton, together with Kaspa's relatives, Lucian and Sheila Marley, and Sheila's husband, Harland Reeves, go after him; Madeline, to find the man she loves, and the relatives to make sure he is dead, because they want his money. Lucian and Reeves have entered into a conspiracy with Loudon Grant, an unscrupulous commissioner, who has forced Jan Cloete, Dutch hunter, who originally captured Kaspa, to agree to shoot Kaspa if they run into him. Kaspa sees Lucian in camp, and tells him that they had better all go home, because he will not leave the jungle. In the meantime the remainder of the party is seeking Kaspa in the woods. Sefton and Madeline have become separated from the others, and hear a shot in the distance. They decide to investigate in the direction of the shot, and if possible to join the rest of the party.

CHAPTER XXVII.

"THEY may have found something," said Sefton, "although I doubt it. We shall have to wait for a better day for our search."

"But Kaspa must know we are here," Madeline protested. "I am certain he was near the camp last night." She was impatient and eager to find Kaspa after this long time of waiting, and Sefton's more restrained enthusiasm irritated her.

"Supposing we call out at intervals—won't he hear our voices and come to us?"

Sefton doubted it. Sound did not carry far in that blanket of white vapor.

Nevertheless, he agreed to try. They wandered along the edge of the rocks, calling like lost souls in the fog.

"It is a good thing we are on the side of a mountain," said the man after they had proceeded some distance. "We have only to go downhill and to the right to regain the stream and thus find our way back to camp."

"How do the animals find their way?" asked the girl.

"I suppose Kaspa would walk about here as we should walk about in a town, finding our way without difficulty no matter what the conditions."

Sefton laughed. "I remember Kaspa being quite bewildered in Toronto. It's all a matter of custom." He stopped and gave an exclamation of surprise.

Madeline saw that he was looking at the body of some animal among the rocks at his feet. It was a huge baboon, lying huddled, its hands pressed against a gaping wound in its chest.

"That explains the shot we heard," Sefton commented. He regarded the wounded beast commiseratingly. "Poor, wretched brute; it is done for. It seems pretty useless shooting these things. I seem to see Reeves' handiwork here. It is a huge monster, the biggest I have ever seen, and, of course, Reeves would not resist a trophy of that kind." He looked about him, expecting to see some sign of the hunters who had fired the shot. They were at one end of a steep-walled gully which ran back into the hillside for about a hundred yards, where it terminated in a series of rocky steps littered with boulders.

"I must put this poor brute out of its misery," he said, raising his rifle, while the girl turned away her head to avoid witnessing the murder.

The moment Sefton leveled his rifle the baboon raised its voice in a dreadful cry of terror and despair. It seemed to know what that action portended. The crash of the shot was echoed by a chorus of barks and screams from the further side of the donga. Sefton had been prepared for some response to the sound of his shot, but he had thought it would be human, not animal. It was barely half an hour since they had heard the report of Reeves' rifle, and he did not think the stock broker would have abandoned the search for his quarry so readily. When he perceived scores of huge shaggy forms bounding toward him out of the mist he received an unpleasant shock. He had heard of baboons attacking men, and knew them to be nasty customers to deal with, and these were giants of their species, such as no one of his acquaintance had ever encountered.

He seized Madeline by the arm. "Run along the donga?" he shouted. "Those beasts are going to attack us, and we must find some shelter if possible!" He fired a couple of shots, without effect, at the onrushing horde, and dashed over the rocks up into the gully, dragging the girl with him. Sefton's battleground was ill chosen. The rugged crags and tumbled boulders would have served well enough to frustrate the attacks of lions or buffalo, but the baboons were undeterred by these obstacles, which were more of an advantage than a handicap to them. In a few minutes the sides of the gorge were dotted with furious apes, chattering and screaming, raining down stones and boulders upon their enemies below. Sefton retreated to one of the rock steps, pushed Madeline into the shelter of an overhang in the cliff, and began to shoot coolly and calculatingly with a view to inspiring terror in the breasts of the attackers; but before he had been able to do more than wound one beast and frighten another a chance-flung stone struck him on the side of the head and he collapsed unconscious at the foot of the horrified girl. She dragged him into the shelter beside her, picked up the fallen rifle and, summoning all her courage to her assistance, faced the mob of shaggy demons.

The baboons swarmed down the rocks on all sides. They gathered about the ledge, leaping and scolding, trying to make up their minds to charge home and tear this strange-looking creature to pieces; but although Madeline was not sufficiently familiar with firearms to inflict any damage upon them, she knew enough to reload and fire the rifle, and the baboons feared the shattering reports of the weapon in the confined space.

Busy with her shooting, Madeline had no time to attend to Sefton, but she called his name repeatedly in a despairing voice, which elicited no response. The huge, gibbering, obscene creatures, leaping and screaming within a few yards of her, turned her sick with horror. It was difficult to look upon those clutching hands and bared, dripping fangs and not imagine what would happen if she fell into their power. She wondered if the rifle shots would reach to the ears of her friends, and screamed aloud to them to hurry to the rescue, but by that time Cloete and Reeves were half-way back to camp, and the deadening mist allowed no sound of the battle to reach their inattentive ears.

Madeline fired her last shots, and, in desperation clubbing the empty rifle, menaced the brutes with it. They gathered just out of reach, mowing and snarling. She knew that in another moment they would rush and overpower her. How she longed for the strength to leap upon them and club them with her weapon, to affright them with the violence and savagery of her onslaught! Oh, why did not her lover come to save her comrade and herself from a dreadful death? She was convinced of his near presence, and in her extremity she cried his name aloud into that wall of deadening mist.

"Kaspa! Kaspa!" she screamed desperately, and her cry was answered. Down the rocks he sprang, roaring his challenge, as swift and agile as the baboons themselves. Madeline had a bewildering glimpse of a huge naked figure flourishing a gleaming knife, and then he was lost to sight in a medley of struggling, heaving forms.

Kaspa had charged the baboon pack and gone to ground under the weight of their furry bodies, thrusting and grappling like the lion he was. He emerged from that flurry torn and bleeding, but still strong and uncrippled, leaping and darting among the demoralized baboons, and everywhere he struck, an ape fell howling in its death throes. They had not forgotten the lesson he had taught them out on the veld, and even now, when the advantage was all on their side they hesitated to close with that roaring, whirling figure.

Madeline watched, spellbound, a fight such as few people could imagine. Her tender flesh winced and shrank at the hurts her lover received, but amidst her fear and horror she was conscious of a fierce exultation at his prowess and the strength and courage that made him one with the kings of the wilderness.

As he fought, Kaspa roared the rallying cry, and a few hundred yards away in their sheltered cave Ruka and Dogo raised listening heads and recognized the voice of their leader. Madeline, appalled, saw huge tawny forms leaping down the rocks, and heard the awful, cavernous roaring of the infuriated lions. In a moment the baboons were fleeing in all directions, shrieking their dismay, and amongst them, like avenging demons, darted the lions, slashing and biting with savage energy. The pack had not forgotten their feud with the apes and the causes of it, and their wrath found full vent.

Kaspa left the pursuit to his followers and turned back to speak with Madeline. He stood leaning upon a rock looking at her, and below the mask of blood that covered it his face was inscrutable. She returned his gaze in silence; as yet her mind was too unruly for speech. She observed that although Kaspa's great chest was heaving and his body gashed and bleeding from a dozen wounds, he seemed quite calm and master of himself. She did not know what an effort that calmness cost him, for he was longing to spring forward and grasp her in his arms.

Instead of obeying that natural impulse, he said in a hard, even voice: "What are you doing here? This is no place for you. Sefton should not have allowed you to wander about here by yourself."

For answer she stepped aside and indicated the supine form of her friend and protector.

"Is he dead?" said Kaspa fiercely.

She shook her head. "Stunned, I think. Poor Martin."

Her voice was caressing, and Kaspa said quickly, "Are you going to marry him?"

Madeline smiled sadly. "No, Kaspa; there is only one man I shall marry." Her eyes dropped before his and she blushed faintly.

Kaspa drew a long breath that sounded like a sigh. "As long as it is a man, and not a beast," he said harshly. The next moment he had sprung and caught a projecting spur of rock, drawing himself up with ease over the rim of the gully.

The girl heard grunting, and the shadowy forms of lions crossed her vision in the gray mist.

"Kaspa, wait!" she cried in a despairing voice, but only those low grunts, diminishing in the distance, answered her.

Sefton stirred and muttered. He sat up, holding his head.

"What happened to me?" he said dully. "I thought I heard Kaspa's voice."

"Oh, Martin, he has gone!" cried Madeline with tears in her voice. "He saved us, and now he has vanished again!" She told him all that had happened, while he sat holding his aching head and staring stupidly at the limp shapes of the dead baboons.

After a time they began to make their way back to camp, slowly and painfully, for Sefton was weak and ill. He had managed to cheer his companion and himself with the knowledge that they had at least found Kaspa's retreat and must obtain further speech with him if they were persistent enough. Madeline would not be comforted. The sight of that gigantic godlike figure had awakened all her old longings, and she could only remember his gloomy looks and the strange words he had spoken. It seemed to her that he was wilder and more aloof than ever, further beyond her reach.

Duckett, of Catholic U., Wins Third Art Medal

Vernon F. Duckett, 3222 Warder street northwest, a special student in architecture at the Catholic University of America, won a first medal, a third place and $150 in the annual competition for the best design giving the greatest possibilities for display conducted by the Illuminating Engineers Society. Albert H. Alexander, a student at the C. U. Architecture School, won the prize last year.

This makes the third medal that Duckett has won during the present academic year. In the regular competition conducted by the Beaux Arts Institute he won a medal for his design for a summer palace for an exiled monarch, and later another medal for his design under the same auspices for a town house for a wealthy family.

Concert Is Given At University Club.

The lounge of the University Club was filled last evening with an interesting audience who gathered to enjoy one of the series of musical concerts arranged this season for members and guests of the club. Miss Marjorie Lowe, soprano; Miss Minna Niemann, pianist, with Mrs. Gertrude Smallwood Mockbee as accompanist, were the artists.

Prior to the concert the dining rooms were opened and thrown en suite for the hosts entertaining guests for dinner. Commander Frederick Southworth, Mr. and Mrs. Claude DeS. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Baker were among those who entertained guests at dinner.

Among those in the concert hall included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wymann Horton, Maj. and Mrs. William F. Friedman, Miss Gildersleeve, Miss Ker, Miss Adelia Rosasco, Mr. C. Taylor Miller, Mr. Walter H. Kelly, Mr. Robert W. Baltz, Mr. Marshall G. Munce, Miss Mona Gill, Miss Caroline Rogers, of Columbus, Ohio; Mr. Albert E. Stephan, who was host to Miss Sylvia Meyer; Miss Northa Porter and Mr. Paul Walter, also the members of the board of governors of the club, who, earlier in the evening, had attended the regular board meeting.

At the conclusion of the program Mr. Lewis Lofton Moneyway entertained the musicians along with a group of other guests at a buffet supper.

Mrs. Clara Keck Heflebower, of Cincinnati, national president of the National League of American Pen Women, had as her guests at luncheon yesterday at the Willard Hotel Mrs. Mildred Seydell, State vice president of the league in Georgia, and Mrs. Nell Wright, national president of the Delta Omicron National Musical Sorority, of whose official magazine Mrs. Heflebower is editor. Mrs. Seydell stopped over in Washington for the meeting of the national executive board of the league, which was held yesterday, on her way to Georgia.

Others present at this luncheon, which followed the meeting of the board, were Mrs. John Mock, Mrs. Harry B. Hunt and her guest, Mrs. Harold Elliott, of Phoenix, Ariz.; Mrs. Daniel C. Chace, Mrs. Robert Clay Sherrill, Mrs. C. Leonard Chambers, Mrs. Edna M. Colman, Mrs. Theodore Tiller and Mrs. Macpherson Crichton.

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother:

Today I went to a luncheon of six down in the dining room here. One woman told a wild tale. Her husband signed her papers and her 42 days are almost up. Then he sent a telegram saying he was retracting his signature. So she is going to get a default decree. The only reason she says she cares is on account of her two children. He might kidnap them in the State of New York and the only way she could get them back would be the same way or to bring suit against him. Practically every one here has children and that is really what all the rows are about, especially in the cases where women want entire custody and the husbands want mutual custody. The English woman whom I wrote you about (her sister is getting her second divorce here) has been here for six months. She boasted that her case was one of the most complicated in Reno. She has to wait here until she gets her American citizenship and a default divorce that will give her entire custody of her child in France, where she lives, in England, and here. She has five lawyers scattered about in the different countries all working in with the Reno lawyer.

I imagine she is rich and wants to protect her fortune, too. She and her sister have separate houses, which seems to me funny. Her sister won't meet anyone. Another girl at the luncheon had just arrived four days ago. I looked at her from the vantage point of my nineteen days, and felt vastly superior. Everybody was talking about default decrees, and comparing notes on who had stretched two days the farthest by the Reno system of escape, and whether Mrs. Christopher would marry the oil stock salesman, and I rather enjoyed my sense of being weathered over the new girl. But when the conversation touched on husbands she was no longer at a loss. ELIZABETH.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Claudette Colbert arrives in town and decides to give a party, although she is just out of the hospital. A nurse stays constantly at her elbow and as soon as she began to show fatigue, the nurse hurries all the guests out.

Such is the forced gayety of New York. The tense, hurried, spirit of the metropolis acts like a drug, building up one's hilarity so much that one moves along on one's nerves.

Kind-Hearted Pests.

Mounted policemen say that one of their chief annoyances is the kindly old lady who comes along and insists on feeding their horses with sugar, apples, carrots and other bits of food.

Their only objection seems to be that they don't like the inference that their horses don't get enough to eat.

Helen Westley, the actress, is famous for her be-kind-to-animals spirit. It is no uncommon sight to see her strolling near her home with a bottle of milk under her arm, prepared to feed any stray cat. Half a dozen delicatessens receive a set sum every week from her to place out food for cats and dogs in their neighborhoods.

The postoffice at Grand Central Terminal and the Metropolitan Opera House are the favorite stands of street bootblacks.

The epitome of politeness and kind regret seems to be a letter from a magazine editor rejecting a short story. And the most obtuse and puzzling letter in the world seems to be one of those form letters from the income tax bureau pointing out that there is an error in your return.

Second Story Man.

Speaking of red tape here is an incident involving the owner of an Eighth avenue clothing store.

Arriving there to open up in the morning, he discovered that he had lost the key to the door. The only way to get in was either to break the lock or climb to a second story window, crawl through and unlock the door from the inside.

He went to a nearby fire station to ask for the loan of a ladder, but there he was told he would have to get the permission of the captain of the precinct police station. But the police official first demanded that the clothier prove his identity and that he had a right to break into the store.

Well, the thing was finally achieved, but the clothier didn't get his store opened until nearly noon.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

HO, HO, Paris must have gotten a television of Sister Dionne and myself in our overalls at Dawn Mirage! Than which there is nothing whicher in which to garden cactus or chase rattlesnakes around the studio floor. We sewed them up the front (the overalls, not the snakes), cut off a lot of surplus at the waist and where we sewed them, made an opening at the side, and there we were! And to this we wonder why they wear and wash and don't give up to the desert sun.

Well, anyhow, plain ordinary blue denims disguised as "mechanic's overalls" have taken Miladi's heart in Paris, and the summer wardrobe is not complete without a couple!

Of course, you can't order some from a mail-order house and expect to look as though you stepped off Fifth avenue. Because these stylish ones are a bit wider in trousers, and, sh-h-h-h-h-h, come only to the knees!

And a cap just like brother's goes with them, a cap with a muchly exaggerated visor—and worn over one eye in apache manner.

Just the same, I like my own, 'n' when I get back to Dawn Mirage . . .

How many scarfs could you make—if you had how many scraps to make 'em with? That's something you'll never know until you have sent a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, for this week's illustrated leaflet—with its many scarf designs and ideas. And scarfs are something you can't have too many of—if you have the right scarf for the right thing—all the time. Mamzelle hopes that you will get the scarf habit, because it is such a gay and happy and flattering one—and one which costs so little money and takes so little time. Better get this leaflet and be convinced!

French Shut Shops As Taxing Protest

Textile Exchange at Lille Orders Quotations Suspended.

Paris, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The shutters were closed at noon on thousands of stores and even restaurants in Paris and tens of thousands of others in France as a protest by storekeepers against higher taxes and Parliament's reluctance to economize.

Dressmakers and the de luxe trades set the example, but many trades refused to sacrifice business, although sympathizing with the movement.

Taxpayers meanwhile called meetings in Paris and the provinces and at Lille the textile exchange ordered quotations suspended, tomorrow.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

RECENTLY I was invited to speak before a group of teachers in Newark, N. J. During the dinner we discussed the many problems of teaching, the tax on strength and nerves, but I ventured that all this was offset by the joy of knowing what a tremendous influence teachers had over the children in their classes.

No doubt many of you can remember the teacher of a decade ago with her high starched waist, very masculine looking; her straight, long skirt, her glasses, when not in use, hinged on a button worn near her shoulder. A stern, cold type who failed to understand her children and was not loved by them.

Contrast her with the teacher of today who seems younger, but isn't, who knows each and every child as well, perhaps, as its own parents and who is loved and "adored." Even more so than children emulate their parents, they like to imitate their teachers. (Any teacher, who has turned her class over to one of her children for a few minutes will agree with this statement.)

That is why I feel so strongly that teachers have it in their power to mold a lovelier race. No, they can't change the color of a pupil's hair or eyes or the shape of the nose. They don't need to. All they have to do is set an example of immaculateness with a hint of fashion and charm, keep groomed, keep their skin and hair in condition, apply make-up deftly and delicately to enhance their own coloring, but not look obviously artificial. In many cities the schools have teachers and parents organizations cooperating for the benefit of the child. If mothers and teachers would care for their own appearance, stay young and lovely as long as possible and avoid dowdiness, dowdiness would be an unknown thing to the child who knowing loveliness as a bud would develop into the beautiful flower it should be.

Do send for my Beauty Schedule and plan to spend a few minutes every day preserving your appearance. Exercise, join a gym or dancing class, play golf, keep in trim. You're the idol of so many young hearts.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

COLD FLOORS.

THE use of better instruments for measuring the heat of the body in different locations shows that cold feet are no creation of the imagination. The blood of the central organs maintains uniform temperature during health, as the physiologists tell us, but not the various parts of the body, and particularly the skin thereof. When the feet feel cold, they are cold—and the fact can be proved. This means something. For one thing, it means the difference between comfort and discomfort. There is some reason for thinking that the persons who are subject to cold feet also have a tendency toward rheumatism and that those who are prone to rheumatism are apt to end up with heart disease.

The research students are driving hard to find a way out of heart disease problems. A large part of those who have crippled hearts can be kept for many years in a reasonable state of efficiency if they intelligently follow rules laid down by their well-informed physicians. A fair proportion of those disabled by broken compensation can be put back on a plane of efficiency. All of which is very important, but prevention of heart troubles is very much more so. And the researchers are trying to find ways of prevention. Keeping the body warm in cold weather appears to be one way.

If all of this phase should be washed out, the discomfort of cold feet is excuse enough for a discussion of that subject. In every method of artificial heating, unless panel heating be an exception, the floors are cold. The fresh air that we let into a room for ventilation is almost certain to be cold air. Cold air always falls to the floor. When heating is done by open fires cold air to keep the fire going blows along the floor.

To overcome these sources of discomfort we make use of a variety of devices, such as carpets, rugs and footstools. Changing from shoes, often wet and cold, to loose, warm slippers on coming in is often worth while.

Persons who are to engage in sedentary occupations for several hours would promote their comfort and well-being if they would change from their wet, cold shoes to looser, warmer, drier footwear on coming in for the day's work.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS.

IF February 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:50 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:45 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The child born on this February 17 will quite probably be a difficult child to discipline; corporeal punishment will prove of no avail. He will quite likely show himself to be somewhat of a gourmand. Caring little for physical exertion, he will incline toward corpulency. He will not display great mental activity, but will carry along and should do average work in school.

If February 17 is the date of your birth, you are a person of great kindliness. You seldom criticize and you never condemn. If another is in trouble and has erred seriously, you are the first to look for extenuating circumstances. For the person who finds himself down and out, you always have a word of comfort and cheer. Your words of encouragement, backed by your sincerity in uttering them, do untold good in bringing others to struggle on and upward. As a clergyman, you could do much to strengthen the moral fiber of your parishioners. You are honest and unselfish.

The Meanderer

Finds Choice Bits for Sunday Night Suppers. Highly Seasoned Olives, Peppers From Turkey, Stuffed-Liver Sausage, Southern Ham and a Home-Made Spice Cake.

Let's begin with the crushed Sicilian olives. They're large, green, have been crushed and soaked in olive oil, and seasoned with garlic, red peppers, thyme and crushed mint. You'll never know until you taste them what an adequate appetizer they can be, and a reasonable one at 25 cents a pound, offered by an Italian importer in a centrally located downtown market.

Accompany the Sicilian olives with the little long, green pickled peppers from Turkey, found in another importer's place just below the Public Library on Ninth street.

And you might add to the hors d'oeuvres pickled vorvi, or wild onions in wine vinegar, offered alongside the pickled peppers from Turkey.

Truffle liver sausage is a delectable cold meat that might come next. It is offered to discriminating Washingtonians for the first time by a well-known cold meat dealer in a market on K street.

The Southern ham you may use with or without the truffle liver sausage; is yours for 35 cents a pound. Just down the way from the stand where I found the truffle liver sausage. More than 100 years ago this famous brand of ham had its initial curing in the famous Smithfield manner. Six to eight months are required for curing this type of ham. The ones offered at 35 cents, which must be bought whole, are a year and a half old.

A man's cake, maybe, but I'd call it every one's cake, and a truly home-made one that doesn't need to be made at home . . . meaning the big, two-layer spice cake, ready for your Sunday night supper, in a bake shop on Fourteenth street. This cake, by the way, is prepared just for Meanderings readers—actually. For if you ask for it, after reading about it here, you may have it for 49 cents. If you don't mention Meanderings you'll have to pay 60 cents for it. More about its charms: It is 8 inches wide. Its fluffy spiciness is put together with a sultana icing. You've never tasted it before, for one of the women bakers in the shop brought in the recipe from home, had it tested in the bake shop, with its resulting high score as a real home-made cake for the Meanderer's very special method of tantalizing you.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

FORCING WITH AN UNBIDDABLE SUIT.

ONE of the additions made to the Culbertson System, which has already proved its worth in actual play, is the making of a Forcing Takeout on an unbiddable suit, even of only three cards in length, provided that suit is headed by the ace. This bid is made, of course, only after partner has opened the bidding and the Responding Hand holds at least 3½ honor-tricks and a supereminent fit in partner's bid suit. The question involved is not one of game, but of Slam, which can easily be made, provided the hands fit. To force with a three-card suit, the suit selected for the Force must be headed by the Ace and must be lower ranking than the suit bid by the partner. This, of course, is just plain common sense; otherwise, an unmakable contract might be reached, as with the three cards of the suit, the chances are more than even that partner will hold length in the same suit, and if the suit outranks the suit originally bid, the result is likely to be nothing but disaster.

An example of this new use of the Forcing Takeout with a nonbiddable suit is given in the hand below.

1—After North's Opening spade bid, South's hand is obviously too strong to bid only four spades. On the other hand, it is not strong enough to bid six. Five spades would merely confuse the issue and hinder rather than help the exchange of information. Thus the Force with the three-card diamond suit. If North raises the diamonds too high, South can always return to the higher ranking spade suit.

2—This is the exact information which South was seeking. The Slam is now assured.

3—Using the Four and Five Notrump Convention, the bid in this instance discloses that South holds two Aces and the King of a bid suit. Inasmuch as North holds the King of diamonds, this shows him that South holds the King of spades.

4—A minimum response. North holds only one Ace, which is disclosed by his failure to bid five notrump. The danger of bidding an unmakable Grand Slam is thus avoided.

5—Knowing that North holds only one Ace, as was shown by his response to the four notrump bid, South now contracts for the Slam in spades.

Through a series of brilliant bids, the ultimate trick-taking power of the two hands has been ascertained.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If you held the South hand pictured below and opened the bidding with one spade, to which your partner responded with two clubs, what would you now bid and why?

Fifth Avenue Fashions

HERE'S a nice sports rig for school, college and general day occasions. The skirt is the new wrap-around, and is carried out in oxford, gray soft woolen of angora weave. The shirtwaist blouse is pale gray crinkly crepe silk.

It's fascinating, too, fashioned of one material, as orangy-red, or a medium blue soft angora wool jersey.

Style No. 3330 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 39-inch material for blouse and 2⅞ yards of 35-inch material for skirt. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Something new! Something different!

We are proud of our new Fashion Magazine for spring. It's much larger and different than any issue previously published. It's 48 pages. This book contains all of the new spring styles for women, misses and children. In addition, it contains the most interesting illustrated articles—beauty hints, hairdressing, how to reduce sensibly, poise as aid to fashions, dressmaking hints, knitted sweaters, quilts and embroidery, &c.

The supply is limited, and so we suggest that you send 10 cents for your copy today. Just write "Fashion Magazine" on any piece of paper, inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin, and mail your order to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

HAWAIIAN SENATOR WOULD OUST HEWITT

Attorney General's Removal Asked for Way Massie Case Was Handled.

Honolulu, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Senator David Trask introduced in the Hawaiian Senate today a resolution declaring Attorney General Harry Hewitt "should be removed from office without delay" for the manner in which he conducted the case of four men accused of assaulting Mrs. Thomas H. Massie.

The resolution asserted Hewitt had so performed his duties in the case as to bring him "into public disrepute and public suspicion." Action on the resolution was deferred until March 15.

Trask's resolution was introduced after receipt of a dispatch from Philadelphia quoting Mrs. Massie, the wife of a naval lieutenant, as saying Hawaiian authorities had prevailed upon her to leave Hawaii before the men accused of attacking her were to be retried. The jury disagreed in the first trial, at which Mrs. Massie testified. The case was quashed last Monday and the men were freed.

Bares Crime Trade.

Mrs. Massie said Hawaiian authorities induced her to leave the islands to save her husband and mother and two naval men from jail, after they had been convicted of manslaughter in the shooting of Joseph Kahahawai, another of her alleged attackers, and sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment.

"They offered to commute the sentence to one year," she said, "if I would leave Hawaii immediately. The offer was refused. They immediately offered to commute the sentences to one hour. This was accepted, and soon we left Hawaii."

Hewitt said he knew "absolutely nothing of any such arrangement."

Kelley Denies Charges.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley said: "Mrs. Massie's statement is bunk. She left on the advice of Mr. Darrow. There never was any such deal, of course. She got out of Hawaii because her husband's attorney, Clarence Darrow, told her to get out."

When informed Mrs. Massie had said he "whitewashed" the assault case, Gov. Lawrence M. Judd remarked:

"The case has been closed by regular legal procedure and the governor does not intend to enter into any further discussion of the matter."

Wine-Brandy Measure Defeated in Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Arkansas Senate today defeated a bill by Senator Abington to legalize the manufacture and sale of wines and brandy.

There was no debate. The vote was 28 to 5.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE have been many stars, some of them in the top flight, who have fought for their own way in the choice of roles and not a few of them have waged successful battles. Not many of them, though, after having had their own way, and not doing so well with it, have had the courage to come right out in meeting with the admission that they were wrong.

John Barrymore.

That, however, is what John Barrymore—of all people!—has done.

John Barrymore's career in the celluloids, up to a comparatively short time ago, seemed to many observers to be following a steadily descending course. All of that superb natural equipment that made such artistic successes of "Peter Ibbetson," "The Jest," "Hamlet," and a long list of other notable achievements, seemed to be going to waste in film plays of no substance and no intrinsic worth; not only going to waste, but for all any one was able to determine to the contrary, entirely disintegrating.

Barrymore—and he says so himself—might long ago have been doing the worth-while characterizations he has been contributing to such impressive camera dramas as "Grand Hotel," "A Bill of Divorcement," "Rasputin and the Empress" and others of his more recent vehicles, if he hadn't insisted on having his own way.

He says one of the producing companies to which he was long under contract was 40 per cent and he 60 per cent wrong for allowing him this freedom when he was its star.

In "Topaze," opening today at RKO-Keith's, he is a whimsical, eccentric professor, giving his performance touches of greater restraint than his followers have been in the custom of seeing.

This subject has been a tremendous hit at the Radio City Music Hall, in New York. In it, the youngest of the Barrymores appears in the role that was created on the stage by Frank Morgan, last importantly cast on local screens, if memory serves, with Lee Tracy and Lupe Velez in "The Half Naked Truth."

It is not surprising that one so gifted as John Barrymore should so quickly regain his lost, or rapidly evanescing, prestige by a succession of sterling performances.

But that he ever should have admitted that he was wrong is something else again, as any star will tell you!

One discovers by pricking up his ears and listening closely that Katharine Cornell's production of, and performance in, Sidney Howard's new play, "Alien Corn," at the Maryland Theater in Baltimore this week, is being discussed in Washington almost as widely as any offering presented in one of our own theaters.

Among the most interesting and soundest of the suggestions that have come to my knowledge is the one that the role of Mrs. Harry Conway—ignored by a husband who doesn't love her—played with fine intelligence and effect by Lily Cahill, is in essence tragic, although it is being emphasized as a part of the drama's so-called, and needed, "comedy relief."

It is true that Mrs. Conway is a pathetic figure, engulfed in much the same sort of hopeless frustration as Elsa Brandt, Miss Cornell's character, and waging a valiant fight to recapture something of her husband's interest and affection. But that Miss Cahill is being goaded into making the role a symbol of comedy is, I think, a greater asset than it is liability.

Miss Cahill is so charming in the part, brief as it is, and so expressive in her final, bitterly tinctured realization that the woman she has been trying to help is the one her husband really loves, that Mrs. Conway stands in no danger of being written down among the play's negligible personages.

Mr. Clifford Brooke, that indefatigable actor, director and educator, whose Academy of Stage Training in the Dramatic Arts completes its first term on March 25, announces that the second term of the academy will begin on April 3 and, like the first, continue for a period of ten weeks.

With 100 students enrolled for the first term, the Brooke Academy is now a proved success and promises to become one of the country's foremost institutions for dramatic and expressional training.

The second term will provide beginners' classes as well as advanced classes for those who have completed their first term. Students are given their choice of morning, afternoon or evening periods.

A brief word from Harry Essex, manager of Miss Tallulah Bankhead's "Forsaking All Others" company, at the National last week, mailed in Boston Tuesday morning, bears this message, among others: "Off to swell start here last night."

The inference is that the week in Washington served several remedial purposes and served them right well, too. Another half-week of "breaking-in time" and then New York for Miss Bankhead, and—we shall see what we shall see. And I hope it's just dandy!

So the Madrillon is going in for girls.

The current floor show at Senor Boras' emporium of spicy viands includes the Hart Sisters, singing and dancing lasses, fresh—but not too fresh!—from a three months' engagement at New York's famous Hollywood Supper Club; Dorothy Delmont, blues canary, and Virginia Estes, specialty and acrobatic dancer. Herb Gordon and his band, of course.

When the National Symphony Orchestra, Hans Kindler, conductor, presents its next concert in Constitution Hall on Sunday afternoon, the soloist, in case we have forgotten to mention it, will be Levitzki, celebrated pianist. Worth hurrying the Sabbath dinner a little for, these concerts.

If the editor of the magazine Time, being sued by Kate Smith's sister, Helene, for "invasion of her right to privacy," &c., &c., had ever seen Helene throwing her Packard over the road, he probably would have suspected that she neither weighed a paltry 97 pounds nor was a "dependent" upon the bounty of her more famous sister. Helene's her own girl, and I wouldn't kid you!

Oh, Helene, if you win, remember I'm your partner!

Speaking of incoming pictures, those who visit the Rialto, come Saturday, will see Lee Tracy in one of his best. By which I mean one in which he is not still playing either the patriotic congressman in "Washington Merry-Go-Round" or the spieler—and, getting right down to brass tacks, what's the difference?—in "The Half Naked Truth."

In "Private Jones" he is a new guy entirely and you'll love him, even if he is a draft dodger.

Manager Rodney Collier shot the filtum for a small private audience in the nobby little projection room down at the Fox Film Exchange yesterday afternoon, and they ate it up!

No, it is a Universal production. They show up all right on Fox screens.

Some curiosity has been expressed in the trade as to what it can be that an independent producer has that he can honestly call, "Trapping Kentucky Moonshiners." The "revenooers" are no doubt wondering the same thing.

Your assumption that it may have something to do with "Alien Corn" is probably not correct!

BANK BANDIT CHIEF DIES IN POLICE DUEL

Machine Guns Subdue Three Others After $37,230 Philadelphia Holdup.

Philadelphia, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—With machine guns blazing a staccato that stilled defiant pistols, the law today caught up to the elusive Willie Ferguson bank robbery gang.

Tonight Ferguson's body lay in the city morgue and the three men, who earlier helped him kidnap the cashier of the First National Bank at suburban Ambler and fled with $37,230, were under arrest.

The captured three, survivors of an exciting gun battle, were questioned about six additional bank robberies, three in southern New Jersey and three in Philadelphia.

The gang was cornered in a hideout less than an hour after racing from Ambler, by detectives who lay in wait—unaware of the four's latest escapade.

A large sum of money, in two traveling bags, was found in the raided house in north West Philadelphia. It was reported to total more than $50,000, and was believed by police to include the proceeds of several holdups.

The robber slain, a former convict, was killed by four machine gun bullets as he barricaded himself in a bathroom and elected to "shoot it out."

Two women companions were arrested with them. A third woman in another part of the house was held for questioning.

The bank robbers had just returned to the house after holding captive all night Samuel Horst, 45, cashier of the bank, and his wife in their home. Horst, at pistol point, was forced to go to the bank and open the vault.

Detectives who had been trailing the gang as suspects had planned to make the capture last night. But as they arrived at the rendezvous they found the men had emerged.

Sensing that they were going out on a job, the detectives decided to wait, hoping they would catch the men "with the goods." They did.

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 17, 1933 SPORTS

G. W. FIVE REPULSES LOYOLA IN ROUGH GAME, 62-36

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE healthy mutuel prices being paid daily at the Hialeah track are a significant argument in favor of the Australian totalizator, or tote, the huge electrical automaton, which goes through all the motions of selling mutuel tickets with a speed and infallibility that shames the efforts of the humans who dispense the tickets at the Northern tracks.

The cost of the totalizator, in the neighborhood of $200,000, has been the greatest drawback to its installation generally at the tracks in this country, but Joseph D. Widener counts his investment in the Hialeah tote as one of the prime factors in the success of his track at Miami.

The fool-proof machine soon will be installed at Hawthorne, in the Chicago area, and with word that they will soon be available at rental rates, the spread of the totes into Maryland is not far distant, with the saving on printing expenses of the tickets alone warranting its use, according to Florida officials.

Accomplishes Many Miracles.

The totalizator accomplishes the following miracles by medium of its thousands of miles of electrical wire and other gadgets peculiar to the machine:

It prints tickets (in two colors) and issues them in one operation.

Each ticket, as printed, is counted both on the individual machine and on a central or master machine in charge of a chief operator.

It will print and issue in one operation from one to ten tickets on each horse.

Each machine can print, issue and count 600 tickets a minute.

It covers each ticket as issued with a coating of cellophane to prevent smudging the fresh ink.

Many Advantages For Race Fans.

To the race fan, the totalizator means that:

Prices of the horses which were in the money can be posted on the mutuel board almost instantly as contrasted to the minutes of waiting on other tracks while the mutuel men are computing the odds.

As much as an hour's delay in the mutuel department can be saved and thereby shorten the time needed to run off a program of races.

If necessary, races can be run at 10-minute intervals, so quickly does the tote do its work.

The price against every horse is available at any time during the betting.

It makes juggling of the mutuels impossible and safeguards the public from false odds as the result of late "come-back" money.

"Comeback" Money Scourge of Track.

The item dealing with "come-back" money is vastly important. "Come-back" money for years has been the scourge of the mutuel tracks with race players virtually in the dark as to the true odds as a result of the practice of dumping huge sums in the machines at the last moment.

The "come-back" money represents the flood from bookmakers throughout the country which finds its way to the track the last possible moment before the race

Jones Victim Of Grobmier "Scissors"

4,000 Watch Tide of Bout Turn After 34 Minutes.

McMillan in Draw With Ernie Dusek; Rudy Wins.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

WITH a maniacal, crab-like mixture of a figure four scissors, a Wallace Beery leer and a loose interpretation of a four-in-hand knot, Fred Grobmier, the only wrestler in the world who operates without an ample belly, defeated Paul Jones last night in one of those rare upsets that the mat moguls allow to creep into the well-regulated game every decade or so.

Beaten into a limp mass by the twice as strong Jones, Grobmier rallied after 34 minutes of pounding, creaking bone-bending, to throw Jones with Jones' own chief weapon, a hook scissors which he slid somehow around the neck, shoulders and ankles of the Texan, bundling him in a semielliptical mass with his (Jones') loose leg sticking straight up in the air and his broad and beefy shoulders ground 6 inches into the mat.

Jones Victory Loomed.

Twice during the bout the crowd of 4,000 had stirred in their seats, rustled on overcoats and commenced the task of getting out of the Auditorium. Jones seemed a certain winner. He broke Grobmier's early scissors holds with ease and held his own with equal ease. He'd clamp a figure four hold around Grobmier's middle, the muscles of his legs would stand out like iron pipes and Grobmier's waist would be reduced to about 16 inches and the rest of him grow proportionately larger.

Twice Umpire Burns counted 1-2 as Grobmier's shoulders rested on the mat, but each time he managed to wriggle loose. For the last ten minutes they did the same thing over and over. Jones would grab Grobby by the neck and hurl him completely over his head three times. On the fourth attempt Grobby would leap up on Jones' back and secure a scissors hold. Then the boys would sit down on the mat to rest a while and Grobmier would, gentleman-like, do the same thing to Jones.

Stecher Match For Winner.

The ending came with refreshing suddenness. Grobmier next will be matched against Joe Stecher, the third hook-scissors artist now in captivity, indeed, a fast-declining clique it is, like the dwindling association of spitball pitchers.

The preliminaries were uniformly well presented. Jim McMillan revealed an unexpectedly good left hook in his match with Ernie Dusek, Rudy's tough little brother. It went to a 30-minute draw. A clown bout: Milo Steinborn vs. Frank Bureah, also resulted in a draw. This gift to culture was marked by the habit of Mr. Bureah of bumping his head into Mr. Steinborn's ample middle, whereupon, Mr. Steinborn would say, "Ooomph." And the kiddies in the house were vastly amused.

Rudy Dusek beat a guy named Joe in 16 minutes and Able Coleman, the gill-sized measure of muscles, finished handsome Juan Humberto with a nice kick-on-the-jaw hold in 18 minutes.

Corbett Surprises Family by Walking

Ex-Ring Champ Comes Out of Semicoma; Weighs But 140 Pounds.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Only a shadow of the man who knocked out John L. Sullivan, but still a champion in courage, James J. Corbett today roused himself from a semicoma in which he had lain for several hours and walked about his home.

Corbett, in his sixty-seventh year, has been seriously ill with a heart ailment since January 31. Yesterday morning his condition became so alarming his physician resorted to stimulants to prolong his life and he had lain since in a half stupor, from which it had been difficult to arouse him to take food.

This afternoon, with friends momentarily expecting word of his death, Corbett awoke, climbed out of bed and walked through the house. He was prevailed on to lie down again, but appeared none the worse for his unusual activity.

"You just can't predict what he will do," said his old friend and constant bedside companion, John Kelliher. "You get ready to say 'Good-by, Jim,' and he says, 'Hello, John.'"

Friends who have visited Corbett in the last few days report that his illness has taken heavy toll of his strength and weight. He now weighs about 140 pounds, only a shadow of the fine physical specimen he was when he was the champion boxer of the world.

Turbulent Season of 1930 Saw Nats in Second Place With Cronin in Star Role catapulted into stardom in 1930 in his third season with the Nats, batting .340 and gaining the league's most valuable player award.

Goslin Was Traded in Midseason After Holding Out.

(Herewith is the twentieth of a series of articles in conjunction with The Post's baseball contest.)

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

NEXT to the Nats' pennant-winning years, 1930 stands out most prominently in the memory of Washington baseball fans. There was excitement of one kind or another from the very first day the new calendar was put into use. First was the argument with the City of Tampa over a training site, with the resultant shift to Biloxi; next came threats and counter-threats, as both Leon (Goose) Goslin and Catcher Roy Spencer held out for larger salaries; then came the Nats' surprising second-place finish in the American League race, and finally the naming of Shortstop Joe Cronin as the "most valuable player in the American League to his club."

And in between these happenings were crowded a number of purchases and trades which made the Nats the most-talked-of team in the league. Just before the trading season ended in mid-June, Dave Harris was obtained from the White Sox in exchange for Ernie (Red) Barnes.

Goslin Traded To St. Louis.

And right on the heels of this deal came two more—the shift of Goslin to the St. Louis Browns for Heinie Manush and Pitcher Al Crowder, and another trade with the White Sox which sent Catcher Bennie Tate and Pitcher Garland Braxton to Chicago, in exchange for Art (the Great) Shires.

Add to these swaps the purchase for $65,000 of First Baseman Joe Kuhel from Kansas City and of Pitcher Lefty Carl Fischer for $35,000 from Newark and it will be seen that District baseball addicts had much over which to rave.

As to the flag race, the Nats, who finished fifth under Walter Johnson's leadership the previous season, stepped out at the very start and led the parade for a month. Then, although they slipped back to second, they were always in the running until the final month. The Athletics finally beat them out by eight games, with the Yankees trailing the Nats by ten and the Cleveland Indians pulling up in fourth place. An injury to Manush starting the second Western invasion ruined the Nats' pennant chances.

Johnson's team had a winning streak of ten games during the season, never lost more than five in a row, and was the only club to hold an edge over the Mackmen in face-to-face meetings. This series was an odd one. The Nats won the first seven games, then lost the next seven but rallied to win five of the remaining eight.

For some unaccountable reason, the Nats turned a complete flip-flop from their 1929 form. Manush led at bat, with a nobby .350 average, Rice hit .349 and Cronin .348. West, Judge, Myer and Shires finished better than .300 as the team finished third on attack. On defense, Judge led the first sackers and Bluege, Cronin, Manush and Spencer ranked second in their positions with the team rated second.

Although Liska finished second to Lefty Bob Grove in effectiveness, he was not the Nats' best pitcher, winning but 9 of 16. Crowder had the most wins, 18, as against 16 losses, while Marberry's record was 15 and 5. Jones' 15 and 7, and Hadley's 15 and 11.

Cronin Named on All-Star Team.

Cronin's selection as the most valuable player was an outstanding feature of the year when it is considered that 1930 was only his second complete season as a regular. He also was given a place on the Sporting News' All-Star Team.

In the world series, the Mackmen downed the St. Louis Cardinals by taking four of six games . . . Al Simmons was American League batting champion . . . Hack Wilson stole Babe Ruth's home-run crown, hitting 56 to the Bambino's 49 . . . the long fly scoring a player after the catch was ruled out as a sacrifice.

Contest Facts In Brief

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, will select in The Washington Post of March 19 his all-time, all-star team from among the clubs that represented Washington during the years from 1912 to 1932 inclusive.

The fan who submits the selection that matches or most nearly matches Griffith's selection will be adjudged the winner of the contest.

One man is to be selected for each of the infield and outfield positions with four pitchers and two catchers.

To the winner The Washington Post will award eight box seats to the 1933 opening game between Washington and Philadelphia.

Second place will net four box seats, with third place earning two box seats.

Entrants may use the accompanying coupon for their selections, although the use of the coupon is not necessary for entrance in the contest.

The contest will close March 15.

Each entrant is limited to one selection.

Moore Denies Taking Over Golf Club

Considering No Deal to Gain Control of Indian Spring.

Thinks Club Will Adjust Present Costs of Operation.

TOM MOORE, owner of the property embracing the Indian Spring Golf Club in Silver Spring, yesterday denied that he was considering taking over control of the club following the report that it would be refinanced.

The Indian Spring Club's 25-year lease of the property from Mr. Moore still has more than 15 years to run and it was reported that the club had asked a revision of the lease in view of decreased membership. Mr. Moore was said to have offered a counter proposal which would place him in control under a new and smaller budget.

Mr. Moore issued the following statement:

"There has been no such deal offered, or considered. I wouldn't consider same if such a proposal was made to me, for several reasons, first, of which is that operation of the club's affairs should be under jurisdiction of club members and officials.

"I have neither the desire nor the time to operate Indian Spring or any other golf club. I am wholly in spirit with ideas that anticipate giving maximum benefits, at minimum costs, and I have confidence that Indian Spring will adjust its operating costs to current conditions. I shall enjoy giving full measure in cooperation to serve their purposes and policies for the future, as I believe I have done in the past."

The Indian Spring Club held its annual election of officers on Wednesday and it was said yesterday that a statement probably would be issued today on the prospect of reduced dues or other new policies.

Campbell to Attempt New Record Monday

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 16 (U.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell intends to send his superautomobile Bluebird bulleting over the white coral sands to a new land speed record on Monday.

Sir Malcolm announced today he will make a test run Sunday, and if everything is in perfect condition he will swallow an aspirin Monday, climb into the Bluebird's cockpit and try to better his own world record of 253.868 miles an hour.

Carr, Sprint Champ, Has Water on Knee

Philadelphia, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Lawson Robertson, University of Pennsylvania track coach, said today that Bill Carr, 400-meter Olympic champion and one of his aces, has water on the knee.

Carr's injury, Robertson said, is not serious, but may involve keeping him off the track the rest of the indoor season so that he will be fit for the spring season. Carr twisted the knee in a race last Saturday.

Bachman to Coach At Michigan State

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Charles W. Bachman, former University of Florida gridiron mentor, was named head football coach at Michigan State College today by the State Board of Agriculture. Bachman succeeds James H. Crowley, who resigned to accept a similar position at Fordham University.

Starting his career as an assistant coach at Depauw University in 1917, Bachman moved on in turn to Northwestern, Kansas State and Florida.

Harold "Red" Grange, former "galloping ghost" of the gridiron, is shown watching what he said would be his last professional football game—a contest in Los Angeles between the Green Bay Packers, with whom Grange played, and a team of former Southern California stars. With him are Earl "Curly" Lambeau, Packer coach, and Myrna Kennedy, actress.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (U.P.).—Red Grange, who admits he's merely a ghost of the old "Galloping Ghost," turned philosopher today, picked to pieces his own career on the gridiron and held it up for the inspection of those who "want to play football like Red Grange."

Somewhat bulkier than when he wore the Orange and Blue of Illinois, sifting through opposing lines and out of the arms of tacklers, Grange paused after eight years of professional football to review the past and consider the future.

Red might or might not play again. He isn't sure about it.

Game Not Easy To Give Up.

"Right now I believe I'm through," he said, wearing the lopsided grin so familiar to sports page readers. "But when next fall comes around, I might go in and try football another year. It isn't so easy to give it up.

"I loved football, both as college and professional player. Many lads like football because of the headlines their deeds bring the next morning. Those players have no business continuing in the game after college.

"If you want to turn pro, look over your prospects. Don't sign in a hurry.

"If you have any other prospect that looks good, take it. Few make good in professional football.

Sees No Glory in Pro Football.

"Don't go into pro football for the glory. It's hard work. It's a good game to use to get a little money to start in business, but I have noticed that eight out of ten pro gridders have nothing left at the end of the year.

"If I knew as much when I left Illinois as I know now about football I would do it all over again. That's how much I like football.

"I feel fine, but I'm not kidding myself. I'm getting old, too old to play. Right now I'd like to grab a coaching job, preferably as an assistant to a recognized coach."

Mother of Schaaf Sends Carnera Token of Comfort

WRENTHAM, Mass., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Although overwhelmed by her own grief, the mother of Ernie Schaaf today tried to send a ray of comfort to the man who fought her son in his fatal boxing match.

"Kindly be assured," she telegraphed to Primo Carnera in New York, "that I do not consider you in any way responsible for the death of my boy. I feel toward you like I would have wished your mother to have felt toward my Ernie if you had met with some misfortune during your bout with him.

"I thank you for your offers of sympathy and for your kind expressions of admiration for Ernie."

Three Managers United at Bier.

The three managers who directed Schaaf in life were united about his bier today.

Phil Schlossberg, who took Ernie under his capable wing when they were shipmates about the U. S. S. Denver, and who served as his first manager, was so overcome by the Madison Square Garden tragedy he resolved to retire from boxing.

His first move, after leaving the little house that he helped the boxer purchase for his mother with his first ring earnings, was to mail his manager's card back to the New York Athletic Commission.

Schlossberg cited his chief reason for surrendering his New York license was his belief that the manager of a boxer has no control over him under the New York commission rules once the bout is under way. He pointed out that full authority is vested in the referee and claimed that the official is not as competent to decide when a boxer is unable to continue as his manager.

Sharkey to Quit As a Manager.

Jack Sharkey, who joined Johnny Buckley in taking over Schaaf's contract from Schlossberg, vowed that he would not manage another boxer while he held the heavyweight championship.

The sorrowing Buckley, who regarded Schaaf as his son, has hardly rested since his boxer collapsed. Most of the funeral arrangements have been made by him and today he selected a number of Schaaf's closest friends to serve as pallbearers during the funeral, which will be held from St. Mary's Church tomorrow morning. Those named were Jerry Buckley, brother of the manager; John Flanagan, Dr. William McGuire, Owen Woods, Jack McCarthy, Frank Connors and Jake Fine, his constant companions during his leisure hours.

Delegations from all of the East's boxing circles will assemble at the Schaaf home to pay their last respects before the body is moved to the church, where a solemn high funeral mass will be sung.

Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery in nearby Foxboro, and there, as the body is lowered into the grave, a volunteer squad from the Boston Navy Yard, will sound taps and fire the final volley.

Johnson May Learn Jersey City Fate Today

New York, Feb. 16.—Whether or not Walter Johnson, former great Washington pitcher and manager of the Nationals from 1929 to 1932, inclusive, will land the managerial berth of the Jersey City Internationals probably will be known tomorrow.

The Jersey City club had a poor season financially last year and its owner, Sam Colacurcio, has been given until tomorrow to show the International League directors that he is financially able to carry on during the coming season. If not and no purchaser of the franchise is found, the league plans to take over and operate the club and it is understood that it has in mind naming Johnson as manager.

Captain Zahn Breaks Nose In Victory

Baltimoreans' Early Rush Soon Checked by Colonials.

Colonials Take Lead Soon After Start and Hold It.

IN one of the roughest court battles waged on local boards in a long time, George Washington University defeated Loyola College, of Baltimore, 62-36, for its seventh consecutive victory before a small percentage of the city's population at the Colonials' sports coliseum last night.

From the opening gong to the last sprawling minute George Washington was in the lead, but the scenes of wild disorder on the floor made the score appear as close as a couple of toes. It looked like an exhibition of the new football rules.

Zahn Breaks Nose.

The Colonials traded a few socks on the nose and kicks on the shins for their victory, but managed to even matters near the end of the fray by turning loose their shock troops upon the invading quintet. Capt. Art Zahn suffered a broken nose when he collided with Vince Carlin, of Loyola, for the most serious casualty recorded. The others were of a more minor nature.

Jimmy Howell, with whom Carlin shared scoring honors, each shoving the ball through for 16 points, contributed the outstanding shot of the game near the end of the first half, with G. W. leading, 19-11. Howell streaked down the floor as his team came into possession of the ball after halting a Loyola advance. Zahn whipped the ball at him, high and on the outside of the blackboard. Still traveling at full tilt, Howell leaped into the air and took a healthy slap at the leather, deflecting it into the basket.

Colonials Leading At Half.

Loyola started the second half with its host leading by a count of 29-15. It made a gallant effort to close the gap with Shorty Beitz, who contributed 13 points to the score, and Carlin carrying most of the burden. But as the game wore on G. W.'s beautifully conceived plays worked magically, but it disturbed Loyola not a little bit. With Vinny Carlin as a rough-and-tumble ringleader, Loyola battled for every point. Spinning G. W. players right and left Carlin staged a one-man rally that brought his team to within 14 points of the leaders, at which point Coach O'Leary, of the home club, decided there wasn't much use using basket ball players, so he yanked the entire team and put in a team of 200-pound football players known as the "Riot Squad." The G. W. bruisers played with elephantine grace, but the caliber of the tackling, clipping and hauling runners down from behind showed a distinct turn for the better.

STEALINGAWAY WINS THIRD STRAIGHT AT HIALEAH PARK

Feature Nets Double for Meade

Also Rides Sure Pop, 29-1, to Victory in Fourth.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Stealingaway, S. W. Strang's reliable 3-year-old, ran his local winning streak up to three straight when he scored a driving triumph in the De Soto Purse, a dash of 7 furlongs, here this afternoon. Not to be undone by his mount, Jockey Donald Meade recorded his second victory in a row. The combination paid $5.80 for two.

C. V. Whitney's Redress, coupled with Three Daggers, lost the purse by a length and a half, while saving the place from E. R. Bradley's Blessed Event by three lengths. The time was 1:25 1-5.

Redress, Blessed Event Lead at Start.

Redress and Blessed Event dominated the running for a half-mile, but Stealingaway, escaping from rather tight quarters, moved up menacingly before entering the stretch. He took the lead from Blessed Event and continued courageously when Redress spurted again through the last furlong.

It was an unusual thing to hear some of the spectators boo Johnny Gilbert after the Kansas boy appeared to have "lossed off" the third race astride Aegis. Contribute beat the odds-on choice by a head, while Judge Primrose was three lengths back in third place. Aegis assumed what looked like a winning lead after turning into the stretch, but Contribute, closing steadily on the outside of the leader, got up in the last few strides, under the whip. Contribute returned $7.70. H. Bagur completed a double on the winner.

Sure Pop, at $61.40, Wins Fourth.

Don "Longshot" Meade performed his specialty act in the fourth race, guiding the $61.40-for-two shot, Sure Pop, to a driving score over the one-mile distance. We Dun It was second, with Solace third, all necks apart. The winner was outrun early but saved a lot of ground entering the stretch and getting to the front held on gamely to beat We Dun It. The latter took the overland route all the way or he might have won.

G. W., William-Mary In Tank Duel Tonight

George Washington University's natators plunge back into the water tonight at the Ambassador Pool still seeking their first victory of the season. William and Mary College will oppose the home team.

The two are evenly matched and a close score is expected, although George Washington is hopeful of collecting just a few more points than their guests. Max Rote (captain) Dyer, Ghormley, John Hains, Walter Sompyrac, Maurice Burnside and Karl Vartia comprise the Colonial line-up.

Jack Bonner, fancy diver, will not compete because of a wrenched back. Sampyrac or Ghormley will be substituted for him.

GIANT CLASS OPPOSED BY BROWN

YPSILANTI, Mich., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The suggestion of William Muldoon, veteran New York boxing commissioner, that boxers of Primo Carnera's weight be placed in a "superdreadnaught" class and compete only in that class, finds little favor with James M. ("Bingo") Brown, president of the National Boxing Association.

"I think it's wholly out of order," Brown said today. "Heavyweights are always heavyweights. It's only once in a great many years that a fighter of Carnera's weight comes along." He added that fights involving principals of the Italian's weight "are not good fights."

The death of Ernie Schaff following his bout with Carnera, the boxing association head said, was "just an unfortunate thing," and added that in the "interest of good sportsmanship" Carnera should go back to Italy "and let the people forget the whole affair."

Boxing, Brown said, "has had few deaths compared with other sports, such as football, swimming, automobile racing and the like."

Double Bill Tonight At G. W. Gymnasium

Emerson Institute plays Washington and Lee University's freshmen team tonight at 9 o'clock at the George Washington University gym. It will be their second meeting on the court this season. Emerson won the first game played at Washington and Lee.

Immediately preceding at 8 o'clock the Eagles and Lustine-Nicholson quintets clash, also for the second time this season. The Lusnics won the first game, 30-29.

AMERICAN U. WINS FIFTH STRAIGHT

Eagles, Led by Sells, Beat Lynchburg by 44-to-25 Score.

WITH the same smoothness that has characterized its play all season, American University defeated the invading Lynchburg College quintet by a score of 44-25 before a large crowd last night on its home court. It was the Eagles' fifth consecutive victory and eleventh in thirteen games for the year.

American seized the lead immediately after the opening tap-off and was never headed. Led by Oscar Sells the District team rolled up a 26-13 lead in the first half which found Lynchburg unable to locate the hoop to any great degree of success.

Herb Young rallied the Virginians in the second half, but the uprising was nipped in the bud as Glad Williams and Leon Dick added to the home team's score. Young was outstanding for Lynchburg.

Golden Prince Dies Of Blood Poisoning

The grand old warrior by Golden Guinea out of Round the World, ran his greatest race, the Coffroth of 1929, in the silks of Harry Unna Imperial Beach, Calif., turfman and trainer.

MANY SWIM ENTRIES.

More than 30 entries have been received for the A. A. U. indoor championship swimming meet for boys under 14 years of age to be held tomorrow night at the Ambassador pool. Contestants have been entered by the Boys' Club, Shoreham Club, Y. M. C. A., Jewish Community Center, Ambassador Club and various Boy Scout troops. Six events are on the program.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: MIAMI, FEBRUARY 16.

Some days you just can't make a pickle and today was one of them. Everything was lovely except the way the Bennings horses performed. Once again I missed a shutout by a narrow margin, having only Stealingaway in the right spot. However, I can always point to a heavy representation in the money when trying to alibi. I passed the Fair Grounds book to Mike and it dug up what he calls a "Jean Harlow" parley. His picks are Flirting and Sizzling and he recommends them for a place hook-up. BILL.

FIRST RACE—COMES JUNE might graduate in this ordinary field although I'll probably make BLACK SHEEP win it by naming the Whitney bum for place. TEMPLE DANCER showed some speed yesterday and may take care of the show.

SECOND RACE—INTERRUPTION is as good as anything this bunch can show at three furlongs. Had little chance the last time out, being caught in a jam. TOMFOOLERY and TOPPLE to battle it out for the place award.

THIRD RACE—I don't believe the NOSE IN people will let this purse get away from them. Figures to beat SCREECH despite the latter's fine recent showing. UPPERCUT seems the most likely show horse of the rest of the crowd.

FOURTH RACE—I'm taking GENERAL A. This fellow has several fast moves to his credit and drops 12 pounds. MARMION is sharp enough to take the place. ACTION can't give away weight and beat these, it is my belief. But I have been wrong often.

FIFTH RACE—FLYING CHEROKEE won at this distance recently and the field was no better than this one. Have to give him the preference over FORT DEARBORN, which has the apprentice mark up. LAURA GAL may be the sleeper. This one has been tending to her knitting of late and is due to make a money bid shortly if not tomorrow.

SIXTH RACE—They come pretty cheap in this group. Personally I like KNEE HIGH. LUCKY RACKET should take care of the place as usual. HORATIA for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—FERVID, VILLAGE VAMP and BRANDON PRINCE to battle for this one. Jaffa might take them at six furlongs, but this is a mile.

Hitting the Headpin

Howard Parsons and Henry Hiser defeated Andy Zeller and Ray Von Dreele, of Baltimore, 1,306 to 1,288, in the second block of their doubles match last night at Bethesda. Zeller rolled 620 and Von Dreele, 668. Parsons had a 682 set, with Hiser's 662.

Marion Fleming rolled 334 and Pauline Bradburn 126, to lead the Ladies Federal League at Arcadia. War had a 542 game and Veterans Bureau a 1,523 set.

A pair of Wilsons, Earnshaw and George, copped individual honors in the Nation-wide loop at Convention Hall. Earnshaw had 131 for game and George 329 for set. Gobel's 523 and Auth's 1,420 took team honors.

Engineers rolled 570 and Accounting 1,574 to bag team laurels in the Kilowatt League at Convention Hall. Bill Krauss had a 141 game and Bill Wiltshire a 357 set.

Charlie Kolb's 145 and Ray Deaner's 368 topped the Daylite loop at Convention Hall. Herald had a 576 game and 1,638 set.

Mathews toppled 171 pins for high game and a new season's record in the War Department League at Arcadia. His set was 390. Adjutants hung up a new team game mark with 630 and finished out the string with 1,719.

Maryland rolled a record set of 1,603 in the Intercollegiate Alumni League last night as his team took two games and almost the third from Penn. Penn needed 18 pins for a tie as its anchor man, Dudley, came up for the final box. Dudley did even better. He spared and struck with the free ball. Archie Roberts had a 156 game, new high for the season, and Muskoe Garnett a 392 set. V. M. I.'s 581 was a high team game.

600 Registrations For Post Tourney

Near-Record Number Applies for A. A. U. Cards for Title Court Play.

More than 600 athletes, representing one of the largest groups ever to seek membership, had applied for cards in the District A. A. U. by midnight Wednesday, it was announced last night by Charles M. Fyfe, chairman of the registration committee. Wednesday marked the deadline on all applications for players desiring to compete in the mammoth basket ball tournament, which begins on March 2 at Tech High School under the sponsorship of The Washington Post.

Fyfe last night pointed out that where players had registered last year with teams other than the ones they are now performing with, it will be necessary to arrange transfers. This is done for the sake of accuracy in the A. A. U. records. Also, players holding cards issued last year that have expired my renew the same and become eligible for participation in the tournament.

Team entry blanks continued to pile up on the Sports Editor's desk at The Post last night. All must be returned by midnight Thursday. Drawings in the various classes will be made as soon as possible thereafter.

Miss Orcutt, Mrs. Hill In Palm Beach Finals

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Miss Maureen Orcutt and Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Western woman's champion, came off victorious in today's semi-final round of the Florida women's championship golf tournament and will battle each other tomorrow for the title.

Miss Orcutt, already winner of two of the tournaments, defeated Miss Grace Amory, of Deep Dale, Long Island, 3 and 2, while Mrs. Hill eliminated Miss Kathleen Garnham, British golfer, 3 and 1.

MARYLAND U. FIVE BEATS ST. JOHN'S

Snyder Outstanding as Old Liners Win by 34-22 Count.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND rang up its fifth straight basket ball victory by downing its old State rival, St. John's of Annapolis, 34 to 22, in Ritchie Coliseum last night. It was the Old Liners' ninth win against eight defeats and gave them two triumphs out of three against Maryland collegiate rivals.

The game was contested under unusually rough conditions, a total of 30 personal fouls being called; 19 on the visitors, and 11 on Maryland. Three St. John's players and one Old Liner went out via the foul route.

Bob Snyder, Maryland forward, was the outstanding court performer, registering three floor goals and eight in eleven foul shots for a total of 14 points. He was ably assisted by Rufus Vincent, center, who grabbed 9 points for runner-up honors.

Except for being tied once in the early moments of the game, the Old Liners always held the lead over the Johnnies, though the score was generally close during the first half. At the intermission Maryland led 16 to 9.

De Lisio Features for Visitors.

Starting the second half, Snyder's offensive efforts soon gave the Old Liners a ten-point advantage, which they generally maintained during the final 20 minutes.

The play of De Lisio, substitute guard, former Central High star, was a feature of the second half. Entering the game for Cassasza, who went out on four personals, De Lisio kept the Johnnies in the running by scoring two court goals and as many fouls for six points. He also guarded Vincent and held the big center scoreless from the floor in the second half.

St. John's, unable to work the ball under the net because of the tight Old Line zone defense, resorted to long shots and four of the visitors' seven floor goals were scored by this method. MacArtee counted seven points to top the Johnnies' attack.

Fourteen of Maryland's points were scored from the foul line, while ten double-deckers were netted from the floor, Snyder and Vincent each registering three.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MEMORIAL services for those members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives who died during 1932 will be broadcast today (WJSV, 12 o'clock noon).

The ceremony of the roll call of the deceased members will be heard. As each name is called, Representative Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey, will place a red rose in a receptacle on the Speaker's dais. Two eulogies, one by Representative John W. McCormack and the other by a member as yet unannounced, will be spoken.

Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing, will appear with Edwin C. Hill on an "Inside Story" program (WJSV, 9:30 p. m.).

As chief officer of the grim "Big House" on the banks of the Hudson, Lawes is known throughout the country for his humane and sympathetic treatment of prisoners.

THE first and second acts of "Gotterdammerung," the concluding music drama of Richard Wagner's celebrated "Der Ring des Niebelungen," will be carried over WRC from the Metropolitan Opera House from 1 to 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Artur Bodanzky will conduct. The opera will be sung in German with the following cast:

Siegfried ..... Lauritz Melchior
Bruennhilde ..... Goeta Ljungberg
Gunther ..... Friedrich Schorr
Hagen ..... Ludwig Hoffman
Alberich ..... Gustav Schutzendorf
Gutrune ..... Dorothee Manski
Waltraute ..... Maria Olszewska
Woglinde ..... Editha Fleischer
Wellgunde ..... Phradie Wells
Flosshilde ..... Doris Doe
First Norn ..... Faina Petrova
Second Norn ..... Phradie Wells
Third Norn ..... Dorothee Manski
Two Men .. Max Altglass, Arnold Gabor

"The Kind of Mail a Governor's Wife Receives" will be the subject of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's talk on Pond's program (WRC, 9:30 p. m.).

DUKE M. PATRICK, general counsel of the Federal Radio Commission, has resigned, effective March 1, to engage in private practice. He will enter the law firm headed by Frank J. Hogan, well-known Capital lawyer. Karl A. Smith, an assistant counsel in the legal division, also turned in his resignation, effective the same date.

Mr. Patrick was appointed assistant general counsel of the commission January 27, 1930, and served in that capacity until March 28, 1932, when he was appointed general counsel to fill the vacancy created when Col. Thad H. Brown was appointed a commissioner.

Fred Hufsmith, lyric tenor, failed to keep one of his audiences from moving out en masse. He was in the midst of a solo in the opera house of a small town in Ohio when the fire siren wailed forth.

The fire chief (and it wasn't Ed Wynn) was down in front. "Let's go, boys!" he shouted and headed for the door. All the men in the audience rose and followed him, and the women and children followed the men. Hufsmith was left hanging on a high note. When the chief and his valiant crew extinguished the blaze everyone trooped back to the opera house and the concert was resumed.

The Federal Bar Association banquet at the Mayflower tonight will be broadcast by WMAL beginning at 9:30 o'clock.

"TONY THE BARBER," with his comments on current events, will be heard in a new twice-weekly program Mondays and Thursdays over WJSV beginning next Monday at 6:30 o'clock. "Tony" is a Washingtonian. His real name is Edwin Callow.

With the timely aid of his faithful guitar and Col. de Wallac, the perennial customer and victim of many a close shave, "Tony" hopes to recapture his large audience of followers who have not heard his ether program since last year.

BECAUSE of the Federal Bar Association banquet, the Postilion will be broadcast at 9:15 o'clock tonight over Station WMAL. The Post's late news will be given at 10 o'clock, the regular hour, tomorrow night.

George Olsen and Ethel Shutta, who start a week's engagement at Loew's Fox Theater today, are being seen by Washington radio fans for the first time, since they are making their first local stage appearance since their musical comedy days.

Eddie Cantor is given credit for discovery of Olsen, who became musical director of the Ziegfeld production, "Kid Boots," later going into "Sunny," "Good News," "Whoopee" and "The Follies." Miss Shutta, who is Mrs. George Olsen, was one of the stars in "Whoopee." They are heard regularly over the air, coming into Washington on the Oldsmobile program on Saturdays over WRC.

The Baroness von Lowenfeld will be guest speaker on the "Among Women" program over Station WMAL at 11 o'clock this morning.

IT isn't George Washington's Birthday yet, but Representative Sol Bloom having a little spare time on his hands between now and then will step to the microphone at WRC at 6:45 o'clock, and say a few words about the "Official Inaugural Program."

The Roosevelt-Cermak shooting will be reenacted during "March of Time" tonight.

The disaster at Neunkirchen in the Saar iron district when the explosion of gas tanks resulted in the death of sixty-eight and the injury of 1,000 will be another feature. The catastrophe took place while people throughout Germany were listening to a radio speech by Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

D. W. Griffith, Marion Davies, Constance Bennett and others will be featured tonight in the "Hollywood on-the-Air" (WRC, 12:30 midnight).

Knights of Columbus In Joint Meeting Tonight

The chief speaker at a joint meeting of the five councils of the Knights of Columbus tonight at 8 o'clock at 920 Tenth street northwest, will be Francis J. Heazel, of Ashville, N. C., a member of the supreme board of directors of the order.

The meeting will be a Catholic action rally, in answer to a message from the Pope urging affirmative action on the part of Catholic laymen in this particular time of distress.

Bob White

The Old Philosopher

SAYS:

Question—Do you think it necessary to go to church in order to be a Christian?

Answer—I would not want to offend any of my friends by answering what I believe to be the right answer, without making some reservations.

I do believe one may be a better Christian by the fine fellowship that the church offers but I would not care to say that going to church is incumbent upon one before he may become a Christian.

Some of the finest Christians in the world have never known the inside of a church—not because they did not want to go, but that they were unable. It would be foolish to say that the "shut-ins" were less Christian than those who attend divine worship within the church building.

Saul became a Christian on the road to Damascus. The conversion of the soul must first be within the soul's own cathedral, and at the chancel steps of one's own heart's chapel.

Going to church will sustain you, it will give you the association of those who love God, and this will hold you fast to the faith.

Bob White, the old philosopher, will answer an outstanding question each week day on this page. He is heard twice daily over WMAL at 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

"The Story of the National Parks" will be the subject of an address by Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service, who will speak before the National Geographic Society in the Washington Auditorium tonight.

To illustrate his lecture Mr. Albright will show a number of unique films, including a natural-color motion picture of the boiling lava at Kilauea in the Hawaiian National Park. There will also be views revealing animal life in Yellowstone, Yosemite and other Western parks, as well as pictures showing parties of vacationists being conducted through the parks by rangers.

U. S. S. Akron Officer Weds Clarksburg Girl

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Feb. 16.—Miss Dorothy Davis, high school teacher, and Paul F. Randolph, chief radio man on the United States dirigible Akron, were married this afternoon at the home of former Mayor L. D. Lowther at Salem. The ceremony took place in the same room in which the bride's parents were married with the Rev. George B. Shaw, Seventh Day Baptist pastor, officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Davis, of Salem. She was graduated from Salem College and recently taught in the Spencer High School.

Stocks' Tone Is Improved Despite Heavier Reactions

Loss of 1.2 Points Added as Sales Climb to 1,079,872 Shares.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Stocks were reactionary again today, though the tone hardened a bit toward the close. Net changes, however, averaged into a larger loss than yesterday's and volume increased moderately.

With rails weakening and a few industrials troubled by adverse dividend action, speculative sentiment continued flabby. Wall street was cheered by the progress being made in working out Michigan's banking difficulty, but knew a substantial currency circulation rise had occurred incident to the flow of cash into that State. The Federal Reserve Bank entered the money market, which had firmed slightly, cutting its bill-buying rate and purchasing Government securities.

Railroad news included a foreclosure move against the St. Louis-San Francisco, and indications that Baltimore & Ohio's plan for meeting its large March 1 maturity would soon be declared operative. Loadings reports this week have been fairly favorable, but other aspects of the carrier situation are currently receiving more publicity. Norfolk & Western dropped 5 on its usual small volume. Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Delaware & Hudson lost a couple of points, while liberal fractional net losses appeared in New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Pacific and some others.

Utilities were steadier, on the whole, than yesterday. Consolidated Gas profited by early short covering, but sagged later; American Telephone held rather stubbornly, though Public Service of New Jersey and Peoples Gas lost 2 and North American almost a point. Texas Gulf Sulphur's reaction to the dividend cut was a 5-point loss. International Harvester, whose payment was likewise halved, yielded 1½. National Biscuit, Allied Chemical and Standard Oil of New Jersey were prominent heavy spots, but the U. S. Steels were fairly steady, showing fractional recessions with Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Case, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and Chrysler. Corn products, which has been a large holder of railroad stocks, had an extreme loss of 3 points. Sales totaled 1,079,872 shares.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Thurs.	Wed.
Advances	78	185
Declines	361	193
Unchanged	133	135
Total issues	572	513

Stocks.

Reactions again carried stocks to new low levels. The loss averaged 1.2 points. In spite of the declines, the general tone improved near the end. Sales increased to 1,079,872 shares.

Bonds.

Heavy sales of second-grade corporate issues sent prices down sixtenths of a point. High-grade issues held firm support. Sales climbed to $11,451,000.

Curb.

Oil issues held up well in a soggy market. Utilities led losses. The sales volume increased to 140,000 shares. Industrials and specialties joined the declines.

Wheat.

Heavy export buying sent wheat prices higher, even in the face of selling. Corn and oats sagged on account of late arrivals of corn. May wheat sold at 47⅞@47¾ cents.

Cotton.

Farm relief uncertainties and restricted business caused slight losses. May sold at 6.07 as the general market declined 1 to 2 points. Liverpool was credited with selling cotton in New York.

High Mark Cited By New York Life

1932 Called Banner Year of Service; Pays Out $225,250,000.

Thomas A. Buckner, president of the New York Life Insurance Co., commenting on the company's annual statement, published in this paper, stated that 1932 was one of the most noteworthy years since it was organized in 1845.

"Though it has been nearly 88 years since the New York Life began business," said Mr. Buckner, "1932 was unquestionably our year of maximum service to policyholders. The total paid to living policyholders and to beneficiaries was $255,200,000, exceeding by $27,600,000 the largest amount so paid in any previous year.

"The income for 1932 was $407,235,904.31, and the company met on demand every contractual obligation from its current cash income without having to sell a single security and without borrowing a dollar from any source. We made new investments amounting to $46,623,000 and closed the year with a larger amount of cash in bank than at any other year-end in the company's history."

The company's balance sheet shows assets of $1,974,076,041.43 and liabilities of $1,860,106,133.54, the excess of assets over liabilities being $113,969,907.89. This amount of unassigned funds, or surplus, is available for unforeseen contingencies.

HIGHER GRADE BONDS FIRM AS OTHERS SAG

Second Rate Issues Lead in Losses; Sales Mount to $11,451,000.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Handicapped by heavy selling in the second-grade corporate issues and continued heaviness in the U. S. Government list, the bond market pursued a generally downward course today.

The decline brought an appreciable increase in volume which amounted to $11,451,000 compared with $9,499,000 on Wednesday. The composite average declined 6-10 of a point, which barring Tuesday's break was the sharpest for some time.

In the U. S. Treasury group, the 3 1-8s and 3¾s showed the most pronounced ease. Liberty loans sold off a little after showing a slightly higher range in the early trading.

Few carriers escaped the selling movement in rails. Southern Pacific issues were uniformly heavy, and some of the loans of leading systems like New York Central, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Santa Fe, Rock Island and Burlington registered losses ranging from 1 to 3 points.

Most of the higher-grade descriptions in the utility and industrial divisions reflected firm support, but the second-rate issues were rather heavily sold, resulting in losses of from 2 to 4 points. Loans of most of the rubber-tire divisions were especially weak to the accompaniment of unfavorable forecasts of first-quarter earnings.

In the foreign department it was largely a repetition of yesterday's trend. Most of the Germans were weak along with Japanese and many of the South American loans.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was influenced by the Far Eastern situation and further losses were recorded in Chinese and Japanese bonds while German news depressed German bonds. Dealings otherwise were narrow with irregular movements. The closing was dull.

Paris—Prices on the bourse were unfavorably affected by the decline in the dollar with numerous issues undergoing substantial losses. The closing was heavy.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse improved and closed slightly below the best.

BANK OF ENGLAND.

London, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve increased 7,319,000; circulation decreased 2,307,000; bullion increased 5,013,000; other securities increased 116,000; public deposits increased 2,348,000; other deposits increased 5,627,000; notes reserve increased 7,362,000; government securities increased 850,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 34.12 per cent compared with 30.99 last week.

Rate of discount 2 per cent.

Number of Companies Join Drive for Better Earnings

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Corporate earnings statements for 1932 show a formidable succession of decreases and deficits, but the drabness of the records is believed by a fair number of concerns which either cut operating losses or increased profits as compared with 1931.

Of the 400-odd companies reporting to date about 8 per cent issued more favorable figures than for 1931 in spite of the widely accepted belief that industry suffered greater handicaps last year than in any preceding year of the depression.

The aggregate profits of the entire group, as compiled by the Standard Statistics Co., amounted to $140,938,000 against $569,710,000 in 1931, a decline of 75 per cent.

About 40 of the companies actually contributed improvement to the record, but their gains were naturally far outweighed in the compilation by the very much greater number of earning decreases and increased deficits.

More flexibility of expense control, strategic locations for prompt delivery of products and less severe competitive conditions were regarded as factors helping this small group to file better returns.

While some large units are represented in the group, the majority are relatively small concerns. They include Atlantic Refining, American Commercial Alcohol, Gulf States Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, General Tire & Rubber, Lima Locomotive, South Puerto Rico Sugar, Standard Brands and Sun Oil.

GOODS MARKET.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Gray cotton goods were inactive today; finished cloths were bought moderately. Burlap for spot delivery was steady with business negligible. Rayon purchases were lighter. Sales of flannels are lighter after a good volume of business for the season. Other dress worsteds were quiet.

OILS HOLD ON CURB IN DULLER TRADING

Utility Issues Lead Loss as Sales Volume Rises to 140,000 Shares.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Curb market was decidedly soggy today, particularly in the utility division. Oils held up fairly well, but considerable scattered selling appeared in industrials and specialties. Volume aggregated 140,000 shares, only 20,000 more than yesterday's.

American Gas & Electric lost more than 2 points in fairly active selling. In light trading Consolidated Gas of Baltimore declined 1¾, and Duke Power 2. Electric Bond & Share lost ¾, then recovered most of its gain. The 6 per cent preferred was firm, in response to the regular dividend.

Among industrials and specialties, losses of around 2 points appeared in Great Atlantic & Pacific, Mead Johnson, Tubize A and Quaker Oats, mostly in small dealings. Aluminum Co. lost a point, as did Deer. Axton Fisher also sagged a point, although tobaccos on the big board stiffened under short covering. Imperial Tobacco of Great Britain lost ¾ in a sizeable turnover.

American Laundry sagged a fraction. Its quarterly dividend was reduced to 10 cents from 30. Glen Alden rose a fraction, then sagged to close off ¼. Its 1932 report showed net of $1.02 a share, against $4.01 in 1931. New York Shipbuilding appeared to have discounted a favorable 1932 report in its recent rise and slid off a fraction. While 1932 earnings were up a little, unfilled orders were only about half those of a year previously. Cheesbrough Manufacturing ordered the usual extra dividend of 50 cents, but the stock was inactive.

In the oils, Indiana sagged ⅝ of a point and Gulf ¼. Mining stocks moved narrowly.

Money Circulation Sets $5,854,000,000 Record

(Associated Press.)

Circulation of money in the United States reached the highest point on record for the week ending February 15, which the Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday amounted to an aggregate of $5,854,000,000.

The increase during the last week amounted to $149,000,000, and in the last year to $245,000,000. The previous high record was established last July, when the circulation amounted to $5,775,000,000.

The increase was attributed at the Treasury for various reasons. In normal times a seasonal increase of currency is always experienced in the middle of February, and in addition to this many banks are holding a large part of the oversupply of currency in their vaults to meet emergencies that might arise.

The increase, officials said, also might be attributed in some degree to the closing of banks in the Detroit district and the drawing of currency out of postal savings accounts and other places where it could be obtained.

BANK OF FRANCE.

WHEAT VALUES RISE ON EXPORT OUTLOOK

Advance Continued in Face of Selling; Corn, Cut; Oats, Down.

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Large export buying in Canada strengthened wheat prices today, and was more than a counterbalance for unsettlement of securities.

Reports of approaching exhaustion of home-grown wheat supplies in Europe and the Orient were current. There were also advices that Argentina and Australia had both ceased to press wheat exports.

Wheat closed firm, ½ to ⅝ above yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ¼ lower; oats, ½ off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

Selling Is Defied.

Not only did wheat advance in the face of stock market weakness, but also despite persistent selling of May wheat both here and at Kansas City. This selling was generally construed as liquidation of United States Government-financed holdings. On the other hand, estimates indicated 1,250,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought today for shipment overseas, including a cargo to the Orient.

Wheat bulls emphasized that grain prices in general had risen at this time last year, with most of the advance held until the end of May. Talk was prevalent also that there was increased appreciation of the bad crop outlook in the United States, Russia and elsewhere, and that supply and demand was on a decidedly different basis now compared with the last six months. Sharp notice was taken on an official report indicating 1931-32 world disappearance of wheat had been the largest ever known.

Corn and oats prices lagged on account of increased arrivals of corn. Harvesting of the new Argentine corn crop was reported as progresing in the north earlier than usual, with some exports of new corn probable in March.

Provisions were responsive to downturns of hog values.

CAPITAL STANDS 9TH IN BUILDING PERMIT

San Francisco Leading List With $14,557,555 for January.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Washington stood ninth on a list of 25 cities reporting the largest volume of building permits for January, the national monthly building survey, prepared by S. W. Straus & Co., reveals. Valuation of local building for that month was $392,080.

Owing to a vast number of projects announced there, San Francisco, with $14,557,555 worth of them, displaced New York City, with $2,670,832 worth of projects, as leader in the list for the first time in many months and took a long lead over the other cities.

Its valuation of projects represented 43.19 per cent of all the building reported. This naturally placed California leader in a list of 12 States in which the District of Columbia was last. The list of cities was closed by Yonkers, N. Y., with $132,850 worth of projects.

Insurance on Gain.

While people are turning more and more to life insurance as one of the few unshaken forms of security and protection, yet, in these times of lost capital, lessened wages and diminished purchasing power, it is amazing to learn that one company alone, the Sun Life of Canada, whose report appears elsewhere, dealt with applications for new insurance last year at the rate of $1,000,000 a day. It is plain that, if the capacity to buy life insurance has been reduced, the desire to possess it has been correspondingly increased.

The Sun Life Co. reports that on every working day last year it paid out to policyholders on their beneficiaries $360,000.

The Sun Life of Canada now has a million policyholders and nearly three billions of insurance in force. Its investments help to maintain industrial activity. But, in addition, its payments to thousands of individual policyholders and those dependent on them, is a vital factor in helping to solve the urgent economic problems that just now press so insistently for solution.

At the annual meeting of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of Baltimore City, held in Baltimore this week, the following directors were reelected: Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Henry M. Warfield, R. Howard Bland, William G. Baker and Albert D. Hutzler, Baltimore; Alexander Armstrong, Hagerstown and Baltimore; Lloyd B. Wilson, Marshall D. Sedam and Philip O. Coffin, Washington, and Walter S. Gifford and Eugene S. Wilson, New York.

Phone Board Reelected.

At the annual meeting of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of Virginia, also held this week in Richmond, the following directors were reelected: John S. Eggleston and William T. Reed, Richmond; Goldsborough Serpell, Norfolk; Homer L. Ferguson, Newport News; Junius P. Fishburn, Roanoke; Robert Gray Williams, Winchester; Lloyd B. Wilson, Walter S. Clarkson, Marshal D. Sedam and Philip O. Coffin, Washington, and Walter S. Gifford and Eugene S. Wilson, New York.

Wednesday night, Washington Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, held its monthly meeting at the Hotel Harrington. Sixty-three members and 21 associates or guests first listened to a delightful music entertainment given by the Kilowatt Glee Club, composed of executives and employes of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and then heard Joseph K. Moyer, chairman of the special advisory committee of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and dean of the School of Accountancy of Southeastern University. After describing specific differences in the several income tax laws since 1909 in quite a simple and practical manner, the intricacies and mazes through which a tax return proceeds through the bureau, the Board of Tax Appeals and the courts until finally adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, were recounted.

In the discussion which followed Oscar J. Bernstein, C. P. A., president District of Columbia Society of Certified Public Accountants, and Joseph Zucker, C. P. A., professor of income tax accounting at Benjamin Franklin University, participated.

Steel Seen Headed On Long-Pull Gains

Pittsburgh and Youngstown Districts Bringing In More Capacity.

Cleveland, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—While iron and steel activity "hangs in the balance," developments over the week-end were "encouraging for the long pull," the magazine Steel said today. Steel-making operations barely held at 19 per cent in the week ended yesterday and the decline of 3.5 per cent in unfilled orders of United States Steel on January 31 suggests that "improvement in production in January may have overrun new business."

As an offset, the magazine said in its weekly review, such major districts as Pittsburgh and Youngstown have brought in more capacity, neutralising curtailment at Cleveland, Buffalo and Birmingham; Ford has resumed and is expected to release substantial requirements this week; an important rail inquiry is being formulated, and a number of large structural projects are a step nearer maturity. The January showing in steel production when the daily rate was increased to 38,704 tons from 32,485 in December, was made almost entirely without the assistance of such heavy consuming industries as railroads, farm implements and structural steel.

"The lift thus far in 1932 has been the result of numerous small consumers becoming more active, plus a rate of assembly of automobiles outrunning January and February a year ago. To the shutdown of Ford January 26 and the consequent far-reaching holdup of material, considerable of the recent easiness in demand may be attributed, and Ford business will be an important factor in the last half of February.

"Recent weakness in sheet and strip prices may prove salutary by instilling a sounder appraisal of the price situation. Scrap is less buoyant than a week ago. Pig iron shipments are continuing in February the improvement which set in last month."

HARTZELL ARRESTED WHEN LINER ARRIVES

Alleged $1,000,000 Swindler Will Seek Freedom in Iowa.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Oscar M. Hartzell, charged by the Government with taking an estimated $1,000,000 from Middle Western investors on fabulous stories of billions they might collect from a mythical estate of Sir Francis Drake, will go back to Iowa to answer conspiracy and mail fraud charges.

Deported from England as an undesirable alien, Hartzell arrived today on the liner Champlain, was arrested when the ship nosed into quarantine and later arraigned before United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill.

He was accused specifically of communicating with Oscar Hartsock, of Laurens, Iowa, telling him he (Hartzell) owned the Drake estate and would offer shares to "donaters." Hartzell waived examination, bail was set perfunctorily at $10,000 and he indicated he would make no effort to obtain freedom until he reaches Iowa.

He will entrain for Sioux City within the next 24 hours in custody of a deputy marshal and Postoffice Inspector John Sparks, of Sioux City, who came East to get him.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—New life insurance written in January by 44 companies having in force 81 per cent of the total outstanding in all American legal reserve companies, totaled $614,431,000, against $944,848,000 in January, 1932, a decrease of 35 per cent. Ordinary insurance amounted to $423,573,000, a drop of 31.2 per cent; industrial insurance was off 28.6 per cent, to $168,312,000, and group insurance totaled $22,546,000, or 79.9 per cent less than a year ago.

A membership on the National Raw Silk Exchange sold today for $1,520, an increase of $170 over the previous transaction.

The Guaranty Trust Co. today received gold shipments totaling $1,500,000 from France and $220,000 from India.

The J. C. Penny Co., chain stores operators, will retire 96,000 shares of its preferred stock, bought in the open market and tendered by holders under the company's offer of January 11, President E. C. Sams announced today. The company has in excess of $22,000,000 cash available for meeting the redemption cost. Holders whose stock was accepted by the company received $103 a share.

Exports of refined sugar in 1932 totaled 47,567 long tons, compared with 51,441 in 1931, Lamborn & Co., Inc., sugar brokers, estimate. Refined sugar shipments by the United States reached the peak in 1922 at 836,100 tons. Since that time they have steadily declined.

Dow, Jones and Co. said today that the New York Central system is understood to have shown a deficit after charges of approximately $2,500,000 in January. This would compare with a loss of $1,564,707 for the same month of 1932.

Crude oil deliveries by nine pipe line companies formerly in the Standard Oil Eastern group averaged 255,916 barrels daily in January, compared with 241,920 in December and 259,094 in January, 1932.

Detroit Depositors Fail to Start Runs

No Hysteria Apparent as Banks Open Doors for Limited Payment.

Detroit, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Thirty million dollars was offered to Detroit's bank depositors today as financial institutions, closed since last Saturday along with others in the State, opened today to pay out 5 per cent for emergency purposes.

There was, however, a complete lack of crowds and excitement as the city's bank doors were thrown open. Indications were that only a part of the available money would be withdrawn. Bank tellers said that many came to obtain change and did not ask for withdrawals.

The Detroit Savings Bank, which announced it was prepared to pay any sum depositors wanted, saw no rush on the part of depositors to take advantage of the offer. W. L. Dunham, the president, said he was "somewhat surprised."

Virginia Utility Official Leaves for City Parleys

Richmond, Va., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Allen J. Saville, director of the State Corporation Commission's electric light and power rate investigation, left here today for Charlottesville, Staunton and Lynchburg to confer with municipal officials.

NEW YORK.

SUGAR—Raw; was firm early today with prices 2 points higher on both spots and forward shipment. Late yesterday a local refiner bought 15,000 bags of Puerto Rican due next Monday at 2.72, while today an operator paid 2.70 for 18,000 bags of Philippines for March-April shipment. There were further buyers at these prices, but offerings were light and generally held at slightly higher levels. Futures opened 1 to 3 points higher in response to higher London cables and the advance in the outside market. There was some liquidation and hedge selling on the return, but offerings were promptly absorbed by trade houses and further covering. The market worked another point higher during the later forenoon. March contracts after opening at 80 sold up to 81 while September advanced from 90 to 91. At noon the list was 2 to 3 points net higher. Advices from Cuba reported 78 mills in operation there. Refined was unchanged at 3.90 for fine granulated, with a fair inquiry reported.

COFFEE—Spot, Rio No. 7, 6¼; Santos No. 4, 9¼@9½; Rio futures closed barely steady; sales 4,000 bags; March, 5.58(n); May, 5.38(n); July, 5.07(n); September, 4.78(n); December, 4.76(n). Santos futures barely steady; sales 7,000 bags; March, 8.09(n; May, 7.71; July, 7.33; September, 7.08(n); December, 6.94(n).

1431 Eye Street Northwest.
TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE, BEING A TWO-STORY BRICK DWELLING CONTAINING FOUR ROOMS AND BATH, KNOWN AS 1940 L STREET NORTHEAST.

By virtue of a certain deed of trust recorded in Liber 6494 at folio 436 of the land records of the District of Columbia and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned will sell at public auction in front of the premises on TUESDAY, FEBRUARY TWENTY-FIRST, 1933, AT THREE-FIFTEEN O'CLOCK P. M., the following described land and premises situate in the District of Columbia, and being lot numbered eighty (80) in Richard P. O'Neill's subdivision of lots in square numbered Forty-four hundred seventy (4470), as per plat recorded in the office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia in Liber 78, at folio 38.

TERMS OF SALE: Said property is subject to a deed of trust securing an indebtedness of $2,500.00, and said property will be sold subject to said deed of trust indebtedness. All cash over and above said deed of trust. Interest and taxes to be paid or adjusted to date of sale. A deposit of $250.00 will be required at the time of sale. All conveyancing, recording, revenue stamps, &c., at the cost of the purchaser. Good title or no sale. Terms of sale to be complied with within (30) thirty days from day of sale, otherwise deposit will be forfeited and property resold at risk and cost of defaulting purchaser after five (5) days' advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C.

WILLIAM P. BENSON,
Surviving Trustee.

MOZAMBIQUE ISLAND, between Madagascar and East Africa, is without any source of fresh water except the rain. Early in the sixteenth century a strange water works was installed by which rain waters were impounded in a cistern for future use. This system is still in use.

The strawberry cactus of Southwestern America bears a brownish-red berry which tastes very much like the true strawberry. Under favorable conditions the cacti form closely packed beds a yard or more across, generously sprinkled at blossom time with brilliant blooms varying in color from bright red to deep purple.

Like most cacti, the strawberry cactus has sharp spines, growing even on the fruit. These are loosely jointed, however, and can be brushed off with little trouble.

Stilt-walking, the almost universal boyhood pastime, is the profession of Hi-Jack Redmond, Hollywood, Calif., who makes his living wandering around on 6-foot stilts. No novice in the stilt-walking business, Redmond just a few months ago completed his 55,000th mile. He has been at it for 31 years.

His longest day on stilts was 15 hours and 40 minutes. He covered 51 miles during the hike. As this was written Redmond was laying plans for a stilt-walking trip from Hollywood to New York and return—all in 1,000 hours.

Protection of Ears Stressed by Trible

Professor at G. U. Urges Careful Handling of Common Colds.

Necessity for protection of the ears in athletics, especially in swimming, was stressed by Dr. George B. Trible, professor of oto-laryngology at Georgetown University Medical School, in an illustrated lecture last night at the Central Young Men's Christian Association auditorium.

Dr. Trible pointed to the "universal presence of bacteria." He outlined general care of the ears, nose and throat and described the development of these organs.

He emphasized the importance of taking precautions against common colds. Preventive measures and immunization by vaccines also were discussed. The lecture was arranged by the Y. M. C. A. health education council and the District Medical Society. Ralph W. Foster presided.

Civitans to Fete Boys Society at Y. M. C. A.

An entertainment for members of the Civitan Boys Garden Club will be given at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, by the Civitan Club. Plans for the entertainment were announced at the club's meeting last night.

Special guests at the meeting included T. E. Likes, of Ashville, N. C., president of International Civitan; Harold Tschudi, Baltimore, past president; V. E. Purdy, New York, and Dr. W. H. Kilpatrick, of Columbia University, all of whom are participating in the conference here of service clubs on character building movements for youths.

P. U. C. MAY DIVULGE POWER RATES TODAY THAT SAVE $562,195

2 Proposed Scales Studied With Change to Take Effect Monday.

The Public Utilities Commission today or tomorrow will announce the 1933 electric rates carrying a direct saving of $411,964.64 and an indirect economy of $150,230.36, to become effective next Monday.

Two proposed schedules were submitted to the commission yesterday at a public hearing distinctive for its brevity, and the one which is more favorable to the domestic consumer is expected to be followed, with perhaps some modifications by the commission in fixing the new rates.

While the power company did not propose reducing the initial household rate, which has been cut each year since the consent decree was signed in 1924, it did propose substantial reductions within Schedule A, which serves the average household subscriber. The first proposal would cut $89,106 from the present rates by setting up the following schedule: 3.9 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 50 hours; 3.6 cents for the next 50, 2.9 cents for the next 50, and 2 cents for each kilowatt hour over 150.

Substantial Savings.

Schedule A at present charges 3.9 cents for the first 50 kilowatt hours, 3.8 cents for the next 50, and 3 cents for each hour in excess of 100.

The secondary proposal would cut but $48,108 from this schedule providing rates as follows: 3.9 cents for the first 50 hours, 3.8 cents for the next 50, 3 cents for the next 50, and 2 cents for all in excess of 150.

The largest saving would go to commercial consumers under Schedule D, and the next largest to the District government in a reduction of street-lighting charges.

Some 16,000 odd customers under Schedule D would save $208,562 under the first proposal of the power company and $249,723 under the second, which would transfer the difference in the domestic schedule to this bracket. These commercial rates would be 3.8 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 100 hours, 3.6 cents for the next 150, 3.1 cents for the next 3,200, and 2 cents for all in excess of 3,450. The alternative proposal is 3.8 cents for the first 100 hours, 3.6 cents for the next 150, 3.1 cents for the next 2,500, and 2 cents for all in excess of 2,750.

Other Proposed Changes.

A change in demand charges for wholesale commercial low-tension and high-tension service, known as Schedules E and L, is proposed. Under the new plan demand charges would be determined monthly instead of yearly, as at present.

The only other change in schedule E, which would effect a saving of $45,034, is a cut from 1.9 to 1.8 cents for the first 13,750 kilowatt hours. Schedule L's initial rate would be reduced from 1.5 to 1.4 cents for the first 13,750 hours.

Only $138,000 of the proposed reduction in street lighting charges will go to the District government, the remainder of the $150,230.36 going to the Federal Government and the State of Maryland. Rates on street lighting have not been cut in recent years proportionally to reductions in private brackets.

3.8 Per Cent Earned.

Less than 1,000 Maryland domestic consumers will save $1,652 under a schedule identical with that of schedule A for the District save the initial charge is 7.9 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 50 hours. Commercial customers will save $443 under a schedule similar to schedule D, save that the initial rate is 7.8 cents for the first 100 hours.

No changes were proposed in schedule K, which covers domestic uses other than lighting, or in schedules B, G and H, which serve commercial customers.

Byers McK. Bachman, commission accountant, testified that the company's rate base in 1932 was $58,728,031, on which it earned a net return of $5,170,304, or 8.8 per cent.

W. J. Tewes, a member of the Maryland Public Service Commission, sat with the District body.

OFFICER KILLS SELF; EIGHT NOTES FOUND

Claude W. Hamilton Says Financial Troubles Cause of Act.

Leaving five notes to his wife, one to the press and two others to friends, Claude W. Hamilton, 38-year-old warrant officer, United States Navy, shot himself in the head with a .25-caliber automatic while in his automobile parked on the Speedway about half a mile east of the railroad bridge yesterday afternoon. Passing motorists discovered the man slumped over the steering wheel and summoned the Fire Department Rescue Squad. He was rushed to Emergency Hospital, but died en route. The bullet passed through his right temple.

Left Home Wednesday.

According to Mrs. Christine Hamilton, the wife, he left their home, 4725 Fourth street northwest, Wednesday about noon with the intention of driving to Annapolis, Md., where he is stationed in the office of the paymaster of the Navy.

Investigation by Detective Sergt. John Wise, of the homicide squad, revealed the fact that Hamilton did not go to Annapolis, but registered at a local hotel, where he spent the night. The notes found on his person were on hotel stationery and apparently were written at the hotel.

Verdict Is Suicide.

The note to the press read as follows:

"For the press: Just good-by to my wife—and financial conditions are the reasons."

Contents of the other letters, which were sealed and addressed, were not divulged.

Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald, after investigation of the case, last night, issued a certificate of suicide.

The young warrant officer, who had been married 11 years, was a member of the Manor Country Club, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Atlantic Lodge, No. 2, of the Masons. He had no children.

Workers Who Charged Scale Evasion Repaid

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday announced that all former employes of the Industrial Engineering & Construction Co. who had applied for the money they invested in a realty venture have been paid in full.

Mr. Bride praised the readiness with which the contracting company's officials agreed to make reimbursements and pay the prevailing wages in cash after they were charged with evasion of the Bacon-Davis act.

TRAFFIC TOLL TO DATE.

Even though the comparative accident figures for the first 46 days of 1932 and 1933 show a decided increase in the number of accidents this year, death and injury figures are much lower than those recorded last year.

The figures are:

	1932	1933
Deaths	14	6
Injuries	453	431
Accidents	973	1,047

M'MILLAN AIR BILL HEARING IS CLOSED

Howard W. Smith Asserts He Favors Measure With Three Changes.

Following extensive hearings on the revised McMillan airport bill, at which every witness favored operation of Washington-Hoover Field as a District municipal airport, a subcommittee of the House District Committee yesterday took the measure under advisement.

Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee, made known that he personally favors the bill, provided three amendments are added. He will confer with other members of the subcommittee before a report is made to the full committee.

The amendments favored by Representative Smith would provide for another roadway around the airport, in case Military road is closed; that the site under no circumstances be purchased, and that all revenues be credited to the District rather than the Federal Government.

Witnesses favoring the project, with amendments, included Clarence A. Miller, representing the Washington Board of Trade; John F. Wynne, representing the Washington Chamber of Commerce; Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the board of commissioners of Arlington County, and Thomas G. W. Settle, of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Traffic Parking Signs Are Moved

Fate of Motorists Given "Emergency" Tickets Still Doubtful.

The traffic departmnet signs—"Emergency—No Parking"—have been removed from the south side of the triangle opposite the Municipal Building, presumably until an emergency arises.

Yesterday morning The Post called attention to the fact that motorists were receiving tickets for disobeying the signs—although no "emergency" was apparent.

What disposition will be made by police or court officials of the cases pending against at least nine motorists who were ticketed could not be learned yesterday.

Kate Smith's Sister Files Damage Suit

Asks $20,000 for Alleged Story She Weighs Only 90 Pounds.

Because she objected to being classified as being dependent upon her famous sister, Kate Smith, radio crooner, Helene Smith, 3133 Connecticut avenue, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a suit for $20,000 damages against Time Magazine.

An article allegedly said that Miss Helene Smith weighed 90 pounds, whereas, she says, she weighs 137 pounds. Also, the complainant said, she is not dependent upon her sister, but, to the contrary, is a stenographer in the Department of Justice. Because the article insinuated that she was only 90 pounds and was dependent upon her sister, who, the suit declared, weighs 212 pounds, the more slightly built of the Smith sisters claims she has been held up to public ridicule and her privacy has been invaded.

Attorney Henry A. Schweinhaut filed the suit.

HEARING ON WJSV IS HELD IN SECRET

Chamberlin, Engineer, Only Witness for Columbia Before Commission.

A hearing on interference between the United States Naval Research Laboratory station at Bellevue, D. C., and the new WJSV, located a mile away on Mount Vernon boulevard, on the opposite bank of the Potomac, was held by the Federal Radio Commission yesterday.

After the Columbia Broadcasting System had given testimony, legal counsel for the Navy Department asked that the Navy be allowed to present its case privately because of the secret nature of some of the matters to be discussed. Commissioner Eugene O. Sykes, acting chairman, said the commission was ready to proceed with the hearing and all spectators were asked to leave the room. The remainder of the hearing was conducted behind closed doors.

Chamberlin Witness.

The only witness for the Columbia Broadcasting System was A. B. Chamberlin, chief engineer, of New York. Mr. Chamberlin admitted he had entirely overlooked the fact that the Bellevue station was only a mile away. A copy of the application for a radio broadcast station construction permit was shown him, and he was asked whether he had noted the question about the number of non-broadcasting receiving stations located within 1, 2 or 3 mile distances of the proposed site.

He was then shown the application which Columbia had filed for the new WJSV transmitter, with the space where the answer that Bellevue was located within a mile should have appeared, left blank. He replied that the fact that Bellevue is so situated had been overlooked.

The only question involved in this hearing is one of interference caused by WJSV transmitter with the research work being conducted by the Navy Department.

The points to be decided are who is to blame for this powerful commercial broadcaster being built within the shadow of the Government's radio experimental laboratory, in which important short-wave investigations are being carried on, and in which millions are said to be invested, and what is to be done about it. Since the Naval Research Laboratory is permanently located, the only solution would seem to be further shielding of WJSV in an effort to minimize interference or the removal of the transmitter to a new site.

Notification Contended.

It is contended by the commission that the Navy Department is partly to blame because it had been fully notified that the new WJSV would be located on its present site. The Navy Department replied that the proper officials were not notified.

If the blame is put upon WJSV, the commission itself can not be entirely exonerated, because its engineers approved the choice of that bit of marshy land.

While the officials of Columbia will not discuss the matter until after the Federal Radio Commission has handed down its decision in the matter, it is quite likely that damages will be sought if WJSV is required to move, since Columbia had the sanction of the Federal Radio Commission when it located its transmitter on Mount Vernon Boulevard.

"Mardi Gras" Set At Food Exposition

Prizes Are Awarded to Two Babies in Contest at Auditorium.

The diversified products represented in the United Food Stores Exposition at the Washington Auditorium this week will literally "go on parade" in a "Mardi Gras" contest which will feature tonight's program at the food show.

With a handsome prize awaiting the winner, contestants will be attired in costumes representative of some product on exhibition in the show.

With nearly 90 youngsters to choose from, sponsors of the show were faced with difficulty yesterday in selecting a winner in the baby contest for infants between 2 and 3 years which marked the afternoon session. Finally the process of elimination reduced possible winners down to little Billie Watson aid Marian Weber. Unable to get beyond this point, the food show officials adjudged these "cowinners" and gave them both a prize.

HIGH SCHOOL CADETS WIN PARADE VICTORY AS FIGHT SUCCEEDS

Entire Corps to Participate in Inaugural After Plea to War Office.

The entire Washington High School Cadet Corps will be permitted to take part in the inaugural parade, it was announced last night by Col. E. M. Watson, chairman of the parade committee.

This decision represents a victory for local high school cadet enthusiasts, who took their fight to the War Department yesterday morning after the parade committee announced that they could make no change in the parade plans without ratification by Army officials.

Approval was given by the operations and training division of the chief of staff.

Through Mass Formation.

Col. Watson said that through mass formation the entire corps could be entered in the line of march without taking up any more marching time than that to be consumed by the other units.

Gratification over the decision of the parade committee was expressed by Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, in charge of cadets. However, private citizens and not school officials were responsible for the inclusion of the entire corps.

At the Board of Education meeting yesterday afternoon, plans for the skeletonized cadet representation were submitted by the students' activities committee and approved without discussion.

Attendance at Concert.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has accepted for herself and all of her family excepting the President-elect an invitation to attend the inaugural concert, which will be held at Constitution Hall on March 3 at 8:30 o'clock. This announcement, made by Huston Thompson, chairman of the general entertainment committee, places an official stamp upon the occasion, which will be marked by the appearance of Lawrence Tibbett, Rosa Ponselle, Efrem Zimbalist and the National Symphony Orchestra, under Hans Kindler, in a joint program.

Among the selections which will be played by the National Symphony Orchestra for the concert is "The Covered Wagon," by William H. Woodin, president of the American Car & Foundry Co. This choice means that two of Mr. Woodin's musical compositions will have official inaugural recognition since Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the inaugural committee, announced yesterday that the three service bands would play "Mr. Woodin's "Franklin Delano Roosevelt March" when they passed through the Court of Honor. Mr. Woodin's reputation as a composer has long equaled his success as a business man, and he is in addition a close friend of the President-elect.

Decorations at Auditorium.

The work of decorating the Washington Auditorium for the inaugural ball will begin some time next week under the direction of Admiral H. V. Butler, according to an announcement made yesterday by Mrs. John Allen Dougherty, chairman of the inaugural ball committee. Flags and bunting will all be placed in the hall before the work of constructing the boxes is begun. Mrs. Dougherty also announces that the poster committee, Frederic A. Whiting chairman, will meet Monday at inaugural ball headquarters, Hill Building to decide which of the more than a hundred competing posters is to be selected as the official one for the ball.

Placards advertising the Indian ball game and lacrosse match which is to be held at Central High School Stadium on the afternoon of March 3 have been placed in hotels and at 26 of the playgrounds. In addition to the inaugural ticket office and Spalding's, tickets have been placed on sale at both the hotels and the playgrounds.

Bloom Speaks Tonight.

Miss Sybil Baker, president of the Quota Club, has informed the general entertainment committee that her organization will have open house at international headquarters, 812 Seventeenth street, Sunday, March 5, from 4 to 6 p. m., for inaugural visitors.

The active cooperation of the Catholic churches of Washington in the plans of special observance of inaugural Sunday was assured yesterday by the Rev. John G. Cartwright, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church. Miss Mary E. Hughes addressed the Kiwanis Club yesterday on the general entertainment committee's plans in connection with the forthcoming ceremonies.

Seclusion

Two Students Will Tackle Sealed Problems for Paris Prize.

Two Catholic University architecture students will be handed a sealed problem and will be locked in separate rooms at 9 o'clock this morning to remain in complete seclusion until the same hour tomorrow morning.

Then they will emerge with the results of their 24 hours of concentrated work—completed plans and sketches which are to be submitted to the board of judges of the second preliminary to the Paris prize competition.

They are Paul A. Goettleman, of Washington, and Robert A. Weppner, jr., of Cleveland, Ohio, both graduates of the university and now special students in architecture.

The Paris prize is the most coveted of all prizes among architectural students. It provides the winner with a two and a half year scholarship in Europe. It was won by Dr. Thomas H. Locraft, a member of the university's teaching staff, in 1928.

DIME STORES' SALE OF PRODUCE RAPPED

Investigation Is Promised at Meeting of Federated Business Men.

An open warfare against the selling of meats, butter, eggs and other produce in five-and-ten-cent stores was declared last night by the Federation of Business Men's Associations.

Charging that these stores are using produce commodities as "leaders" and selling them at cost, members of the association declared that produce dealers were facing unfair competition and unrightfully being deprived of their business.

Belief also was expressed that five and ten cent stores may be violating the law in selling produce. It was pointed out that a special license is required for markets in the sale of meats and other perishable commodities.

Edward Thomas, assistant corporation counsel, who attended the meeting as guest speaker, stated he did not know whether the stores had obtained such licenses, but promised the association that the corporation counsel's office would make an immediate investigation to see whether the law was being violated.

The association also condemned the plan to use policemen from other cities during the inaugural ceremonies. It was contended that unemployed men of Washington should be given work as special policemen during the ceremonies.

Honor Rack Thefts Cost Guilty 7 $55

Six Men and One Woman Convicted of Stealing Newspapers.

Fines and forfeited collateral amounting to $55 were collected in Police Court yesterday when six colored men and one woman, also colored, were arraigned in Police Court on charges of taking newspapers from an honor rack at Ninth and R streets northwest.

Four of them forfeited $10 collateral each and the remaining three were fined $5 each when they were tried by Judge Isaac R. Hitt.

Newspaper route agents said the rack, containing 32 papers, had been yielding only from 5 to 10 cents a day.

Georgetown U. Debaters Will Meet Manhattan

A debate on the question of free trade as a world commercial policy will be held tonight at Georgetown College between teams representing the Gaston Society of Georgetown and Manhattan College of New York.

Georgetown will uphold free trade, its team consisting of David Power, of Massachusetts; Lawrence H. Cooke, of New York, and John S. McKenney, of Massachusetts. The team from Manhattan is composed of Arthur Nicholson, Howard Breslin and Edward Mergardt, all of New York. In its first intercollegiate debate this season, the Gaston team of Georgetown defeated Yale University debaters.

STRONG CONTENDERS IN '33 PLAY CONTEST STAGED AT EASTERN

Highness and Tea for a Lady Receive Many Rounds of Deserved Applause.

Two strong contenders for prizes in the 1933 one-act play tournament appeared in the second round of the contest last night at Eastern High School.

"Highness," the offering of the Montgomery Players, is, to use the vernacular, "a knock out." So powerful a one, in fact, that the judges will have a task to decide between this splendidly sustained picture of life today in Soviet Russia and "Retribution," picked by many as the best offering on the first night of the tournament preliminaries.

The other outstanding presentations came from the "Workshop," a comedy entitled "Tea for a Lady." Two other plays offered last night were "The Trysting Place," by Booth Tarkington, given by the Mount Pleasant Players, and "Elisha, the Prophet of God," the entry of the Young People's Society of the First Congregational Church.

Deserves High Praise.

The "Trysting Place" revealed moments of good acting—especially by young Charles Collingwood, but the piece is placed in the background by the two top-notchers, already mentioned. The religious play deserves high praise for its beauty of costuming, simplicity of staging and fine sincerity on the part of the cast. It was well received.

For good casting, smooth direction and all around fine acting, Highness is one of the best pieces of work offered by local thespians in many a moon. Jane Plummer Rice, as the embittered charwoman under the Communistic regime, makes a bid for the acting honors in the tournament; and her swift transformation before the audience from the drab garb of her trade to the gorgeous gown of a lady of an extinct nobility, was an accomplishment which deserved every bit of applause it received, and more. Superb contributions are given by Ralph W. Smith, Ralph S. Fowler and Eleanor Coates Teitman. Martha Williams was responsible for the direction.

Revolt Against Communism.

The play brings together within the office of the Kremlin in Moscow, three members of the subjugated aristocracy. The work is significant for the light it throws on the other side of the Communistic argument. It is, in brief, a revolt against Communism by Communists, propelled to a depth of despair by Ann's prophetic words, "What you're born to be you'll always be—on the inside, anyway."

Tea with a Wicked Lady sweeps forward on the shining stream of light comedy—so often a treacherous waterway for amateurs. Wilma Wright Flood, as the maid, is another challenger for acting honors. Ruth Harsha McKenzie, the director, is to be congratulated on her careful choice of players—Paul Walter as the husband, Naoma Worden as the wicked lady, and Marvin Beers as the butler.

The next group of plays in the tournament will be offered tomorrow night at Eastern High.

Defense in Killing Loses Trial Point

Alleged Statements Made in Watchman's Death Will Be Read.

Alleged statements made by Joe Goodman and George M. Pitmond, both colored, after their arrest in connection with the murdering of William Simms, elderly colored night watchman of the Dickey Brothers feed store, at Benning, D. C., will be read to the jury in the court of Chief Justice A. A. Wheat Monday when their murder trial is resumed.

Chief Justice Wheat adjourned the trial yesterday after a day spent in wrangling over admissions made by Pitmond and Goodman when they were arrested. Over the protests of Defense Attorneys Harry Whelan and E. Russell Kelly, the statements were offered in evidence.

Pitmond and Goodman are charged with murdering Simms on the night of January 23 when they asked him to admit them to the Dickey Brothers feed store office to warm themselves. Simms, an autopsy showed, had been beaten over the head with an ax. There were eleven wounds in his head.

Columbia Heights Association Dines

Maj. Brown and Offutt Are Honor Guests of Business Group.

George W. Offutt, former president of the Washington Board of Trade, and Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, were guests of honor last night at the eighth annual dinner dance of the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association in the New Amsterdam Hotel, Fourteenth and Fairmont streets northwest.

Mr. Offutt, in a brief talk, lauded Maj. Brown and his department and cited the "hunger march" invasion as the greatest test of his career. The Christmas celebration in Columbia Heights was pointed out as an indication of better times.

Other guests included Capt. Ira Sheetz, commanding the Tenth Precinct; the Right Rev. George Flake Dudley, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, and Inspector B. A. Lamb, of the Traffic Bureau.

Marriage Clause Repeal Asked by Women's Party

Repeal of the married persons' clause of the economy act at this session of Congress was asked last night by the Government workers' committee of the National Women's party. It was contended that the clause is unjust, unnecessary and injurious to the Government service.

The clause provides in case of dismissals married persons whose husbands or wives are in the service shall be selected for dismissal in preference to single persons or persons whose husbands or wives are not in the service.
